PREFACE

The sixth edition of Harper's ELEMENTS OF HEBREW appeared in 1885. Since that time it has served the needs of large numbers of students beginning the study of Hebrew, and has gained for itself a secure position among elementary text-books. But during the past thirty-five years much progress has been made in the study of Hebrew grammar, of which Harper's ELEMENTS remained unaware. The late President Harper himself was, of course, fully conscious of this, and frequently expressed his eagerness to bring out a new edition of the ELEMENTS. The pressure of official duties, however, and his premature death denied him this privilege.

The value of the Harper manner of approach to the study of Hebrew has been so clearly demonstrated in the experience of successive generations of students that the perpetuation of the text-books in which it is embodied seems called for. To this end the present revision has been undertaken. Effort has been made to preserve the form and method of the original as far as possible. The changes incorporated in the new edition are only such as seem demanded by the present status of our knowledge of Hebrew and Semitic grammar. The more important of these changes may be noted here.

(1) The half-open syllable has been eliminated, as was suggested by Sievers (Metrische Studien, vol. I, p. 22), and approved by Gesenius-Kautzsch (Hebr. Grammatik, 28th ed., 1909). (2) A beginning has been made along the line of bringing Hebrew grammar into accord with the results of the modern study of phonetics. This involves some marked changes in the treatment of the Hebrew vowel-system; but it seems well to make this departure, even in a book for beginners, since beginners are entitled to protection from known errors; and further because many students in our best colleges are learning the newer phonetic principles and will welcome them as old friends when they find them in this new field. (3) A frank acceptance has been accorded the biliteral explanation of the so-called ע"ע and י"ע verbs and nouns. This point of view seems more nearly in accordance with the facts, and likewise makes the study of these forms simpler for beginners. The biliteral hypothesis has not been carried as far here as it might well be in a more advanced grammar, its application being confined to the more apparent cases, for the sake of simplicity.

It remains to express my sense of obligation to two of my colleagues. Professor Ira Maurice Price has read the work both in manuscript and in proof, and has done much to insure accuracy in printing. To Professor Martin Sprengling, who read the book in manuscript, I am especially grateful for numerous and valuable suggestions, the acceptance of which will, I trust, greatly increase the worth of the book. Its errors are my own; I cannot hope to have escaped error in the presentation of a subject beset with so much that is problematical. "To err is human; to forgive, divine!" I can hope only that the present edition may give a new lease of life to this work of my greatest teacher.

J. M. POWIS SMITH.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO, Jan. 1, 1921.

PREFACE TO THE SIXTH EDITION

The first edition of the ELEMENTS was issued in July, 1881; the second, in October, 1882; the third, in February, 1883; the fourth, in November, 1883; the fifth, in November, 1884. All these editions, the first excepted, were printed from one set of plates, with only such changes and additions, from time to time, as the use of the same plates would permit. The peculiar circumstances of publication explained, although they could not excuse, the incomplete, and often imperfect, treatment accorded in these editions to very many of the subjects. While the present edition lays no claim to completeness, or to freedom from error, it will certainly be found more nearly complete and perfect than preceding editions. The author can only regret that regular and special duties of a most exacting nature, have not permitted him to give that amount of time, or that attention to the preparation of the book, which justice to the subject, to those who may use the book, and to himself, demanded.

The present edition, which contains nearly one hundred additional pages, and is entirely re-written, differs considerably from the former editions, and radically from other grammars now in common use. Some of the distinguishing features of the grammar deserve, perhaps, special mention:

1) For the purpose, not of aiding the beginner to pronounce, but of teaching the exact force and value of the several consonant- and vowel-sounds, a minute system of transliteration has been employed, by which the attention of the student is directed from the very beginning to the details of the vowel-system. Too little, by far, is made in Hebrew study, of the vowel-system, without a correct knowledge of which all effort is merely groping in darkness.

2) A tolerably exhaustive treatment, more complete perhaps than any that has yet appeared in English, is given of the various vowel-sounds. Each sound is treated separately, the laws which regulate its occurrence and the grammatical forms in which it appears being carefully noted.

3) Certain important distinctions, not heretofore generally recognized by American teachers, are indicated throughout the grammar; e. g., (a) the tone-long é (ֶ), heightened from ä, which is seen in Segholates, in הִלְּ Imperfects and Participles, and elsewhere; (b) the naturally long e (ֵ) contracted from ay, which occurs in plural nouns before the pronominal suffixes הֵ, הֶ, and in certain Imperfects before הֵ; (c) the ô obscured from â, as distinguished from the ô = aw.

4) Instead of adopting a new Paradigm-word for each class of weak verbs, the verb קטל is retained, with such variation as the particular weak verb under consideration demanded; e. g., עטל for the פ guttural verb, קטט for the ע"ע verb, קול for the ן"ע verb. There can be no objection to this method. Many grammarians have adopted it in the treatment of noun-formation. Experience has shown that, in this way, men learn the verb more rapidly and more thoroughly.

5) In the treatment of the strong verb, the student is referred, in every case, to the primary form or ground-form from which the form in use has arisen in accordance with the phonetic laws of the language. That treatment which starts with stems having the form which occurs in the Perf. 3 m. sg., or Impf. 3 m. sg., is, at the same time, unscientific and unsatisfactory. The bugbear of Hebrew grammar is the weak verb. Nor will it be otherwise so long as the effort is made to explain the forms of weak verbs from those of the strong verb. How absurd, for example, to derive יקום from a form like יקטל; but how simple to derive it from a form like יקטל, the ground-form of יקטל. Together with the form in use, the student should learn also the primary form from which the usual form is derived. This method will furnish a knowledge of the language, which will be not only more scientific, but also more lasting.

6) Particular attention is given to the subject of noun-formation, and on this is based the treatment of noun-inflection. The same method which would teach the primary forms of verbal stems, will also teach the primary forms of noun-stems.

7) That fiction of Hebrew grammarians, the connecting-vowel, has been practically discarded. The Hebrew has no connecting-vowels. The vowels incorrectly called connecting-vowels are the relics of old case- or stem-endings. These case- or stem-endings, summarily disposed of in current grammars under the head of "paragogic" vowels, are restored to the position which their existence and occurrence demand.

But it is asked, What has a beginner to do with all this? Why should a grammar which proposes only to consider the "elements" of the language, take up these subjects? While this may do for specialists, of what service is it to him who studies Hebrew only for exegetical purposes? Our reply is this:—

1) The experiment of teaching men something about Hebrew grammar, of giving them only a superficial knowledge, has been tried for half a century; and it has failed. Men instructed in this manner take no interest in the study, learn little or nothing of the language, and forget, almost before it is learned, the little that they may have acquired. If for no other reason, the adoption of a new system is justified by the lamentable failure of the old to furnish any practical results.

2) Those who take up the study of Hebrew are men, not children. Why should they not learn, as they proceed, the explanation of this or that fact? Why should the student be told that the Infinitive Construct (קִטַּל) is formed from the Absolute (קִטַּל) by rejecting the pretonic qāmēç? Is it not better that he should learn at once that the \bar{o} of the Construct is from \check{u} , while the \hat{o} of the Absolute is from \hat{a} , and thus be enabled to grasp all the more firmly those two great phonetic laws of the language, heightening and obscuration?

3) The best way, always, to learn a thing is the right way, even if, at first, it is more difficult. If there is a difference between the \bar{o} of the Imperfect, Imperative and Infinitive Construct on the one hand, and the \hat{o} of the Infinitive Absolute and Participles on the other, what is gained by passing over it in silence?

4) In order to learn any subject, the student must be interested in that subject. Is he not more likely to be interested in an accurate, scientific treatment, than in an arbitrary, superficial treatment?

The treatment adopted in the ELEMENTS is an inductive one, so far as it was possible to make it such. In the discussion of each subject there are first given sufficient data, either in the way of words taken from the text, or of Paradigms, to form a basis for the work. The words cited are from the early chapters of Genesis, with which the student is supposed to be familiarizing himself, as the subjects are being taken up. Where these chapters furnished no suitable example, a word is taken from some other book, the chapter and verse being cited in each case. It is intended that the student shall feel in all his work that he is dealing with the actual facts of the language, and not with hypothetical forms. After the presentation of the "facts," the principles taught by these facts are stated as concisely as possible. While the book is an elementary treatise and, for this reason, does not aim to take up the exceptions and anomalies of the language, it will be found to contain a treatment of all that is essential, and to include everything of importance which can be classified. In the treatment of the strong and weak verbs, a list is given under each class of the more important verbs belonging to this class. This list may be used as an exercise, or merely for handy reference.

The author lays no claim to originality so far as concerns the material employed; there is indeed little room for originality in this line. In the matter, however, of arrangement, and of statement, he confidently believes that a kind of help is here afforded the student which cannot be found elsewhere.

In the work of preparation, the best and latest authorities have been freely used. Special acknowledgment is due the grammars of Bickell, Gesenius (Kautzsch), and Davidson; but valuable aid has been received from those of Green, Nordheimer, Kalisch, Land, Ewald, Olshausen, König, Stade, and Böttcher.

For his assistance in the preparation of the manuscript for the printer, and for many valuable suggestions, the author is indebted to Mr. Frederic J. Gurney, of Morgan Park. He desires also to express his thanks to Mr. C. E. Crandall, of Milton, Wis., for aid rendered by him in the verification of references and in the revision of the proof-sheets, and to Rev. John W. Payne, of Morgan Park, Ill., for the skill and care exhibited in the typographical finish and accuracy of the book. He is under obligations, still further, to Professors C. R.

Brown, of Newton Centre, S. Burnham, of Hamilton, E. L. Curtis, of Chicago, and F. B. Denio, of Bangor, for useful suggestions and corrections.

It is generally conceded that in America we are on the eve of a great revival in the department of Semitic study. It is the author's hope that this volume may contribute something toward this greatly needed awakening. Trusting that the new edition may be received with the same favor as those which have preceded it, and that its shortcomings will be as far as possible overlooked, he places the book, although with many misgivings, in the hands of those who favor the Inductive Method.

1. The Hebrew language has twenty-two letters; these are consonants and are written from right to left.

2. The vowels in the "names" of the letters, given above, are sounded according to the English equivalents given in § 5. The "equivalents" for the consonants given above are rather to be regarded as symbols suggestive of the characters they represent than as exact reproductions.

3. The equivalent of each sign is the initial letter of its name.

4. The six consonants written with a dot in them are also written without the dot; but then they are changed in pronunciation, viz.,

ב = v; ג = ĝ; ד = đ; כ = χ; פ = f; ת = θ; see § 12.

2. Remarks on the Pronunciation of Letters

1. אַת = 'ēθ (1:1)¹; הָאָרֶץ = hā-'ā-rēs (1:1); אֱלֹהִים = 'lō-hīm (1:1); תְּהוֹם = θ'hôm (1:2).
2. עַל = 'āl (1:2); עֵרֶב = 'ē-rēv (1:5); רְקִיעַ = rā-kī(ā)' (1:6).
3. אָהָד = 'ē-ḥād (1:5); חֶשֶׁךְ = ḥō-šēχ (1:2); מְרַחֵף = m'rā-ḥē-fēθ (1:2).
4. קָרָא = kâ-râ' (1:5); כִּי = kî (1:4); בָּקָר = bō-kēr (1:5).
5. טוֹב = tōv (1:4); מִתְּחַת = mīt-tā-ḥāθ (1:7); הַקָּטָן = ḥāk-kâ-tōn (1:16).
6. בְּרֵאשִׁית = b'rē'-šīθ (1:1); וַיַּעַשׂ = wāy-yā-'āś (1:7); חֶשֶׁךְ = ḥō-šēχ (1:2).
7. עַץ = 'ēs (1:11); תּוֹעֵא = tō-šē' (1:12); יֹסֵגָר = yīs-gōr (2:21).
8. וַאֲתָ = w'ēθ (1:1); וְבָהוּ = wā-vō-hū (1:2); וְרוּחַ = w'rū(ā)ḥ (1:2).

1. א (') is a laryngeal stop, made by bringing the edges of the larynx together, thus shutting off the emission of the breath; ה (h) is a "rough breathing," like h in how.

2. ע (') is a sound peculiar to the Semitic and made far down in the larynx; it is so difficult of utterance that no attempt is made to reproduce it here.

3. ח (h) was a deep laryngeal; it is now generally pronounced like ch in the German Buch.

4. ק (k) is a k-sound, but pronounced farther back on the palate than כ (k).

5. ט (t) is a dental sound made with the tip of the tongue higher up than in the pronunciation of ת (t)².

6. שׁ (š) is pronounced like the English sh; שׁ (ś) is an ordinary s-sound, now indistinguishable from ס (s).

7. צ (š) is a sharp hissing s-sound; more emphatic than the ordinary ס (s).

8. ן (w) is pronounced like w in water, and not like our v.

9. The spirant ך (χ) is pronounced like weak German ch in Kirche.

10. The spirant ם (ğ) is pronounced like g in German Tage.

² In ordinary practice, ט and ת are scarcely, if at all, to be distinguished.

3. Remarks on the Forms of Letters

1. פְּרֵאשִׁית בְּרֵא אֱלֹהִים אֶת הַשָּׁמַיִם וְאֶת הָאָרֶץ (1:12) | פְּנִי (1:2) | פְּנִי (1:2) | אֱלֹהִים (1:1) | כִּי (1:4) | עֵץ (1:11) | עוֹף (1:20) | בֵּין (1:4) | הַמַּיִם (1:2) | חֶשֶׁךְ (1:2) |
2. דָּרָךְ (3:24); פְּנִי (1:2); בְּרֵגַת (1:28); כּוֹכָבִים (1:16); יָרַע (1:11); וַיְהִי (1:3); בֵּין (1:4); הָיְתָה (1:2); חֶשֶׁךְ (1:2); יוֹם (1:5); יָסַגְר (2:21); מִים (1:2); טוֹב (1:4); רָקִיעַ (1:6); עֵשֶׂב (1:11); חֶשֶׁךְ (1:4); תּוֹצֵא (1:12);

1. Words are written from right to left, and may not be divided; when it is necessary to fill out a line, certain letters (א, ל, ה, נ) are extended.

2. Five letters (כ, מ, נ, פ, צ) have two forms; the second (ך, ם, ף, ץ) is used at the end of words.

3. Certain letters, very similar in form, are to be carefully distinguished: ב, כ; ג, כ; ד, ר; ה, ח; ו, י; ט, ן; ז, ש; ע, צ; פ, ף.

4. The Classification of Letters

	Labials.	Labio-Dentals.	Dentals.	Palatals.	Velars.	Laryngeals

Hebrew words consist of consonants and vowels as in all other languages. The use of the breath is fundamental in the production of these sounds. Vowels are produced by the relatively free, unobstructed emission of the breath, the modifications of vowel-sound being caused by varying positions of the vocal organs. Consonants, on the other hand, involve either a total or a partial obstruction of the breath. The Hebrew consonants, therefore, are classified on two bases: (1) the use of the breath in their production, (2) the vocal organs employed.

1. The first classification includes five groups of sounds:

a. The Stops which involve a complete stoppage of the breath.

b. The Fricatives produced by the friction of the breath escaping through some narrow passage.

Remark.—The Fricatives כ, ג, ר, ז, ש, ת may for convenience be designated spirants.

c. The Nasal sounds in which the breath is emitted through the nose.

d. The Lateral sound (ל l) in which the breath escapes along openings on one or both sides of the tongue.

e. The Rolled sound (ר r) in which the tongue rapidly taps the teeth or the ridge of the teeth, thus successively obstructing and freeing the passage of air.

2. The second classification, based on the organs of speech employed, falls into six sub-divisions:

a. The Labials proper involve the closing or partial closing of the lips.

b. The Labio-Dentals, a special variety of labials, are made by allowing the breath to escape with the front teeth placed upon the lower lip.

c. The Dentals are made with the tip of the tongue touching, or in close proximity to, the front teeth. Of these some bring the tip of the tongue close to the front teeth, or in contact with them, while with others the contact or approach is a little farther back on the tongue. The difference between ב and ב, ת and ת, ג and ג, ש and ש, ר and ר, ז and ז is that in the stops the breath is fully checked, while in the spirants the breath is allowed a partial outlet.

d. The Palatal consonant (ʎ__y) involves the approach toward the highest part of the palate of that part of the tongue which is opposite the top of the palate.

e. The Velars involve contact between the tongue and the soft palate (velum). Of these ʁ is made the farthest back.

f. The Laryngeals involve action of the larynx which is not as yet clearly understood.

Note 1.—A third classification is generally recognized by students of phonetics: viz., voiced and unvoiced consonants. The former involve vibration of the vocal cords, the latter do not. Examples of voiced consonants are ʒ, ʝ, and of unvoiced, ʒ̥, ʝ̥. But for further details of phonetics the student may refer to G. Noël-Armfield, General Phonetics for Missionaries and Students of Languages (Cambridge: Heffer & Sons, 1915).

II. Vowels

5. The Vowel-Signs¹

1. מַבְּ, חַתְּ, הַמְּ, עַלְּ, מְּ, הַשְּׁ; וְּ, חַהְּ, אֶּ, הֶּ, שֶׁ, רָא, בְּ.
2. יֵשׁ, לֵם, מֶק, מֶת, יֶק, יֵם; נִי, דִיל, כִי, הִי, הִים, שִית.
3. שֶר, קֶר, רֶב, פֶת, שֶךְ, רֶץ; שֵׁ, מְּ, בִין, דֶל, נִי, רֶ.
4. יֵל, יֶק, רֶם, לֶק, כֶל; דֶו, בֶו, צֶו, יֶו, וֶו, רֶו, הֶו.
5. עֶב, אֶךְ, שֶם, כֶל-; שֶל, תֶ-, לֶ-, אֶוּר, יֶום, הֶום.
6. הֶּ, יֶךְ, הֶּ, אֶּ, עֶּ, אֶּ; מְּ, תֶּ, פֶּ, יֶּ, וְּ, בְּ.

1. ׀ is pronounced as ä in äll; ׀- like ä in class.

2. ׀ is pronounced as i in machine; ׀- (i. e., without a following ׀), as i in pin.²

3. ׀ or ׀ is pronounced as ey in they; ׀ as e in met.

4. ׀ is pronounced as oo in moon; ׀- as u in put.²

5. ׀ or ׀- is pronounced as o in note; ׀- practically the same as ä in äll, the same sign being used for both sounds.

6. a. ׀ is a very quickly uttered sound, as e in below, when the word is pronounced rapidly, so as to slur over the e and run the b and l almost (but not quite) together; thus—b'low, not below, nor blow; p^elice, not police, nor plice.

b. ׀ (a combination of ׀ and ׀-) is a little fuller in sound than ׀-, and with a slight ä quality.

c. ׀ (a combination of ׀ and ׀-) is a little fuller in sound than ׀-, and with a slight ě quality.

d. ׀ (a combination of ׀ (ö) and ׀-) is a little fuller in sound than ׀-, and with a slight ä or ö quality.

6. The Vowel-Letters¹

Before the introduction³ of vowel-signs (§ 5.), certain weak consonants, אֶּ, הֶּ, וְּ, יֶּ, were sometimes used to indicate the vowel-sounds, and hence were called vowel-letters:

¹ All letters in Hebrew are consonants; the alphabet contains no vowels. To supply the lack of vowels the above system of vowel-signs was introduced.

³ These signs were introduced between the sixth and eighth centuries A. D.

1. קאם¹ = kām; היתה = hâ-y^oθâ (1:2); היה = hây-yâ (1:20).
2. תהו = θō-hû (1:2); רוח = rû(â)ḥ (1:2); היו = hâ-yû (1:15);
 אור = 'ôr (1:3); טוב = ṭôv (1:4); יום = yôm (1:5).
3. אלהים = 'elô-hîm (1:1); ראשית = rē'-šîθ (1:1); שלישי = š'li-šî (1:13); פני = p^onê (1:2); שני = š^onê (1:16); בין = bēn (1:4).
4. יהיה = yîh-yê (1:29); מקוה = miḵ-wê (1:10); אהלה =
 'ôh^o-lô (12:8).

1. The a-sound was indicated, when medial, by the laryngeal א; when final, by the laryngeal ה.

Note 1.—Medial a (â or â) was indicated rarely; final â was generally, though not uniformly, indicated.²

Note 2.—The letter א, when the final letter of a root, does not belong here; since, in this case, it is not a vowel-letter, but has merely lost its consonantal character.

2. The sounds û and ô were indicated by ך.

Note.—Medial û and ô were generally indicated; final û and ô were always indicated.

3. The sounds î and ê were indicated by ם.

Note.—Medial î and ê were generally indicated; final î and ê were always indicated.

4. The sounds ê and ô, when final, were frequently indicated by ך.

Note 1.—Only long vowels were thus indicated, and, with but few exceptions, besides â, only the naturally long (§ 30.) vowels.

Note 2.—Vowels indicated thus are said to be written fully; when not thus indicated, they are said to be written defectively.

Note 3.—Briefly stated, the use of the vowel-letters may thus be put:

The vowels î and ê, medial and final, are represented by.....ם.

The vowels û and ô, medial and final, are represented by.....ך.

Final vowels, except î and û, are represented by.....ך.

Note 4.—In the later books of the Old Testament the full writing is more common than in the earlier books, the tone-long vowels (§ 31.) being often thus represented.

² Cf. קָלָה (3:10); אֲמָרָה (3:11).

7. The Classification of the Vowel-Sounds

The primary vowel-sounds in Hebrew are represented by the three vowels ä (→), ĭ (←), and ů (↔). Of these ä is made with the widest opening of the vocal organs; ĭ is made with a narrower opening and with the breath striking the front of the hard palate; ů is also made with a narrow opening, but farther back in the mouth, and with rounding of the lips.

Closely related to the foregoing are five other sounds, viz., ě (↔), ē (↔), â (↔), ǒ (↔), and ō (↔). Of these, ě is midway between ä and ĭ, and may arise from either by deflection. Likewise â and ǒ are midway between ä and ů, and are so closely alike as to be represented by the same sign; â comes from ä under the influence of the tone by a rounding of the lips, while ǒ comes from ů without tonal influence by a lowering of the back of the tongue, which produces a greater opening as for the ä sounds—this may also be designated as deflection. The remaining two vowels, ē and ō, arise from ĭ and ů, respectively, under the influence of the tone; each of them is made farther back on the palate than its corresponding short vowel. Hence we shall speak of ē and ō as lowered respectively from ĭ and ů.

In addition to these vowel-sounds, there are two other classes, viz., those made by lengthening the primary vowel-sounds and those made by reducing them to their lowest terms.

The naturally long vowels are of three classes, viz., (1) those arising from contraction, e. g., ä + w = ô; (2) those arising in compensation for the quiescence or loss of a consonant, e. g., in אֵל the א has quiesced causing ä to become â, which was then rounded to ô; (3) those which acquired their length in the earliest stages of the language and are found as characteristic of certain formations, e. g., the ô of the קָל active participle which has been rounded from â.

The reduced vowels are of two classes, viz., (1) the simple Šwâ which is a neutral sound to which any one of the short vowels may be reduced, and (2) the compound Šwâ which has a distinct form for each of the three short vowels, viz., שְׁוֹ from ä, שְׁוִי from ĭ, and שְׁוִי from ů.

The vowel-sounds, therefore, may be classified according to (1) their organic formation, (2) their quantity, (3) their nature, (4) their value:

1. Classified according to their organic formation, they are:
 - a. A-class, including the a-vowels and those derived from them.
 - b. I-class, including the i-vowels and those derived from them.
 - c. U-class, including the u-vowels and those derived from them.
2. Classified according to their quantity, they are:

	a -class.	i -class.	u -class.
a. Short ,	— ̄	̄ ̄	̄ ̄(ö)
b. Long ,	̄	̄, ̄ or ̄, ̄	̄, ̄ or ̄
c. Reduced ,	̄ ̄	̄ ̄	̄ ̄

Note.—The vowels — and ̄ are sometimes called doubtful; because, not infrequently, they are the defective writing of a long vowel.

3. Classified according to their origin or nature, they are:

a. Pure	ă;	ĩ;	ű.
b. Deflected	ě from ă;	ě from ĩ;	ő from ű.
c. Attenuated	ĩ from ă;
d. Tone-Long	â from ă;	ē from ĩ;	ō from ű.
e. Naturally Long	{ â; ô from â;	{ î; ê; ê (= ̄ or ̄)	{ û. ô.

f. Reduced ° and °; ° and °; ° and °.

4. Classified according to their value in inflection, they are:

a. Changeable—viz., (1) all short vowels not followed by a consonant in the same syllable; (2) tone-long; (3) reduced.

b. Unchangeable—viz., (1) short vowels followed by a consonant in the same syllable; (2) naturally long.

Note.—Changeable and unchangeable here apply only to changes of quantity, not of quality.

8. The Names of the Vowels

The following table presents the arrangement of the vowel-sounds according to their quantity (§ 7. d), and at the same time gives the technical name of each sound.

Class.	Long.			Short.			Reduced.
	Ɀ	â, ă	Ḳāmēš	Ɀ	ă	Păθăḥ	Ɀ	ē	Simple Ṣ̌wâ
A-Class.	Ɀ	ê	Ṣġôl	Ɀ	ă	Păθăḥ	Ɀ	ē	Simple Ṣ̌wâ
	Ɀ	ê	Ṣġôl	Ɀ	ă	Păθăḥ	Ɀ	ē	Hâṭēf-Păθăḥ
I-Class.	Ɀ	î	Ḥîrēḳ	Ɀ	î	Ḥîrēḳ	Ɀ	ē	Simple Ṣwâ
	Ɀ	ê, ē	Ṣ̌ērê	Ɀ	ě	Ṣġôl	Ɀ	ē	Hâṭēf-Ṣġôl
U-Class.	Ɀ	û	Ṣ̌ûrēḳ	Ɀ	ű	Ḳîbbûš	Ɀ	ē	Simple Ṣ̌wâ
	Ɀ	ô, ô	Ḥôlēm	Ɀ	ö	Ḳāmēš-Hâṭûf	Ɀ	ē	Hâṭēf-Ḳāmēš

9. Simple and Compound Ṣ̌wâ

1. ׀ originally ׀; ׀ originally ׀; רְקִיעַ (1:15), but רְקִיעַ (1:6).
2. אֲשֶׁר (1:7); יְעֹבֵב־ (2:24); אֱלֹהִים (1:1); מוֹעֲדִים (1:14); לְקַחָהּ (2:23).

1. Simple Ṣ̌wâ (Ɀ) is a neutral sound which may arise from any of the short vowels and represents the minimum of vowel-sound. (For transliteration and pronunciation see § 5. f.)

2. Compound Ṣ̌wâ (Ɀ, Ɀ, Ɀ) is a more audible sound than simple Ṣ̌wâ (§ 5. 6. b. c. d.), and is found, instead of simple Ṣ̌wâ, chiefly under laryngeals. Each of the three classes of vowels has its own distinctive compound Ṣ̌wâ.

10. Vocal Ṣ̌wâ

1. בְּרֵאשִׁית (1:1); תְּהוֹם (1:2); הַיְיָתָה (1:2); יִשְׂרָאֵל (1:20).
2. וַיְהִי = wăy-hî (1:3); בְּרִקִיעַ = bîr-ḳî(ă) (1:15); מִלְאוֹ = mîl-'û (1:28); בְּדַגַּת = bîd-găṭh (1:28); וַיִּכַּל = wăy-ḳăl (2:2); עֲבַדְהָ = 'öv-dăḥ (2:15).
3. יְעֹבֵב־ = yă'a-zöb (2:24); לְקַחָהּ = lŭḳo-ḥă (2:23); יַעֲלֶה = yă'a-lê (2:6).

1. Vocal Ṣ̌wâ is always initial, i. e., it goes with the following vowel to form a syllable.

2. Certain forms in which Ṣ̌wâ seems to waver between two syllables, and is consequently called medial by many grammarians, are to be treated as follows:

a. Forms with wāw-conversive (§ 70.), where the dāḡēš-förtē has disappeared, were originally pronounced like wāy-y^ehî; but with the loss of the second yōd the vocal Š^ewâ also disappeared; hence such forms are better pronounced as wāy-hî, etc., ay being treated as a diphthong.

b. Similarly Š^ewâ is silent in such forms with prefixed prepositions as bîr-ḳî(ă) and lim-'ô-rôθ and in forms like mil-'û.

Note.—This pronunciation is attested by such forms as לְנַפֵּל¹ and הַשְּׁפִי.² That there was more or less variation in such cases, however, is clear from the variation in the use of dāḡēš-lēnē in spirants after such a Š^ewâ, from the fact that the Hebrew uses the same sign for a vocal Š^ewâ and a silent Š^ewâ, and from the testimony of the transliterations in the older strata of the Septuagint (§ 11.). Cf. similar variations in spoken English, e. g., tol-e-ra-ble and tol-r^eble, con-side-ra-ble and con-sid-r^eble; ath-letic and ath-e-letic.

c. In such forms as יַעֲזֹב, etc., the Š^ewâ is only a helping vowel and does not affect the general situation; cf. the similar situation in such forms as שְׁלַחַת, where the coming in of paθah-furtive does not increase the number of syllables.

d. In forms with spirants after a so-called medial Š^ewâ, the absence of the dāḡēš is a survival from an earlier stage when a vowel-sound was heard before the spirant; cf. again שְׁלַחַת, in which the presence of the later pāθāḥ-furtive does not change the older hard sound of the t.

11. Silent Š^ewâ

1. וַיִּקְרָא = wāy-yîḳ-râ' (1:5); וַיְבַדֵּל = wāy-yāv-dēl (1:7); מְבַדִּיל = māv-dîl (1:6).

2. a. חֶשֶׁךְ (1:4); כְּתוּבָה (1:6); הַהֲלֵךְ (2:14).

b. אֶתְּ = 'ätt; נְתַתָּהּ = nâ-θätt; קְטַלְתָּהּ = ḳâ-tält.

Remark.—בְּרֵאשִׁית (1:1); וּבֵין (1:4); טוֹב (1:4); יוֹם (1:5); רְאשִׁים (2:10).

¹Jer. 51:49.

²Isa. 47:2.

The simple Š'wâ (◌◌◌), aside from its use to indicate a vowel-sound (§ 9.), appears frequently where it has no sound. It occurs thus:

1. Under all consonants standing in the middle of a word and closing a syllable (§ 26.).

2. Under a final letter, when that letter

a. Is Kāf; or

b. Is a consonant containing Dāḡēš-förtē or lēnē, or preceded by another consonant with Š'wâ.

3. Under an initial consonant in יַוְּשִׁי.

Remark.—The weak letters כּ, ךּ, ם, ן, when quiescent, or used as vowel-letters (§ 6.), do not, of course, receive this silent Š'wâ.

Note 1.—Š'wâ under an initial consonant, whether of a word or of a syllable, is always vocal.

Note 2.—Š'wâ under a final consonant, whether of a word or of a syllable, is always silent.

III. Other Points

12. Dăḡěš-Lēnē

1. בְּרֵאשִׁית (1:1); הַיְתָה (1:2); וְבָהוּ (1:2); בְּתוֹךְ (1:6); עַל-פְּנֵי (1:2); בּוֹ פְּרִי (1:29); יִסְגָּר (2:21); מִבְּדִיל (1:6).
2. בְּדָגַת = bīd-ḡăθ (1:28); לְעֵבְרָה = l'ē'ōv-dāh (2:15).
3. בְּצִלְמוֹ בְּצִלָּם (1:27); וּנְקָבָה בְּרָא (1:27); כִּי בָיוֹם (2:17);
רָדוּ בְּדָגַת (1:28); תִּגְעוּ בּוֹ פֶּן (3:3).

1. The letters ב, ג, ד, כ, פ, ת, have two sounds. Their hard sound (b, g, d, k, p, t) is indicated by a point called Dăḡěš-lēnē, which they regularly receive whenever they do not immediately follow a vowel-sound.

Note 1.—As fricatives they are pronounced: ב = v; ד = d = th in those; פ = f in fat (cf. ph in philosophy); ת = θ = th in thin; כ = χ, like German ch in Kirche, but made farther forward; ג (= ḡ in German Tage) is not in ordinary practice distinguished from ḡ (= g).

Note 2.—To distinguish these six fricatives from the rest of the class thus named, we shall call them Spirants. The term spirant is commonly used in a wider sense than this, but for practical purposes we may confine it here to this definite usage.

2. These spirants without Dăḡěš-lēnē usually follow a vowel-sound, but sometimes the absence of the Dăḡěš persists even after the preceding vowel has disappeared.

Note.—The soft sound of these letters after preceding vowels is due to the failure to shut off completely the emission of the breath involved in the pronunciation of the vowel which would result in a stop (ד, ת, etc., cf. § 4.). Cf. the common Irish pronunciation of lady as lad̄y, and better as běthēr.

3. When by a disjunctive accent (§ 23. 2. a) one of these letters is cut off from whatever may precede it, as at the beginning of a chapter, verse, or section of a verse, it does not immediately follow a vowel and hence takes Dăḡěš-lēnē.

13. Dāḡēš-Förtē

1. הַשְׂמִים = häš-šâ-mă-yîm (1 : 1); הַמַּיִם = häm-mă-yîm (1 : 7);
 הַיְבֻשָּׁה = häy-yăb-bâ-šâ (1 : 9); הַמְּאֹרֶת = häm-m'ô-rôṯ (1 : 16).
2. הַוָּה = häw-wâ (3 : 20); מְתַחַת = mît-tă-hăṯ (1 : 7); הַבְּהֵמָה = häb-b'hē-mâ (1 : 25); הַדְּעַת = häd-dä-'ăṯ (2 : 17).

1. The doubling of a letter is indicated by a point in its bosom, called Dāḡēš-förtē. Consonants may be doubled, however, only when they immediately follow a full vowel.

2. The point in Wâw and in the spirants is always Dāḡēš-förtē, if preceded by a full vowel.

Note 1.—Dāḡēš-förtē in a spirant serves also as Dāḡēš-lēnē, doubling the hard, not the soft, sound of the spirant.

Note 2.—A syllable whose final consonant has Dāḡēš-förtē is called sharpened (§ 26. 3).

Note 3.—A doubled letter is regularly preceded by a short vowel; this is generally a pure (§ 29. 1-3) vowel, seldom a deflected (§ 29. 4, 5) vowel.

14. Omission of Dāḡēš-Förtē

1. וַיְכַל (2:2) for וַיְכַלְּ; וַיַּיְצוּ (2:16) for וַיַּיְצוּ; אַם (2:24) for אַם.
 2. וַיְהִי (1:3) for וַיְהִי; הִיתָ (1:24) for הִיתָ; לִקְחָהּ (2:23) for לִקְחָהּ.
 3. הָאֹר (1:4) for הָאֹר; הַתְּשֻׁבָה (1:4) for הַתְּשֻׁבָה; הַהֲלֵךְ
 (2:14) for הַהֲלֵךְ.

1. Dāḡēš-förtē is always omitted from a final vowelless consonant, there being nothing in this case to support the doubling.¹

2. It is often omitted from medial consonants which have only a šwâ to support them. (But a spirant may not thus lose Dāḡēš-förtē.)

3. It is always omitted from the laryngeals, א, ה, ח, ע, and ר.

Note 1.—When Dāḡēš-förtē is omitted from a laryngeal and no compensation made for the loss by the strengthening of the preceding vowel, the Dāḡēš is said to be implied or understood.

¹ The only exceptions to this statement are תָּא thou (f.), and תָּתָּ thou (f.) didst give.

Note 2.—Dāḡēš may be thus implied in ה, ה, and ע, but not in א and ר.

Note 3.—The syllable preceding a consonant in which Dāḡēš-förtē is thus implied is really a closed syllable.

15. Kinds of Dāḡēš-Förtē

1. מַתַּחַת (1:7) for מִן-תַּחַת; יָקוּוּ (1:9) for וַיִּנְקוּוּ; נִתְּתִי (1:29) for נִתְּנִתִּי מִמְּנוּ (3:22) for מִן-מֶן-נוּ (2:21) for יִקַּח for יִלְקַח.
2. יִקְרֵשׁ (2:3); יִבְלוּ (2:1); מִתְּהַלֵּךְ (3:8); חֲטָאֵת (4:7); כְּנוֹר (4:21).
3. עֲשֵׂה-פְּרִי (1:12); אֲעֲשֶׂה-לוֹ (2:18); לִקְחָהּ-זֹאת (2:23).
4. הַלְּבָן (17:17); הַצְּפִינוּ (Ex. 2:3); מִקְדָּשׁ (Ex. 15:17).
5. הִדְּלוּ (Judg. 5:7); וַיִּתְּלוּ (Job 29:21); יִצְתּוּ (Isa. 33:12).
6. אֵלֶּה (2:4); לִמָּה (4:6); הִנֵּה (6:2); [הִתְּמָה].

1. When the doubling represents the combination of two similar, or the assimilation of two dissimilar consonants, the Dāḡēš-förtē is called compensative.

2. When the doubling is characteristic of a grammatical form, the Dāḡēš-förtē is called characteristic.

3. When by its use the initial letter of a word is joined to the final vowel of a preceding word, the Dāḡēš-förtē is called conjunctive.

4. When it is inserted in a consonant with Šwâ, which is preceded by a short vowel, to make the Šwâ audible, the Dāḡēš-förtē is called separative.

5. When the doubling strengthens or emphasizes the final tone-syllable of a section or verse, the Dāḡēš-förtē is called emphatic.

6. When the doubling gives greater firmness to the preceding vowel, the Dāḡēš-förtē is called firmative.

16. Mäppiḡ and Râfê

1. לְמִינָהּ (1:24); לְעֵבְרָהּ (2:15); לְשִׁמְרָהּ (2:15); לְאִישָׁהּ (3:6); עֲמָהּ (3:6); וְרַעֲיָהּ (3:15).

2. לְמַיִם (1:6); בְּרִגְתָּ (1:26); לִקְחָהּ (2:23); וּמַחֲלֵבֶהָן (4:4); וַיְהִי־גֵהוּ (4:8).

1. Mäppik (מַפִּיק extender) is a point placed in final ה, when this letter is used as a consonant, and not as a vowel-letter.

Note.—Mäppik is written in MSS. also in נ,¹ ן and י.

2. Râfê (רָפָה rest) is a horizontal stroke placed over a letter, to call particular attention to the absence of Dâğēš or Mäppik.

17. Mäkkēf

1. יִרְעוּ־בוּ (1:5); וַיְהִי־עָרַב (1:3); עַל־פְּנֵי (1:2); (1:11).
2. יִמְשַׁלְּ־בָךְ. (3:16); כָּל־נִפְשׁ (1:21); אֶת־הָאֹר (1:4);
וְשֵׁם־הַנְּהָר (2:13).

1. Mäkkēf (מַקְקֵף binder) is a horizontal stroke placed between two words, to indicate that they are to be pronounced together and accented as if they formed but a single word.

2. If the former of two words, joined by Mäkkēf, should contain a long vowel in a closed syllable (§ 26. 2), such a vowel gives way to a short vowel, or receives Méθēğ (§ 18. 4).

18. Méθēğ

1. הַכּוֹכָבִים (1:9); הַרְקִיעַ (1:7); וַיְהִי־אֹר (1:3);
(1:16); הָאֲרָבַעַיִם (18:29).
2. בְּהַבְרָאָם (2:4); תּוֹלְדוֹת (2:4); שָׂרָצוּ (1:21); הֵיְתָה (1:2); תֵּאכְלוּ (3:1).
3. לִקְחָהּ (2:23); לַעֲשׂוֹת (2:3); נַעֲשֶׂה (1:26); הָאֲדָמָה (1:25);
יַעֲשׂוּ (3:7).
4. בְּתוֹךְ־תֵּגֶן (3:3); עֵץ־הַגֵּן (3:2); וְשֵׁם־הַנְּהָר (2:13);
תַּת־כַּתֵּה (4:12).

¹ A Mäppik in נ is found in printed texts in Gen. 43:26; Lev. 23:17.

5. יְהִיָּה (1:29); יְהִיּוּ (2:25); בְּהִיּוֹתָם (4:8); יִתְּיָה (17:18); וְחִיָּה (20:7).
6. וַיֵּצֵא (4:16); וַיִּשְׁבַּע לוֹ (24:9); פָּדְנָה אֶרֶם (28:2).

Méθēg (מֶתָג bridle) is a perpendicular line placed on the left side of a vowel-point, to indicate that the syllable to which it belongs has a secondary accent.¹ The following are its chief uses:

1. On the second syllable before the tone, but generally on the third, if the second is closed (§ 26. 2).
2. With a long vowel followed by a vocal Š'wâ pretonic.
3. With all vowels before compound Š'wâ.
4. With a long vowel in a closed syllable, before Măkḳēf.
5. With the first syllable of all forms of הִיָּה and הִיָּה in which the ה and ה have Simple (i. e., silent) Š'wâ.
6. With an unaccented — in a final syllable; and to insure the distinct enunciation of a vowel which otherwise might be neglected.

19. Kêrê and Kêθiv

1. הוּצָא (8:17) = הוּצֵא; וַיִּשָּׂם (24:33) = וַיִּשְׂם; בָּגַד (30:11) = בְּגָד.
2. הוּצָא (8:17), read הוּצֵא; וַיִּשָּׂם (24:33) = וַיִּשְׂם; בָּגַד (30:11), read בְּגָד.
3. הוּא, to be read הוּא; יְהוּה, to be read יְהוּה; יְהוּה, to be read יְהוּה; אֱלֹהִים, to be read אֱלֹהִים; נֶעַר, to be read נֶעַר.

The Hebrew text was first written with consonants only. Not until somewhere between 600 and 800 A. D. were the vowels written with the consonants. Sometimes the vowels call for a different pronunciation from that indicated by the consonants; but usually the vowels agree with the consonants as to pronunciation.

1. Kêθiv (כְּתִיב, written) is the term applied to the pronunciation of a word that is called for by the consonants of the text as distinguished from the vowels written with them.

2. Ḳêrê (קִרְיָ, to be read) is the term applied to the pronunciation of a word called for by the vowels supplied by the Massoretes (the name applied to those students of the Hebrew text who established the traditional pronunciation represented by the present vocalization of the text).

3. Some words are always read otherwise than as they are written. These are said to have a "perpetual Ḳêrê."

IV. The Accents

20. The Place of the Accent¹

1. רֵאשִׁית (1:1); בָּרָא (1:1); שָׁמַיִם (1:1); הָאָרֶץ (1:1); חֹשֶׁךְ (1:2).
2. רֵאשִׁית (1:1); מְקוֹם (1:9); שָׁמַיִם (1:1); מַיִם (1:6);
תַּחַת (1:9).
3. רֵאשִׁית (1:1); בָּרָא (1:1); מִבְּדִיל (1:6); יִקְרָא (2:23);
מִתְהַלֵּךְ (3:8).
רְקִיעַ (1:6); אַחֲרַיִךְ (1:5); יִקְרָא (1:5); מֵאֲכָל (2:9);
תְּצַמִּית (3:18).
4. אָרֶץ (1:10); חֹשֶׁךְ (1:2); דָּשָׂא (1:11); שָׁרֵץ (1:20); עֵדֶן (2:8).
תָּהוּ (1:2); עָרַב (1:5); עֵשֶׂב (1:11); נִפְשׁוּ (1:20); אֲבָן
(2:12).

1. The accent or tone may rest on the ultima, in which case the word is called Milrā'; or on the penult, in which case the word is called Mil'el; but never on the antepenult.

2. So far as the syllabification of a word is concerned, a closed syllable with a long vowel, or an open syllable with a short vowel, is, as a rule, accented (§ 28. 1. 2).

3. Uninflected words, and words receiving in inflection no endings, are accented on the ultima.

4. Nouns of the class called Seğolates, which are really monosyllabic (§ 89.), usually accent the characteristic vowel and not the helping vowel.

Note 1.—The place of the accent in inflected words, involving appendages, must be studied in connection with the subject of verbal and nominal inflection.

¹ The place of the accent is indicated in this grammar by the use of the accent —. Words which are not thus indicated are to be accented on the ultima.

Note 2.—The term “accent” is used of the sign marking the syllable which receives the stress of voice; the term “tone” is used of the stress of voice.

21. Shifting of the Tone

1. קָרָא לִילָהּ (1:5); עֲשֵׂה פְרִי (1:11); תֹּאכַל לָהֶם (3:19).
2. אֶתָּה (4:7), but אֶתָּה (3:11); אֲנֹכִי (7:4), but אֲנֹכִי (4:9).
3. וַיֹּאמֶר (1:3); וַיְבַרֶךְ (1:22); וַיִּצַּר (2:7); וַיִּקָּם (4:8).
4. וַאֲכַלְתָּ (3:18); וְהִכִּיתִי (Ex. 3:20); וְהִצַּלְתִּי (Ex. 6:6).

1. The tone is often shifted from the ultima to the penult of a word which is followed closely by a monosyllable, or by a dissyllable accented upon the penult.

2. The tone is sometimes shifted in the case of words standing at the end of a clause or section, i. e., in pause (§ 38.).

3. Wāw Conversive with the Imperfect usually causes shifting of the tone from the ultima to the penult when the latter is an open syllable (§ 73.) and the former is closed.

4. Wāw Conversive with the Perfect often causes shifting of the tone from the penult to the ultima (§ 73.).

23. Remarks on the Table of Accents

1. The "Accents" were designed to have a threefold use:

a. To serve as musical notes in the cantillation of the Law and the Prophets in the synagogue;

b. To indicate the tone-syllable (i. e., the syllable which is to be accented) of every word;

c. To show the relation sustained by each word to the other words in a clause or sentence.

2. Every accent is used as a sign of interpunction (§ 23. 1. c), to separate or join the several words of a sentence:

a. Disjunctives (those numbered 1–18 in the Table) mark a separation.

b. Conjunctives (those numbered 19–27 in the Table) mark a connection.

3. The Disjunctives vary in strength or power, and are accordingly divided into four ranks: Emperors, Kings, Dukes, Counts.

4. Those accents numbered 9 and 18 are pre-positive, i. e., written only on the first letter of a word, wherever the tone-syllable of that word may be.

¹ Made up of Múnáh and P'sik.

² Used for Méšeg with words which have Sillúk or 'Añáh.

5. Those accents numbered 3, 8, 12, 25 are post-positive, i. e., written only on the last letter of a word, wherever the tone-syllable of that word may be.

6. The post-positive accents are repeated whenever their word is accented on the Penult, or has Păθăḥ-furtive (§ 42. 2. d) under the last letter.

7. Sillûḵ may be distinguished from Měθěḡ (§ 18.), Păštâ from Ḳădmâ, and Y^eθiv from Măhpăḫ by their position.

24. The Consecution of the More Common Accents

1. : הָאָרְץ.....Gen. 1 : 1.
2. : הָאָרְץ..... אֱלֹהִים.....Gen. 1 : 1.
3. : בּוֹ..... לְרִקִיעַ..... הַרְקִיעַ.....Gen. 1 : 7.
- : עַל-הָאָרְץ..... וְכַבֵּשָׁה..... אֱלֹהִים.....Gen. 1 : 28.

1. Every verse (Păsûḵ) is separated from the verse following by the sign ∴, called Sôf Păsûḵ (end of the verse); while the last word of every verse has on its tone-syllable the accent —, called Sillûḵ, which, in form, is like Měθěḡ (§ 18.).

Note.—Since Sillûḵ always stands on the last tone-syllable of a verse, while Měθěḡ never stands on a tone-syllable, they are easily distinguished.

2. If the verse contain two primary sections, Sillûḵ marks the end of the first, while the end of the second is indicated by —, 'Aθnâḥ.

Note 1.—In the study of the accentuation of a verse one must begin with Sillûḵ, i. e., at the end of the verse.

Note 2.—These accents have only relative power. The pauses marked are logical pauses.

3. If the verse contain three primary sections, Sillûḵ marks the end of the first; 'Aθnâḥ, the end of the second; while the end of the third is indicated by —, called S'ġôltâ.

Note.—For an explanation of the repetition of —, see § 23. 6.

4. : המים..... אלהים..... תהום..... וכוהו... Gen. 1 : 2
5. a. הלילה..... להבדיל..... השמים... Gen. 1 : 14.
- b. היבשה..... אחד... ויאמר אלהים... Gen. 1 : 9.
6. : הארץ..... השמים..... אלהים..... בראשית... Gen. 1 : 1.
- : אתהאור כִּי־טוב..... האור..... החשך;... Gen. 1 : 4.
- ... אלהים... אתם... ואת... Gen. 1:28.... Gen. 3:14.

4. When a primary section is large enough to be divided, or to contain a secondary section, the end of this secondary section, whether it stand in the primary section ruled by Sillûk or 'Aθnâḥ, is most frequently marked by $\dot{\text{—}}$, called Zâkēf kâṭōn.

5. a. In secondary sections containing but a single word, where Zâkēf kâṭōn would have been expected, Zâkēf gādôl, $\ddot{\text{—}}$, is generally found instead.

b. A secondary section of less importance than that which is indicated by Zâkēf kâṭōn is marked by $\dot{\text{—}}$, called R·vî(ă)ʿ.

6. The pause required by the rhythm before Sillûk and 'Aθnâḥ is marked by a disjunctive — , called Tîfhâ; that before S'gôltâ, by — , called Zârḳâ.

Note.—For the consecution of the remaining disjunctives see the Table of Consecution of Accents (§ 25.).

7. : על־פני המים; (1:2); ואת הארץ; (1:1); ובין החשך; (1:4).

8. על־פני תהום; (1:2); ברא אלהים; (1:1); קרא לילה; (1:5).

9. אשר בתוך־הגן; (3:3); כי עשית זאת; (3:14).

7. The Conjunctive accent which always accompanies Sillûk is — , called Mërḳâ.

8. The Conjunctive accent which always accompanies 'Aθnâḥ is — , called Mûnâḥ.

9. The Conjunctive accent which always accompanies S'gôltâ is likewise Mûnâḥ.

REMARKS ON THE TABLE

1. The Consecution of Sillûk and 'Aθnâh, with the exception of the first conjunctive, is the same.

2. The third disjunctive preceding Sillûk and 'Aθnâh, the second preceding S'gôltâ and Zâkêf kâṭôn, and the first preceding R'vi(ă)' is Gêrêš, after which the consecution is the same for all.

3. This Gêrêš may be entirely omitted, in which case the servant of the preceding disjunctive will be present and will assume the functions of Gêrêš.

4. After Kâdmâ the consecution may proceed either with T'lišâ K'ṭānnâ (and its Mûnâh's) or, if there is a slight emphasis, with the disjunctive T'lišâ Ğ'dôlâ (and its Mûnâh's).

5. Words standing between the T'lišâ K'ṭānnâ or the T'lišâ Ğ'dôlâ and the beginning of the section, will receive Mûnâh if they are closely related, but Pâzêr if there is a great emphasis. Words standing between Pâzêr and the beginning of the verse will receive Mûnâh.

Note.—Instead of Mûnâh, L'ğarmêh (i. e., Mûnâh with P'sik (|—)) is substituted if there is a slight emphasis on the word.

6. Instead of Pázēr, preceded by Mûnâḥ, there may be substituted Ḳārnê Fârâ, which is always preceded by Yérâḥ bën yômô. Other words will have Mûnâḥ.

Note 1.—This table exhibits in general the features of the prose system. There are, however, many exceptions. The poetic system is entirely different.

Note 2.—A few accents, occurring but seldom, are omitted from the table.

Note 3.—This very brief treatment of the accent aims only to introduce the student to a subject, which demands much careful study and investigation for its mastery. Reference may be made to Wickes, A Treatise on the Accentuation of the Twenty-One so-called Prose Books of the Old Testament (1886); Idem, A Treatise on the Three so-called Poetical Books of the Old Testament, Psalms, Proverbs and Job (1881).

V. Syllables

26. Kinds of Syllables

1. בָּרָא (1:1); תָּהוּ (1:2); וְרָב־הוּ (1:2); פָּנִי (1:2); יְהִי (1:3).
2. מִבְּדִיל (1:6); בֵּין (1:4); טוֹב (1:4); מִזְרִיעַ (1:11); לְמִשַׁל (1:18).

1. Syllables which end in a vowel-sound are called open.
2. Syllables which end in a consonant are called closed.

Note 1.—A closed syllable whose final consonant is doubled is called sharpened.

Note 2.—What seems to be an unaccented open syllable, with a short vowel, is of frequent occurrence; this is commonly called a half-open syllable; but it is better treated as closed (§ 10.).

27. Syllabification

1. וּמִחֶלֶב־הוּ (4:4); רִקִיעַ (1:20); אֲשֶׁר (1:7).
2. וְיִשְׂרָצוּ (1:20); בְּרֵאשִׁית (1:1); אֶל־הַיָּם (1:1); וְגֵבִין (1:4).
3. וַיִּשְׁתָּ (9:21); יָרַב (1:22) for יָרַב; עָרַב (1:5) for עָרַב.

1. A word contains as many syllables as it has vowels; but Păθăh-furtive (§ 42. 2. d), and Ṣ̌wâ do not form syllables.

2. Syllables must begin with a consonant, the only exception being the prefixed conjunction ׀; they may begin with two consonants, the first always having under it a vocal Ṣ̌wâ.¹

Remark.—Syllables often occur which apparently begin with a Ṣ̌wâ. These are cases in which Ṣ̌wâ creeps in after a laryngeal as a transitional or liaison element linking the two syllables together and facilitating pronunciation of the laryngeal. The Ṣ̌wâ is better treated as belonging with the preceding laryngeal.

¹ There is a single exception to this remark, viz., שָׁחַי (Gen. 4:19) in which the Ṣ̌wâ is silent.

3. Syllables may end in two consonants, but only when these are strong. The harshness resulting from this combination is generally avoided by the insertion of a helping vowel (§ 36.).

28. Quantity of the Vowel in Syllables

1. הֶ-אֹר (1:4); מֵ-עַל (1:7); בְּרֵא-נִשִּׁית (1:1); בְּרֵא (1:1); הֶ-יָתֵה (1:2).
2. וַיִּקְרָא (1:5); מִקְוֵה (1:10); מִבְּ-דִיל (1:6); אֵת (1:1);
מֵ-עַל (1:7).
3. הַשְּׂמִים (1:1); לְאִשָּׁה (2:22); אִמּוֹ (2:24); יָקָם (4:15).
4. (a). הֶ-חֲשָׁךְ (1:4);
(b). נַעֲשֶׂה (1:26);
(c). בְּרִקִיעַ (1:14); מְלֵאוֹ (1:22);
(d). וְאֲדַנִּי (18:12).
5. בֵּית (6:14); מִים (1:6); יֵרֵב (1:22); נָעַר (19:4).

1. The vowel of an unaccented open syllable must be long.

2. The vowel of a closed syllable must be short, unless it has the tone; when it has the tone, it may be long.

3. The vowel of the sharpened syllable is short, unless it has the tone; it is pure, i. e., ä, ĩ, ů, and not deflected, i. e., ě or ō.

4. Short vowels are often found in what appear to be unaccented open syllables, and are often called half-open syllables; but they are better treated as closed syllables. For example in (a) dăğěš-förtē is implied or understood, thus making the syllable closed; in (b) the laryngeal once had no vowel (cf. נְחָמָר [2:9]; יְאִסָר¹; תַּעֲרֶה²) and the Š-wâ is therefore only a secondary helping-element and does not affect the syllabification; in (c) the Š-wâ is to be treated as silent (cf. § 10.); in (d) the laryngeal was once vocal and closed the syllable, and the short vowel persists even though the laryngeal has become quiescent (cf. § 10.).

5. The vowel of an open accented syllable may be short.

VI. Euphony of Vowels¹

29. Short Vowels

1. a. יִבְדֵּל (1:4); יִבְשָׁה (1:9); יָמִים (1:10); חֵיהָ (1:20); מִזְרִיעַ (1:11).
- b. חֵית- (1:25); וְהִב־ (2:12); גֹּן (2:8); מֵ-עַל (1:7); אָף (3:1).
- c. שְׁבַת (2:3); לָקַח (2:22); דָּבַק (2:24); לָקַח (3:23); יִצְמַח (2:9).
- d. פָּעַם (2:23); דָּעַת (2:9); אֵין (2:5); הַשְׁאֲנִי (3:13); שְׁמִימָה (15:5); בֵּיתָה (24:32).
- e. נַעֲשֶׂה (1:26); לַעֲבֹד (2:5); יַעֲלֶה (2:6); מֵאֲכַל (2:9).
2. a. הִנֵּה (1:29); אָמוּ (2:24); אֲשַׁתּוֹ (2:24); יָרַב (1:22); יָבֵן (2:22).
- b. יִקְרָא (1:5); לְמִשְׁלַל (1:18); הַמְטִיר (2:5); וְקָטַל; נִפְקַחוּ (3:5).
3. a. וַיִּכְלוּ (2:1); עִירָמִים (3:7); לָקַח (3:23); יָקַם (4:24); [חָקַה].

1. The pure short ä is found:

- a. In unaccented closed, or sharpened syllables;
- b. In the closed syllable with secondary accent of nouns in the construct state, and a few monosyllabic nouns and particles;
- c. In the accented closed syllable of many verbal forms.
- d. (1) As the accented characteristic vowel of laryngeal and ע"י Seğolates (§ 89.); (2) before the suffix גִּי, and (3) sometimes before the locative ending הַ־.

¹ This treatment is not intended to be exhaustive; it will be found practically complete, however, so far as general principles are concerned.

e. In a closed syllable with $Mě\theta\check{e}\check{z}$ (§ 18. 3) before a compound $\check{S}^w\acute{a}$.

2. The pure short i is found:

a. In unaccented closed, and especially sharpened, syllables, and in some accented open syllables (§ 28. 5); but

b. That i (\rightarrow) which comes by attenuation or thinning (§ 36. 4) from an original \check{a} must be distinguished from an original i , although it is subject to the same rules as the latter.

3. The pure short \check{u} is found almost exclusively in unaccented sharpened syllables.

4. אֶת־ (1:4); וַיְבַרְךָ (1:22); וַיֵּשֶׁם (2:8); וַיְגַרְשׁ (3:24); וַתִּלְךְ (4:1).

חָשַׁךְ (1:2); עָשָׂב (1:11); עָוַר (2:18); יָרַב (1:22); וַיִּבֶן (2:22). נֶחְמָד (2:9); אָרָץ; עֶבֶד; [וַיַּעֲטֹל]; יָדְכֶם (9:2).

5. כָּל־ (1:21); אָכְלָה (1:29); כָּתְנוֹת (3:21); רָחַבָּה (6:15); [וַהֲקִטְלוּ].

עֲבָדָה (2:15); שְׂמָרָה (2:15); אָכַל־ (3:11); יַעֲזֹב־ (2:24).

4. The short e -sound ־ (\check{e}), as a deflection from \check{a} or i , is found:

a. In unaccented closed syllables in general.

b. As an unaccented vowel in certain forms with $w\acute{a}w$ conversive.

c. As a helping-vowel in Seğolate nouns.

d. As the characteristic accented vowel in Seğolate forms.

e. In unaccented closed syllables before laryngeals.

Note 1.—There is also to be noticed the character of the ־ which appears in certain particles, e. g., פֶּן, אֲשֶׁר, etc., and pronominal forms (אֲתָם; תָּם; הֵן; כֶּם; כֵּן); the origin of which is obscure.

5. The short o -sound ־ (\check{o}), deflected from and more common than ־ (\check{u}) and sustaining to ־ and ־ (\check{o}) the same relation that is sustained by ־ (\check{e}) to ־ (\check{i}) and ־ (\check{e}), is found in unaccented closed syllables.

30. Naturally Long Vowels

1. a. נַע (4 : 14) = nâ'; שַׁת (4 : 25) = šâṭ; [קַל = kâl].
 b. גָּנַב = gännâv¹; מָתַן = mättân²; כָּתַב = k'ṭâv³; קָרַב = k'râv.⁴

 b. תָּהוּ = תהו (1 : 2); בָּהוּ = בהו (1 : 2); הוֹסֵד = הוסד¹²; הוֹקֵם.¹³
 c. אָרוּר (3 : 14); עָרוּם (3 : 1); חֲבוּרָה (4 : 23); כָּרוּב (3 : 24); רְכוּשׁ (12 : 5).

Naturally long vowels have arisen either (1) from contraction of a vowel and semivowel (i. e., y or w), or (2) as the characteristic of certain nominal and verbal forms, or (3) in compensation.

1. Naturally long â (ֶ, seldom אֶ), comparatively rare, is found:

a. In certain forms of middle-vowel verbs (§ 89.) of which it is characteristic.

b. In certain nominal forms, of which it is characteristic (§§ 94, 95.).

c. Naturally long â, in the great majority of instances, was rounded to ô (§ 30. 6).

2. Naturally long î (יְ, sometimes יִ), is found:

a. As the contraction of iy (§ 83. f).

b. In certain nominal forms of which it is characteristic (§ 94.).

c. In certain nominal forms in which it is compensative (§ 95.).

d. In certain לְהִי forms, before consonant-additions (§ 85.).

e. In Hif'il forms, in which ē would naturally have been expected.

f. In certain forms of middle-vowel verbs.

3. Naturally long û (וְ, sometimes וִ) is found:

a. As characteristic of certain middle-vowel Kāl forms (§ 89.).

b. As the contraction of uw, whenever the combination uw would be final; in certain פִּוּ Höf'äl forms (§ 83.); and in certain middle-vowel and עִוּ Höf'äl forms, which seem to follow the analogy of פִּוּ forms.

c. As characteristic of certain nominal forms, including the Kāl passive participle.

4. a. בֵּין (1 : 4); בַּיִת¹; עֵינַיִם (3 : 6).

b. תִּיטִיב (4 : 7) = têtiv from תִּיטִיב; הִינִיקָה (21 : 7) from הִינִיקָה.

c. עֵשָׂה (6 : 14) = sê* from עֵשִׂי; מִקְוָה (1 : 10) = mīkwê from מִקְוִי.

d. הַבַּיִת²; צַוִּיתִי³; הָרְאֵתָ⁴; [cf. צַוִּיתִי (3 : 11)].

4. Naturally long ê (written יְֿ, yet sometimes יְֿ and הְֿ) comes from the contraction of ay or ai, and is found:

- a. In the inflection of י"ע Seğolates (§ 84.).
- b. In the Hif'il forms of verbs originally י"פ.
- c. In the Imperative (2 m. sg.) of verbs ה"ל (§ 85.); and in the construct state of nouns ending in הְֿ (ê) (§ 110.).
- d. In ה"ל perfects before consonant additions (§ 85.).
- e. In the plural construct ending of masc. nouns, ה"ל (§ 110.).
- f. In the penult of a few nominal formations.

Note.—The ê of d very frequently yields to î, especially in active perfects.

5. Besides ê, there is another naturally long e-sound, which likewise arises out of ay. It is written יְֿ and הְֿ and may, for the sake of distinction, be transliterated as ê. It is found:

- a. In ה"ל Imperfects and Imv's before the fem. plur. termination נָה (§ 85.); and, after the analogy of these forms, also as a separating vowel in similar middle-vowel and י"ע forms.
- b. In the forms of plural nouns before the pronominal suffixes תְּ and הָ (§ 111.).
- c. In the absolute forms of nouns from ה"ל roots and in the Käl Impf. and the Participles of ה"ל verbs.

6. a. אָכַל (2 : 16) = 'âxôl for 'âxâl; יָצָא (2 : 10) = yôṣê', for yâṣê'; רָמַשׁ (1 : 26) = rômêš for râmêš; סוֹבֵב (2 : 13) = sôvêv for sâvêv.

b. יָמַר (1 : 3) = yô'mêr for yâ'mêr; [יִקְוֹל = yîkqôl for yîkqâl].

c. אֱלֹהִים (1 : 1) = 'lôhîm; דָּוָר (6 : 9); עוֹלָם (3 : 22); שְׁלוֹם (26 : 31).

d. יְעוֹפֵף (1 : 20) = y'e'ôfêf; יִתְבַּשֵּׁשׂוּ (2 : 25) = yîtbôššâšû.

e. הִקְמַתִּי (6 : 18); הִשִּׁיבֵתִי (28 : 15); סִבְתִּי¹; קָלוֹת².

7. a. יוֹם (1 : 5); תוֹךְ (1 : 6) = θôx [cf. תוֹךְ].

b. תוֹסֵף (4 : 2) = tôséf; הוֹלִירוֹ (5 : 4); נוֹרָא³.

6. Naturally long ô, for the most part written defectively, is in many cases only the rounding of a naturally long â (§ 30. 1). This is the case:

a. In the forms of the Infinitive Absolute (§ 70. 1. b), and in the Ḳäl Active Participle (§ 71. 1. a).

b. In the Ḳäl Imperfect of verbs א"פ (§ 82.), and in the Nif'äl of middle-vowel verbs (§ 89.).

c. In a large number of nominal formations (§§ 94, 95.).

d. In so-called Pôlêl (or Pô'êl), and Hîþpôlêl (or Hîþpô'êl) forms.

e. In the separating vowel used before consonant terminations in the Perfects of ע"ע and middle-vowel verbs (§§ 88, 89.).

7. There is, however, a second naturally long ô, which is the result of the contraction of au or aw. This is found:

a. In a large number of monosyllabic nouns from middle-vowel stems.

b. In the Nif'äl and Hif'til of verbs originally פ"פ (§ 80. 3. b).

c. In many פ"פ nominal formations (§§ 99, 101.).

d. In the contraction of âhû = ô (seldom written הָ).

8. Vowels strengthened in compensation for the loss of a consonant are unchangeable, like naturally long vowels.

Note 1.—Naturally long vowels are usually written fully (§ 6. 4. N. 2), and are thus distinguished from tone-long vowels. There are many cases, however, in which the distinction can be determined only from a knowledge of the grammatical form in which the vowel stands.

Note 2.—Naturally long vowels are unchangeable. The exceptions to this rule are so few as scarcely to deserve notice.

31. Tone-Long Vowels

1. a. אָדָם (1:26); אָהָר (1:5); אָכְלָתָּ (3:11); יִצְמָח (2:5); תִּזְדָּק (15:10).
- b. יִבְשֶׁה (1:9); בְּהֵמָה (1:26); חַיָּה (1:28); בְּרָא (1:1); יִקְרָא (1:5); הִשְׁקָה (2:6); הָאָרֶץ (1:1); מָוֹת.¹
- c. בְּרָא (1:1) for בְּרָא; רִקִּיעַ (1:6) for רִקִּיעַ.
- מִקְוֶה (1:9) for מִקְוֶה; תִּפְקְחֶנָּה (3:7); יִקְרָא (2:23); וְכָהֵן (1:2); תִּשָּׁב (3:19).
- d. אָכְלָתָּ (3:11); צִוִּיתִיךָ (3:11); בְּנִיָּה²; תִּפְקְחֶנָּה (3:7); לֵילָה (1:5); צִפְנָה (13:14).

A short vowel (־, ־, ־), when it would stand in close proximity to the tone, frequently becomes long, ä becoming å, ĩ becoming ē, ũ becoming ō. These vowels are called, from their origin, tone-long.

1. Tone-long å, instead of an original ä, is found:

- a. In a closed tone-syllable,
- (1) in the absolute state of nouns;
 - (2) in pause (§ 38.);
 - (3) in a few Seğolates from middle-vowel roots;
- b. In an open tone-syllable,
- (1) in the more recent feminine ending הַ־ (from äθ) (§ 109. 2. b);
 - (2) in ה"ל and א"ל verbal forms (§§ 85, 86. 1. a);
 - (3) in some Seğolate nouns;
- c. In an open pretone-syllable; always, except as indicated in § 32. 2.
- d. In an open posttone-syllable,
- (1) in the case of the pronominal ending הַ־, and frequently the suffixes הַ־ and ךַּ־;
 - (2) in the feminine plural termination הַ־, and the locative ending, הַ־ (directive) (§ 108.).

3. a. מִשָּׁל (1:18); יִשְׁפֹּת (2:2); יִסְנֹר (2:21); קִטְנֹתַי (32:11); יִכְלֹתַי (30:8); אָדָם (25:30); עָמַק¹; כָּל (1:30).
- b. תָּהוּ (1:2); בָּהוּ (1:2); חֲשֵׁךְ (1:2); בָּקָר (1:5); שָׁהָם (2:12).
- c. גִּרְשׁוֹ gō-r^ešú²; מִבְּרָךְ³; יִבְרָךְ⁴.

2. Tone-long —, instead of short — or —, is found:

a. In a closed tone-syllable; always, except in a few monosyllabic particles. Worthy of notice is its occurrence,

(1) in the Qāl Perfect of many stative verbs (§ 64. 2), and in the Qāl Active Participle (§ 71. 1. a);

(2) in the Qāl Imperfect and Imperative of נָתַן (§ 81.), and of verbs originally פָּוַן (§ 83.);

(3) in Nif'āl, Pi'el, Hif'il and Hithpāl'el forms in which the ī, whence ē comes, was originally ä (§§ 59. 1. b, 60. 1. b);

(4) in many monosyllabic and dissyllabic nominal formations;

(5) in i-class Seğolates (§ 92.).

b. In an open pretone (or ante-pretone) syllable, always instead of ī, as,

(1) in nominal formations;

² Ex. 12 : 39.

³ Num. 22 : 6.

⁴ 2 Sam. 7 : 29.

(2) in the preformative of the Ḳāl Impf. of פ"ו verbs (§ 83. 2. a).

3. Tone-long — (ō), instead of —, is found:

- a. In a closed tone-syllable. Worthy of notice is its occurrence,
 - (1) in the Ḳāl Infinitive Construct, Imperative, and Imperfect (§ 66. R. 2);
 - (2) in the Ḳāl Perfect of a few stative verbs (§ 64. 3);
 - (3) in a few nominal forms (§ 93. 1. c);
- b. In an open tone-syllable, in u-class Seğolates.
- c. In an open pretone-syllable.

Note 1.—Tone-long vowels are correctly written defectively; in the later language the incorrect full writing is frequent.

Note 2.—The tone-long vowel, arising from the rejection of Dāğēš-fōrtē from a following laryngeal, is unchangeable.

32. Reduced Vowels

1. a. מֵ-אֹר (1 : 16) from מֵ-אֹרֶת; גֵּ-דֹל (1 : 16) from גֵּ-דֹלִים; עֵ-וּוּן from עֵ-וֹנִי.
- b. עֵ-וֹבְתָם² for עֵ-שִׁיתָם; עֵ-שִׁיתָם¹ for עֵ-שִׁיתָם.

- d. גָּחַנְךָ (3 : 14); קָלְךָ (3 : 10); אֶכְלְכֶם (3 : 5); אֶכְלְךָ (2 : 17); וְרַעַךְ (3 : 15).

Remark.—בִּ originally בִּ; לִ orig. לִ; כִּ orig. כִּ; וִ orig. וִ.

3. a. אֶרְוָה (3 : 17); אֶלְהִים (1 : 1); אֶשְׁרֵךְ (1 : 7); אֶדְמָה (2 : 6); נֶעְמִי⁴.

- b. לְקַחָהּ (2 : 23) for לְקַחָהּ; לְשַׁבְּלִי¹; לְתַאֲלָצְהוּ²; בְּסַעְרָה³
 c. וְזָהַב (2 : 12); וְלֶהֱבִדִּיל (1 : 18); וְשָׁקָה (27 : 26); וְיִקְרַב⁴.

A short vowel, or a tone-long vowel, gives way to Š^ˆwâ, either simple or compound, when it would stand in an open syllable at a distance from the tone. The change may be called reduction (§ 36. 3). Reduced vowels are found:

1. In what would be the antepretone-syllable,
 - a. In the inflection of nouns (§ 36. 3. b).
 - b. Before the grave termination in the inflection of verbs (§ 63. R.4).
 - c. In many verbal forms to which a pronominal suffix is attached.
2. In what would be the pretone-syllable,
 - a. In the inflection of verbs, before קָֿ, ךְּֿ and ךְּֿֿ (§ 36. 3. a).
 - b. In the formation of the construct state of nouns (sg. and pl.).
 - c. In the nominal inflection of participial forms.
 - d. Before the suffixes ךְּֿ, כֶּםֿ and ךְּֿֿ, when attached to nouns and to certain verbal forms.

Remark.—In many particles which originally had , there is found , but before the tone the original ä often becomes (§§ 47. 5; 49. 4).

3. The simple Š^ˆwâ (§ 9. 1) may represent the vowel-sound of any class. But the compound Š^ˆwâ (§ 9. 2) has three distinct forms, one for each class, and is found:

- a. Chiefly under laryngeals (§ 42. 3). But sometimes also,
- b. Under a letter which is, or should be, doubled.
- c. Under a letter preceded by the prefix ךְּֿ.

Note 1.—The Š^ˆwâ under a laryngeal, if vocal, must be compound Š^ˆwâ; since a simple Š^ˆwâ standing under a laryngeal is always silent.

Note 2.—The Hâtêf S'ġôl never appears anywhere but under laryngeals.

Note 3.—Simple Š^ˆwâ is always vocal (1) at the beginning of a word, (2) under a consonant with dâġēš-förtē, (3) after another Š^ˆwâ, except in the case of a final consonant.

33. The A-Class Vowels

In accordance with the foregoing statements (§§ 29–32.) it is seen that the A-class vowels include:

1. The pure short — (ă).
2. The attenuated — (î), arising in unaccented closed, and especially sharpened, syllables.
3. The short — (ë) which is deflected from ä, either with or without the tone.
4. The naturally long — (â), which has come from contraction or from compensative lengthening, or from a lengthening characteristic of nominal forms.
5. The naturally long — (ô), which has come by rounding from a naturally long â.
6. The tone-long — (â), which has arisen from an original ä through the influence of the tone.
7. The simple — (é), which is a reduction of — , through the influence of the tone.
8. The compound — (â), which occurs instead of — according to the usage mentioned in § 32. 3. a. d.
9. The naturally long — (ê) which is probably diphthongal in character.

34. The I-Class Vowels

In accordance with the foregoing statements (§§ 29–32.) it is seen that the I-class vowels include:

1. The pure short — (î), now found chiefly in unaccented closed, and especially sharpened, syllables.
2. The deflected — (ë), found in unaccented closed syllables.
3. The naturally long — (î), from iy, see â, § 33. 3.
4. The naturally long — (ê), which is diphthongal in its character, coming, as it always does, from the contraction of ai or ay.
5. The tone-long — (ē), which has come from an original — , through the influence of the tone.
6. The simple — (é), cf. § 33. 7.
7. The compound — (é), occurring instead of — chiefly under laryngeals.

35. The U-Class Vowels

In accordance with the foregoing statements (§§ 29-32.), it is seen that the U-class vowels include:

1. The pure short ֿ (ü), now found chiefly in sharpened syllables.
2. The deflected ֿ (ö), found chiefly in unaccented closed syllables.
3. The naturally long ֿ (û), from uw; and see â, § 33. 3.
4. The naturally long ֿ (ô), which is diphthongal in its character, coming, as it always does, from the contraction of au or aw. [On the ô rounded from â, see § 33. 4.]
5. The tone-long ֿ (ō), which has arisen from an original ֿ , through the influence of the tone.
6. The simple ֿ (°), see § 33. 7.
7. The compound ֿ (°), occurring instead of ֿ chiefly under laryngeals.

36. Changes of Vowels

1. a. צִדְקָה (16 : 2) from צִדְקַת ; דָּבַר from דְּבַר ; אֶרֶץ (1 : 24) from אֶרֶץ ; סִפֵּר from סִפֵּר .

In the formation of stems and the inflection of words, the following vowel-changes occur:

1. Tone-long vowels are found,

a. Usually when in nouns an original short vowel comes under the tone, either in open or closed syllables.

b. When a short vowel would stand in an open syllable before the tone. This is characteristic of nominal formations.

c. When in verbs an originally ante-pretonic short vowel becomes pretonic, in an open syllable.

d. When a following weak consonant becomes quiescent.

e. When an originally short vowel comes to stand in pause.

Under such circumstances, ä is usually rounded to â; ï is lowered to ē, and ü to ō (see §§ 33-35.).

Note.—Cf. German älle, but English äll.

2. Reduction is the process by which a vowel is minimized or compressed to its smallest proportions. Cf. heaven, pronounced hev'n, but Anglo-Saxon heofon; even, pronounced ev'n, but Anglo-Saxon efen and ebhan; also the initial a in America when pronounced quickly. This process takes place,

a. When an ultimate $\text{—} (\check{a})$, $\text{—} (\check{i})$, or $\text{—} (\check{u})$ in the inflection of verbs loses the tone; as when personal terminations consisting of a vowel, or pronominal suffixes connected by a vowel, are added.

b. When a penultimate vowel, in the inflection of nouns, no longer stands immediately before the tone, as in the formation of the construct state, when terminations of gender and number are appended, and when pronominal suffixes are added.

Note 1.—Herein consists the great difference between verbal and nominal inflection, that in verbal, the ultimate vowel, in nominal, the penultimate vowel is changed.

Note 2.—In some verbal forms, the vowel of whose ultima is unchangeable, the penultimate vowel is reduced.

Note 3.—In some nominal forms, the vowel of whose penultima is unchangeable, the ultimate vowel is reduced.

Note 4.—Only vowels standing in an open syllable may be reduced. Naturally long vowels are never reduced.

3. a. יִשְׁכַּח (2 : 2) originally 'יִשׁ'; הַבְּדִיל but הַבְּדִיל (1 : 18).
 b. קִטְל [but יִקְטֹל]; קִדַּשׁ but יִקְדַּשׁ (2:3); *בַּת*¹ but בְּתִי.²
 c. *יִלְדֻתְיָהּ*³; דְּמָכֶם (9 : 5) for דְּמָכֶם; דְּבָרֵי (24 : 30) for דְּבָרֵי.
4. a. הַקְטִיל for הֶקְטִיל; אָכַלָה (1 : 29) for אָכְלָה; *הִפְעֹו*⁴.
 b. הֶעֱטִיל for הֶעָטִיל; נֶעְטַל for נֶעָטַל; יֶעֱטַל for יֶעָטַל.
 c. רָחַם (20:18); רָמַשׁ (1:24); עָרַב (1 : 5); אָרַץ (1:24).
5. יָקַם = יָקַם = יָקַם (4 : 15); אָתָּה (6 : 18); אֶת-, אִתְּ (with), אֵת (4 : 1).
6. a. לְמִינָהּ (1 : 24) for לְמִינָהּ.
 b. תְּהוּ = θōhūw; תְּהוּ (1 : 2) for וְיִהִי = wīy-hīy; וְיִהִי (1 : 6).
 c. בּוּ; לְמִינָהּ (1 : 11) for לְמִינּוּ = bāy(i)n; בֵּין (1 : 4) for בֵּין (1 : 11) for בְּהוּ, etc., etc.
 d. גָּדַל (from גָּדַל); נָקַם (from נָקַם); נָקוּם (from נָקַם); קָם (from קָם); הֶקְטִיל (from הֶקְטִיל).
7. שָׁפְטִי from שׁוֹפְטִי; גָּדַל from גָּדוֹל; קָטַל from קוֹטֵל.
8. a. בְּדַגַּת (1 : 26); לְמֵאֲרַת (1 : 15); בְּרַקִּיעַ (1 : 14); לְעֵבֹד (2 : 5); לְאָמַר (1 : 22) for לְאָמַר (1 : 26); בְּדַמוֹתֵינוּ (1 : 26); בְּחָרֵי.⁵
 b. נֶעְטַלָּהּ for נֶעָטַלָּהּ; יִהְרֶגְהוּ (4 : 8) for יִהְרֶגְהוּ.
9. a. בְּהוּ (19:4); בֵּית (2 : 23); זָרַע (1 : 11); עָרַב (1 : 5); (1 : 2).
 b. מְמַשְׁלָתָּהּ for מְמַשְׁלָתָּהּ (1:16); מְרַחֲפָתָּהּ for מְרַחֲפָתָּהּ (1:2).
 c. יָבֵן (2 : 22); יָרַב (1 : 22) for וַיַּעַשׂ (1 : 7) for וַיַּעַשׂ for יָבֵן.

¹ Ex. 2 : 1.² Ruth 2 : 8.³ Ps. 2 : 7.⁴ Ps. 1 : 2.⁵ Ezek. 20 : 5.

3. Attenuation is a thinning of — (ă) to — (ĭ). It is the same change as that seen in sang, sing; tango, attingo; and in master which becomes mister, when used as a proclitic title (cf. Oxford Dictionary, s. v. Mr.). It takes place,

a. In closed syllables containing preformatives: as in the $\text{K}\ddot{\text{a}}\text{l}$ Imperfect, the Nif'āl and Hif'il Perfects.

b. In sharpened syllables: as in the Pi'el Perfect, and various nominal formations.

c. In closed syllables which have lost the tone, especially in the construct plural of nouns and before grave suffixes.

4. Deflection involves a change of quality in vowels, whereby ä becomes ě, ĭ becomes ě, and ũ becomes ǒ. The same change is seen in the Greek and Latin forms, mihi and meus, bulbus and $\beta\omicron\lambda\beta\omicron\varsigma$, nummus and $\nu\acute{\omicron}\mu\omicron\varsigma$. It often takes place,

a. When they would stand in an unaccented closed syllable.

b. When they would stand before a laryngeal with $\check{\text{S}}^{\text{e}}\text{w}\hat{\text{a}}$.

c. When ä stands as the original vowel of a Seğolate form.

5. Original short vowels usually stand unchanged in sharpened syllables.

6. Lengthening (or contraction) takes place,

a. When two similar vowels, generally by the dropping of a consonant, come together.

b. When a vowel and a semi-vowel come together; then $i+y=\hat{\text{i}}$, $u+w=\hat{\text{u}}$.

c. When ä or â is followed by ĭ or y, or by ũ or w; then $a+i=\hat{\text{e}}$, $a+u$ or $w=\hat{\text{o}}$.

d. As characteristic of certain verbal and nominal forms.

7. Rounding is a process applied not only in producing â from ä, but also in changing the vowel â to ô. The same change is seen in the Anglo-Saxon hām, hame, or haam becoming home; stān, becoming stone.

8. A vocal $\check{\text{S}}^{\text{e}}\text{w}\hat{\text{a}}$ must always be followed by a full vowel, rather than by another $\check{\text{S}}^{\text{e}}\text{w}\hat{\text{a}}$. Hence:

a. At the beginning of a word, an original short vowel, that ordinarily is reduced to $\check{\text{S}}^{\text{e}}\text{w}\hat{\text{a}}$, will remain without reduction if followed by a $\check{\text{S}}^{\text{e}}\text{w}\hat{\text{a}}$, yielding only to such attenuation or deflection as may be necessary; ä is commonly attenuated to ī, but if the Š'wâ is compound, the short vowel is assimilated to it.

b. In the middle of a word, where a compound Š'wâ stands as helping-vowel under a laryngeal, when inflectional change brings a vocal Š'wâ immediately after the compound Š'wâ, the latter in every case gives place to the corresponding short vowel (or a deflection of it) as helping-vowel.

9. When two vowelless consonants would come together at the end of a word, a helping-vowel is usually inserted between them to aid in pronunciation. The helping-vowel practically constitutes a new syllable, but the nature of the vowel treatment in many cases shows that the new syllable was not fully recognized—(cf. § 27.). This helping-vowel is generally ě, but with a laryngeal it is usually ä, with *ʾ*__ it is ī, and with *ʿ*__ it is generally ū. The most common instances of this are:

- a. The large class of nouns called Seğolates (§ 92.).
- b. A class of feminine formations resembling Seğolates.
- c. Certain short verbal forms (§ 85. l).

Note.—The use of a helping-vowel is common in carelessly spoken English; e. g., elm becomes ellum; prism=prisum; film=fillum; Henry=Henery; athletic=atheletic, etc.

37. Tables of Vowel-Changes

The following tables summarize the various possible vowel-changes:

TABLE I

i+i or i+y	=	î
a+y	=	ay
a+i or a+y	=	ê
a+y	=	ê
a+a	=	ô
a+a	=	â
a+w	=	aw
a+u or a+w	=	ô
u+u or u+w	=	û

	original a attenuated to ī which then is treated like an original	ī original a retained as	ä
	original a rounded to	â original a deflected to	ǎ
	original a reduced to	ē original a reduced to	a original i deflected to	ê
	original i retained as	ī original i lowered to	ē
	original i reduced to	e
	original i reduced to	e
	original u deflected to	ō original u retained as	ū
	original u lowered to	o
	original u reduced to	u
	original u reduced to	o

38. Pause

1. יִתְבַּשְׁשׁוּ (2:25); נִפְתָּחוּ (7:11); בְּעִבּוֹרְךָ (3:17); אִשְׁתֶּךָ (3:17).
2. הַמַּיִם (1:2); לִילָהּ (1:5); אֲכַלְתָּ (3:11); יִצְמַח (2:5); זֶרַע (1:29) for זֶרַע (= זֶרַע); הַבֶּל (4:2) for הַבֶּל (= הַבֶּל).
3. אַתָּה (3:11) for אַתָּה; אֲנֹכִי (3:10) for אֲנֹכִי.
4. תָּמוֹת (2:17); but וַיָּמַת (11:28); and וַיָּמַת (5:5, 8, 11, 14, 17, etc.).

The pause at the end of a verse or clause, indicated by the more powerful accents (§ 23. 3), causes certain changes:

1. Š^wâ yields to its original vowel, and this, if short, undergoes the customary tonal change and is accented.

Note.—The Šwâ standing before the suffix ַ, yields to its original—, which becomes ê (§ 30. 5).

2. A short vowel becomes tone-long. The — in Seğolates in pause becomes ַ.

3. The tone is frequently shifted from the ultima to the penult.

4. The tone which, in short forms, is on the penult is given to the ultima.

VII. Euphony of Consonants

39. Assimilation

1. מִקְרָם (2:2) for מִן-כָּל-; מִן-תַּחַת (1:7) for מִתַּחַת (2:8).

יִנְטַע (2:8) for יִטַע; יִנְפַח (2:7) for יִפַח; יִנְתַן (1:17) for יָתַן.

2. אֶחָדָה (2:21) for אַחַת (35:2); מִתְדַבֵּר (2:8) for מִדְבַר¹.

3. אֵיצֶק (2:15) for יֵקַח (18:4); אֵיצֶק² for יֵקַח.

Remark.—שִׁכְנַתִּי³; מִן-הָאָרֶץ (2:6); נַחֲמָתִי (6:7); לְנַפֵּל⁴.

Assimilation of the final consonant of a closed syllable to the initial consonant of the following syllable takes place:

1. In the case of the weak ן, of the preposition מִן (§ 48. 1), and of the first radical of verbs פִּי (§ 81.).

Note.—This is a very common thing in English, e. g. irresistible for inresistible, illegible for inlegible.

2. In the case of ת of הֵת (§ 59. 5. b) and rarely of ך.

Note.—Cf. attract for adtract; attest for adtest; annotate for adnotate; appropriate for adappropriate.

3. In the case of ל in לָקַח to take (§ 84. g) and י in a few פִּי verbs (§ 83.).

Remark.—The letter ן is not assimilated when it stands (1) in an accented syllable, or (2) before a laryngeal (except ה), or (3) after the preposition ל.

Note.—Assimilation is indicated by a Dăğěš-förtē in the following consonant, which, however, is rejected from final consonants (§ 14. 1).

40. Rejection

1. a. הַת (4:12); הַת (4:11); הַת (19:9); הַת (4:7).

b. לָכַת (11:31); רָעָת (2:9); רָעָת (20:7); רָעָת (4:2).

³ Ex. 25 : 8.

⁴ Num. 14 : 3.

- c. נָחֲנוּ (42:11) for אֲנַחֲנוּ; אָכַל¹ probably for מֵאָכַל.
 2. לָאוֹר (1:5) for לְהָאוֹר; יִבְדֵּל (1:7) for יְהַבְדֵּל.
 3. הַמּוֹתוֹ (42:20) but הַמּוֹתוֹן (3:3); הָיָה (2:10) for הָיִי.

The consonants most liable to rejection are the laryngeals א and ה, the dentals ל and נ, and the vowel-letters ו and י. These are often rejected:

1. From the beginning of a word when there is no vowel beneath to sustain them,

a. In the case of נ of verbs פִּי' (§ 81.) and of ל in לָקַח in the Käl Imv. and Infinitive Construct.

b. In the case of ו or י of verbs פִּי' in the same forms.

c. In a few isolated cases.

2. From the middle of a word when preceded only by a Šwâ.

3. From the end of a word, by ordinary attrition, as in the case of ו of the plural ending וֹן; and of a final י in verbs לָהֵךְ (§ 85.).

Note 1.—On the rejection of א and ה, see also § 43.

Note 2.—On the rejection of ו and י, see also § 44.

41. Addition, Transposition, Commutation

1. אָתֵּן² and אֲזַרְעֶה³; אֲזַרְעֶה⁴; אֲשַׁבֵּל⁵; אֲתֵּן⁶.
 2. נִתְּשַׁחֲוּהוּ⁷ for הִתְּשַׁמֵּר; נִשְׁתַּחֲוּהוּ⁸ for נִתְּשַׁחֲוּהוּ.
 3. a. הִתְּצַדֵּק⁹ for הִצְטַדֵּק; הִתְּצַדֵּק¹⁰ for הִצְטַדֵּק.
 b. וְצַר (2:8) for וְצָר; קָיָם¹¹ for קוֹם; עָשׂוּי¹² for עָשׂוּי.

1. The addition of a letter sometimes takes place at the beginning of a word to avoid harshness in pronunciation, as in the case of א, called prothetic, when used in the formation of nouns.

2. The transposition of letters, of frequent occurrence in the province of the lexicon, occurs in the grammar only in the case of ת of the Hiṯpā'el of verbs when it would stand before a sibilant fricative.

3. The commutation of letters, of frequent occurrence in the province of the lexicon, occurs in the grammar in the case of a. ת and ט in the Hīθpā'el stem.

b. ן and י in פ"ן, middle-vowel and ל"ה forms (see § 44. 1. a—e).

42. The Peculiarities of Laryngeals

1. a. הַרְקִיעַ (1:7); הָאֲדָמָה (1:25); הָעוֹף (1:22); וְהִרְאָה (1:9).

b. מְרַחֶפֶת (1:2); הֵהוּא (2:12); הִתְיָה (1:21); הַחֲשֹׁךְ (1:4); פִּעַל.

2. a. וַיִּרָא (1:4); יַעֲלֶה (2:6); לַעֲבֹד (2:5); נַעֲשֶׂה (1:26); יַעֲזֹב־ (2:24).

b. יַפַּח (2:7); יַטַּע (2:8); יַצְמַח (2:9); יִדַּע (4:25); [קִטַּח].

c. נִחְמַד (2:9); יַחֲזֹק (41:56); הִתְחַדַּל¹; הִעֲבִדְתָּנִי².

d. רוּחַ (1:2); רָקִיעַ (1:6); מִזְרִיעַ (1:11); זֵרַע (1:29); רָקִיעַ (1:15).

3. a. שָׂאֲלָה³ from šā'ālā; אֱלֹהִים (1:1) from 'ilāh; חָלִי⁴ from ḥōlt.

b. עָבַד (2:5); עָשׂוֹת (2:4); אָמַר (1:22); הָיִוֹת (2:18); cf. וְהָיָה (12:2).

וְהַעֲמִיל; פִּעַל⁵; נַעֲשֶׂה (1:26); יַעֲלֶה (2:6); אַעֲשֶׂה (2:18); פִּעַל⁵; וְהַעֲמִיל.

Remarks.—יִשְׁבֹּת (2:2) but יַעֲזֹב־ (2:24); נִחְמַד (2:9); יַהֲרִיגֶהוּ (4:8); יַהֲרִיגֶהוּ (4:8); הִעֲמִיד⁶ and הִעֲמִדְתָּ⁷ but וְהִעֲמִדְתָּ⁸.

The laryngeals, in the order of their strength beginning with the weakest, are א, ע, ה, ח. ר shares some of their characteristics. They have the following peculiarities:

1. They refuse to be doubled (i. e., to receive Dāğēš-förtē). But here a distinction must be made between,

a. א and ר, which entirely reject the doubling, and require a strengthening of the preceding vowel (§ 36. 2. b); and

³ Ex. 3 : 22.

⁴ Deut. 28 : 61.

⁵ Ruth 2 : 12.

⁶ Num. 5 : 18, 30.

⁷ Ps. 31 : 9.

⁸ Num. 3 : 6; 8 : 13.

b. γ , η , and π , of which γ sometimes, η and π nearly always, receive a so-called Dǎǧěš-förtē implied, and allow a preceding vowel to remain short.

2. They take, particularly before them, the a-vowels; hence,

a. The vowel — (\check{a}) is chosen instead of — (\check{i}) or — (\check{e}), especially when \check{a} was the original vowel.

b. The vowel — (\check{a}) is chosen instead of — (\bar{e}) or — (\bar{o}), especially when \check{a} was a collateral form.

c. The vowel — (\check{e}), arising by deflection from \check{a} , is chosen for the sake of dissimilarity.

d. The vowel — steals in between a heterogeneous long vowel and a final laryngeal as an aid in pronunciation. This — is called Pǎθǎh-furtive; it is a mere transition-sound and does not make a syllable. It disappears when the laryngeal ceases to be final.

Note 1.—The letter η (1) does not receive Dǎǧěš-förtē, and (2) often shows a preference for — , and is consequently frequently classed for convenience with the laryngeals.

Note 2.—A final \aleph is not a consonant, nor is final η , unless it contain Mǎppik (§ 16. 1).

3. They have a decided preference for compound $\check{S}^w\hat{a}$. Hence there is found under laryngeals,

a. A compound $\check{S}^w\hat{a}$, rather than a simple $\check{S}^w\hat{a}$, in the place of an original vowel; and in this case the compound $\check{S}^w\hat{a}$ of the class to which the original vowel belonged, is used.

b. An inserted compound $\check{S}^w\hat{a}$ for facilitating the pronunciation; and here,

(1) an initial laryngeal takes — , except in the case of \aleph , and of η and π in the verbs $\eta\eta\eta$ and $\eta\eta\eta$, which prefer — ;

(2) a medial laryngeal takes that $\check{S}^w\hat{a}$ which corresponds to the preceding vowel.

Remark 1.—Thus where in strong forms there is found a silent $\check{S}^w\hat{a}$, in laryngeal forms there is usually found a compound $\check{S}^w\hat{a}$ as a helping-vowel, which does not affect the syllabification.

Remark 2.—Under the strong laryngeals, especially η , the use of the compound Š^wâ for the facilitation of pronunciation is not so general.

Remark 3.—When a compound Š^wâ would stand before a simple Š^wâ, the former always gives way to a vowel (§ 36.).

Remark 4.—The combination $\text{ֿֿ} \text{ֿֿ}$ often yields to $\text{ֿֿ} \text{ֿֿ}$, when removed to a distance from the tone.

43. The Weakness of א and ה

1. a. פָּרָא (1:1); יִקְרָא (1:5); תּוֹצֵא (1:24).
 b. רֵאשִׁית (1:1) for רֵאשִׁית; רֵאשִׁים (2:10) for רֵאשִׁים;
 לָקְרַאת (15:10) for לָקְרַאת; לֵאמֹר (1:22) for לֵאמֹר;
 בְּאֱלֹהִים (3:5) for בְּאֱלֹהִים; יֹאמֵר (1:3) for יֹאמֵר.

Remarks.—וַיֵּרָא (1:4); חֲמָא¹; אֵכֶל (3:12) for אֵאֶכֶל; רֵשִׁית for רֵאשִׁית.

2. a. לָאוּר (1:5) for לְהָאוּר; לְחֹשֶׁךְ (1:5) for לְהֹחֶשֶׁךְ; בָּיוֹם (1:18).
 b. יִבְדֵּל (1:7) for וַיַּבְדֵּל; תִּרְאֶה (1:9) for תִּהְרָא.
 c. לְמִינֵנוּ (1:11) for לְמִינֵהוּ; בּוֹ (1:11) for בְּהוּ; אֲתוּ (2:3) for אֲתָהוּ.

The letters א and ה, being exceedingly weak, not only occasion change, but likewise suffer change:

1. א loses its consonantal power and is said to quiesce or to be silent,

a. Always, when it stands at the end of a word; here belong all forms of a א"ל character.

b. Often, when it stands in the middle of a word; then,

(1) a preceding vowelless consonant receives its vowel;

(2) or, it loses its compound Š^wâ after a preceding vowel.

The Š^wâ disappears as soon as א quiesces and the preceding short vowel is strengthened in compensation for the loss of the א.

Remark 2.—A quiescent א is frequently elided from the middle of a word.

2. The consonant ה at the end of a word is always distinguished from the vowel-letter ה by the presence of a Măppik (§ 16. 1). But on account of its weakness it is often entirely lost, a. In the case of the article after an inseparable preposition (§ 47. 4).

b. In Hif'il, Hôf'äl and Hiθpă'ël verbal forms after a preformative of gender or person.

c. From between two vowels, which then contract.

Note.—The ה of ל"ה verbs and nouns (§ 85.) is always a vowel-letter and has no connection with the ה here considered.

44. The Weakness of ך and ך

1. a. ילך (4:23) for ולך (cf. ולך 11:30); ישב [cf. ישב (4:16)] for וישב.

b. קים¹; יתיילדו² but cf. התודע (45:1).

c. ירבין; עשוה; עשית; עשית; עשוי³;

d. יוצר; יוצר (2:7) for יוצר; יושן (2:21) for יושן.

2. a. יצא (4:16) for ויצא; יצא (8:16) for ודע; דעת (3:22) for יוצא.

b. היה (2:10) = hâyâ; יעלה (2:6) = yă'âlê.

השקה (2:6) = hiškâ; יהיה (1:29) = yîhyê.

The semi-vowels, or vowel-consonants, ך and ך, occasion a very large number of changes:

1. Commutation of ך into ך takes place,

a. Almost always at the beginning of a word, the exceptions being very few.

b. Frequently in the Pî'el of middle-vowel verbs, and generally in פ"ו verbs after ה"ת of the Hiθpă'ël.

³ Ex. 3:16.

⁴ Deut. 8:13.

c. Whenever it is retained as the third radical in verbs ל"ה, both when final and when medial (§ 85. 3).

d. When it would follow i in a closed syllable, as in the Kāl Imperfect of verbs פ"ן which have a פ"י treatment (§ 83.).

2. Elision takes place,

a. Of an initial ן when supported only by Šwâ, as in certain פ"ן Inf's Construct and Imv's (§ 83.); and also when in the Kāl Impf. the ן, following ĩ, does not go over to י, according to 1. d above.

b. Of a final ן and י in verbs called ל"ה, the original vowel following them having been previously lost; in this case the vowel preceding, nearly always ä, is rounded to å in Perfects, and becomes ê in Imperfects and Participles (see for details, § 85.).

3. a. נודע (41:21); תוצא (1:11) for תוצא; תיטיב (4:7) for תיטיב.

תעשינה¹; חייך (3:14) for häy-yäy-kå; אפך (3:19).

b. עשה (6:14) = *šê for עשי; פני (1:2) = p'nê for פני.

c. הוסר² for הוסר; יישן (2:21) for יישן = יושן; ייצר (2:7) for ייצר.

4. a. ובין (1:4); ומלאו (1:22); ולמקוה (1:10); ונקבה (1:27).

b. תהו (1:2) for תהו; ישתחו (18:2) for ישתחו.³

c. ושמעתיו⁴ for תהו; אפיו (2:7) for אפיהו; פניו (4:5).

5. a. ילד (4:26); ידע (4:1); ילד (4:18); יצר (2:8); יקוו (1:9); ובהו (1:2).

b. עשוי⁵; גוי⁶; see also the cases under 4. c, above.

c. יולד (4:18); חנה (3:20); שולותי.⁷

3. Contraction takes place,

a. Of vowelless ן or י with a preceding ä, as

(1) in the פ"ן Nif'al and Hif'il (§ 83.), and the פ"י Hif'il (§ 84. 2);

⁷ Job 3: 26.

(2) before הַּ in הַּ־ Imperfects and Imv's, and before הַּ and הַּ in plural of nouns (§ 30. 5); here ay gives יַּ (ê).

b. Of final י or י with a preceding a, in forms that are closely tied to the following word, as

(1) in the Imperative of verbs הַּ־ (§ 85. 1. f);

(2) in the Construct plural ending יַּ (= ay) (§ 111. 3. b).

c. Of י or י with a preceding u or i respectively, when a consonant follows, as in the הַּ־ Höph'al (§ 83. 3. c), and in the קַּ־ Impf. of הַּ־ and הַּ־ verbs.

4. Vocalization of י to י takes place,

a. At the beginning of a word in the case of the conjunction י (§ 49. 2).

b. At the end of a word, whenever י would be preceded by a consonant, as

(1) in the case of הַּ־ (or הַּ־) Seğolates (§ 92. 2. c);

(2) in certain short forms of the imperfect. But

c. The reverse takes place, viz., change of י to י, especially in the case of the suffix יַּ, when it is attached

(1) to verbal forms ending in a vowel, and

(2) to the plural ending used before suffixes, viz., יַּ, of which, however, the י is lost (being only orthographically retained), and the ä rounded to å (§ 111.) as an assimilation to the י.

5. The consonantal force of י or י is retained,

a. When as radicals they stand at the beginning of syllables.

b. When a heterogeneous vowel, except ä, precedes.

c. When they would receive Dâğĕš-förtē (§ 83.), and in a few exceptional cases.

PART SECOND—ETYMOLOGY

VIII. Inseparable Particles

45. The Article

1. הַשָּׁמַיִם (1:1); הַיָּמִים (1:2); הַיְּבֹשָׁה (1:9); הַיּוֹם (1:14); הַלַּיְלָה (1:14).
2. הַחֹשֶׁךְ (1:4); הַתְּיָה (1:21); הַהוּא (2:12); הַהֶלֶךְ (2:14).
3. הָאָרֶץ (1:1); הָרְקִיעַ (1:7); הָעוֹף (1:22).
4. הַחֶגֶץ¹; הַחֶזֶק²; הַהָרִים³; הָעוֹן⁴.

Remark 1.—הַמְיֻלָּדֹת⁵ for הַמְיֻלָּדָה; הַיְאֻרָה⁶ for הַיְאֻרָה.

Remark 2.—הָאָרֶץ (1:1) for הָאָרֶץ; הַהָר⁷ for הַהָר; הָעָם⁸ for הָעָם.

Remark 3.—לְאֹר (1:5) for לְ + הָאֹר; לְחֹשֶׁךְ (1:5) for לְ + הַחֹשֶׁךְ.

1. The usual form of the Article is הַ with a Dâğěš-förtē in the following letter הַ
2. Before the strong laryngeals הַ and הַ which may be doubled by implication (§ 42. 1. b), it is הַ
3. Before the weak laryngeal אַ and before רַ, and generally before עַ, which cannot be doubled (§ 42. 1. a), = is rounded to ׀ הַ
4. Before הַ, and before an unaccented הַ, עַ, the = is deflected to ׀ (ë) for the sake of dissimilarity הַ

Remark 1.—The Dâğěš-förtē of the Article may of course be omitted from vowelless consonants (§ 14. 2).

Remark 2.—The words for earth, mountain, people irregularly change their vowel after the Article.

Remark 3.—The הַ of the Article is elided after the prepositions בַּ, כַּ, לַּ (§ 43. 2. a) and the vowel is given to the preposition.

46. Hē Interrogative

1. אֲכַלְתָּ הַמֶּן-הָעֵץ (3:11); הַשְּׁמֵר אָהִי אֲנִכִּי (4:9).
2. הַאֵלֶךְ וְקִרְאתִי לְךָ; הַמַּעַט קִחְתָּךְ אֶת-אִישִׁי אֵשׁ.¹
3. הַלָּבֶן מֵאָה שָׁנָה יוֹלֵד; הַהֵיטֵה; הָאָמַר.²

In direct, and likewise indirect, interrogation, a particle is used called Hē Interrogative:

1. It is usually written with Hāṭēf Pāθāh ה
 2. Before vowelless consonants, and laryngeals, it is written ה
 3. Before laryngeals with ׀ , it is written (§ 31. 2. c) ה
- while rarely, especially with letters which have simple Šwā, it is written with Dāğēš-förtē separative (§ 15. 4) ה.

Note.—Frequently no sign of interrogation appears; then the context must be depended upon to reveal the interrogative character of the statement.

47. The Inseparable Prepositions

1. לְהַבְדִּיל (1:14); לְמִינוּ (1:11); בְּתוֹךְ (1:6); בְּרֵאשִׁית (1:1).
2. בְּרֵמוֹתָנוּ (1:18); לְמִשַׁל (1:15); לְמֵאוֹרֹת (1:14); בְּרֵקִיעַ (1:26).
3. בְּחֵרִי (1:22); לְאָמַר for לְאָמַר (2:3); לְעֵבֹד (2:5); לְעֵשׂוֹת (1:18).
4. לְיַבְשָׁה (1:10); לְרֵקִיעַ (1:7); לְחֹשֶׁךְ (1:5); לְאוֹר (1:5); בְּיָוִם (1:18).
5. לְרַעַת (3:22); לְכֶם (1:6); לְמִים (1:6).

Remark 1.—לְאֹרְנִי (17:7, 8); לְאֹרְנִי (18:30, 32); בְּאֹלֹהִים (3:5); לְאֹלֹהִים (17:7, 8).

Remark 2.—לְיַהֲוָה (4:3) for לְאֹרְנִי; proper writing לְיַהֲוָה.

Three prepositions, לְ, בְּ, בְּ, are always prefixed to the words which they govern. Their vowel was, originally, —; but now they are found written:

1. Ordinarily, with simple Š^ewâ reduced from ä —̄
2. Before consonants having simple Š^ewâ, with ĩ attenuated from ä —̄
3. Before laryngeals having compound Š^ewâ, with the corresponding short vowel —̄, —̄, —̄ (ö)
4. Before the Article, with the vowel of the Article . . . —̄ or —̄ (â)
5. Before a tone-syllable, sometimes with tone-long —̄ (â)

Remark 1.—The א of אֲרֻנִי LORD and אֱלֹהִים God loses its consonantal force after the prepositions (§ 43. 1. b).

Remark 2.—The word יְהוָה, which is written יְהוָה, i. e., with the vowels of אֲרֻנִי, rather than יְהוָה as it should be written, appears with the preposition as לִיְהוָה (to be pronounced לִיאֲרֻנִי).

Note 1.—The original —̄ of the prepositions is usually reduced to —̄, or rounded to —̄ (â); it is retained before laryngeals with —̄, but assimilated to —̄ before —̄, and to —̄ (ö) before —̄.

Note 2.—For prepositions with pronominal suffixes, see § 51. 3, 4.

48. The Preposition מן

1. מִן-הָאָרֶץ (2:6); מִן-תַּחַת for מִתַּחַת (1:7); מִן-מִקְדָּם (2:8) for מִן-קִדְמָה.
2. מִן-מַחֲוֵץ (6:14); מִן-עַל (1:7) for מֵעַל; מִן-אִישׁ (2:23) for מֵאִישׁ.

The preposition מן from, is really the construct state of an ancient noun and is written separately, chiefly before the Article; elsewhere it is prefixed and appears:

1. Usually with its ך assimilated (§ 39. 1) מִן
 2. Before ך, rarely with Dăğěš-förtē implied (§ 42. 1. b) מִן
- but before other laryngeals, with —̄ lowered (§ 36. 2. b) מִן

Note.—On the form of מן before pronominal suffixes, see § 51. 5.

49. Wâw Conjunctive

1. וְאֵת (1:1); וְהָאָרֶץ (1:2); וְלַחֲשֹׁךְ (1:5); וְשָׁנִים (1:14); וְשָׁמַיִם (2:4).
2. וּבֵין (1:4); וּמִלְאוֹ (1:22); וּבְעוֹף (1:26); וּלְמִקּוֹה (1:10);
וּנְקֵבָה (1:27).
3. וְעֵשָׂה (24:12); וְהָיָה (12:2) for וְהָיָה; וְנִעְשִׂיתָם¹; וְאֲנִי (6:17).
4. וְבָהוּ (1:2); וְרָמַשׁ (1:24); וְרַע (2:9); וְנָד (4:12).

The conjunction and, originally ׀, is now found written:

1. Ordinarily with simple Š^wâ (§ 32. 2. R.)..... ׀
2. Before ב, מ, פ (§ 44. 4), and vowelless consonants..... ׀
3. Before laryngeals having compound Š^wâ, with the corresponding short vowel..... ׀, ׀, ׀ (ö)
4. Before a tone-syllable, sometimes with tone-long ׀ (§ 31.
1. c)..... (â)

Note 1.—׀ with יְהִי gives יְיָהִי (1:6).

Note 2.—On ׀, the strengthened form of ׀, which is called Wâw Conversive and is used with the Imperfect, see § 73.

IX. Pronouns

50. The Personal Pronoun

1. The following are the forms of the Personal Pronoun:

He	הוא	They (m.)	הֵם, הֵנָּה
She	היא	They (f.)	הֵן, הֵנָּה
Thou (m.)	אַתָּה	Ye (m.)	אַתֶּם
Thou (f.)	אַתְּ	Ye (f.)	אַתֶּנָּה, אַתֶּן
I	אֲנִי, אֲנֹכִי	We	נַחֲנוּ, אֲנַחְנוּ

2. The following are pausal forms:

אֲנֹכִי, אֲנִי; אַתָּה and אַתָּה; אֲנַחְנוּ.

3. The following remarks on the forms of the Pronouns are to be noted:

- she* היא is written הוא in the Pentateuch, except eleven times.
- thou (m.)* אתָּה is written five times defectively אַתָּה.
- thou (f.)* אַתְּ was originally אַתִּי or אַתִּין; seven times K^θiv has אַתִּי, which would be pronounced ätti.
- I (c.)* אֲנִי is more common than the longer form אֲנֹכִי.
- they (f.)* הֵנָּה is more common than הֵן, the latter occurring only with prefixes.
- ye (f.)* אַתֶּן occurs but once,¹ אַתֶּנָּה, but four times.²
- we* אֲנַחְנוּ is the usual form, נַחֲנוּ occurring but six times,³ and a form אֲנוּ but once.⁴

Note 1.—The הַ— which appears in several of the forms was perhaps originally demonstrative, but has lost its force.

Note 2.—The following comparative table of the personal Pronouns in the more important Semitic languages will be of interest:

¹ Cf. Ruth 4 : 1; 2 Kgs. 6 : 8.

When a pronoun is to be governed by a verb, a noun or a preposition, a shortened form must be used:

1. The "separate forms," given above, are the fragments of the pronouns which are thus used. They are attached directly to nominal and verbal forms ending in a vowel, but a so-called connecting-vowel is employed with forms ending in a consonant.

a. The suffixes כֶּם, כֵּן, הֶם, and הֵן always receive the accent and are termed heavy; all others are light.

b. ׀ is used with nouns; ׀י with verbs.

c. הֶם and הֵן are used with nouns in both singular and plural, but chiefly with the plural; ׀ and ׀ are used with verbs and singular nouns.

Note.—On the union of verbs with suffixes, see § 74.; on the union of nouns with suffixes, see §§ 112, 113.

2. When for any reason it is impossible, or undesirable, to attach the suffix directly to a governing verb, it may be written in connection with אַת, the sign of the definite accusative, which, however, except before כֶּם, assumes the form אַת or אוֹת ('ôθ).

3. The prepositions ב and ל restore and round their original — before the suffixes (except ׀ and ׀י); this vowel

a. Contracts with הֵן and forms ׀ (ô), the ה falling out and â contracting with û; with ה the final â is dropped, the ä of the preposition is rounded to â, and ה is preserved as a consonant with mäppik, the resulting form being הֵן־; but elsewhere,

b. It appears as â either before or under the tone.

Note.—While either כֶּם or כֶּהֶם may be used, only לֶהֶם is found.

4. Between the preposition ב and the suffixes, there is generally found an inserted syllable מו. This syllable is found in poetry also after ב and ל (but not when suffixes are added).

5. The preposition מן before most of the suffixes takes a special form; in some cases,

a. The final ׀ is assimilated: מִמֶּךָ for מִמְּךָ; מִמֵּנִי for מִמְּנִי; מִמֵּנָה for מִמְּנָה; מִמֵּנָה (from us) for מִמְּנָה.

b. The consonant of the suffix is assimilated backwards and represented in נ : מִמֶּנּוּ (from him) for מִמְנֵהוּ ; מִמֶּנָּה for מִמְנֵהָ .

Note 1.—The פ in מִמֶּנּוּ , etc., is deflected from פ (§ 29. 4).

Note 2.—Many variant forms, besides those given, are found, especially in poetry.

52. The Demonstrative Pronoun

- | | | | | | |
|----|--------------------------------|---|------------------------------------|---|--|
| 1. | זֶה this (m.) | { | זֹאת this (f.) | { | אֵלֶּה (אֵל) these (m. or f.) |
| | | | זֶה, זֶה this (f.) | { | הֵם or הֵמָּה those (m.) |
| 2. | הוּא that (m.) | | הִיא that (f.) | { | הֵן or הֵנָּה those (f.) |

1. a. זֶה ; cf. זֶה rounded from זֶה .

b. זֹאת = zô'θ, for zâ'θ (§ 30. 6), i. e., זֶה with feminine ending ת , cf. the shorter forms זֶה, זֶה .

c. אֵלֶּה has Dâgēs-förtē firmative; אֵל occurs only eight times, and then always in the Pentateuch and with the article.

2. The personal pronouns of the third person are used as remote demonstratives.

3. The forms הַזֶּה (masc.), הַזֵּה (fem.), and הַזֶּה (masc. and fem.), this, represent a stronger demonstrative, appearing only in the singular. They are not commonly used,—the first occurring twice,¹ the second, once,² the third seven times.³

53. The Relative Particle

1. אֲשֶׁר who, which, that.
2. שֶׁ , sometimes שֵׁ .
3. וְ .

1. The more frequent relative was originally a noun in the construct state meaning place:

a. It is indeclinable.

b. It is really a mere sign of relation, indicating the presence of some kind of a subordinate clause, the precise nature of which is indicated by other words, or by the general context.

² Ezek. 36 : 35.

³ Judg. 6 : 20; 1 Sam. 14 : 1; 17 : 26; 2 Kgs. 4 : 25; 23 : 17; Dan. 8 : 16; Zech. 2 : 8.

2. $\cdot\text{שׁ}$, or $\cdot\text{שׁ}$ is in no way connected with אֲשֶׁר , but is a distinct pronoun. It is found:

a. Exclusively in the Song of Songs, and frequently in Ecclesiastes.

b. Occasionally in other books, as Judges, 2 Kings, 1 Chronicles, Job, and the later Psalms.

3. וְ is in reality a demonstrative (cf. וְ); but its chief use is as a relative (cf. the similar usage of the English that, Greek $\delta\varsigma$, etc.). It is indeclinable.

54. The Interrogative Pronoun

1. מִי who? מָה what?

2. a. מַה־יִּקְרָא (2:19); מַה־זֹּאת (3:13); מַה־שְּׁמוֹ (Ex. 3:13).

b. מַה חֲטָאתִי (31:36); מַה־הוּא ¹; מַה־הִיא ²

c. מַה־אַלֶּה ³; מַה רְאִיתָם ⁴; also מַה הִנֵּה (21:29).

d. מַה עָשִׂיתָ (4:10); מַה־חֲטָאתִי (20:9); מַה־חֲדַל ⁵

1. מִי refers to persons; מָה , to things.

2. מָה is variously pointed, according to the character of the consonant which follows:

a. Before consonants which can be doubled, it is..... מַה

b. Before strong laryngeals (ה and ח), it is..... מָה

c. Before weak laryngeals (א , ע , and ר) it is..... מֶה

d. Before laryngeals with ־ , it is..... מֶה

Note 1.—The Dāğěš-förtē following מָה is compensative (§ 15.1), arising from the assimilation of ה which was a consonant.

Note 2.—The forms מֶה and מָה are sometimes found before other letters than laryngeals.

Note 3.—In the majority of cases מֶה is connected with the following word by Mäkkēf, and with וְ often forms a single word, מֶוְ .

Note 4.—By means of אִי (where?) prefixed to the demonstrative וְ or זֹאת , another interrogative is formed.⁶

X. The Verb

55. Roots

1. ברא (1:1); מִבְּדִיל (1:6) from בּרל; מִתְּהַלֵּךְ (3:8) from הֵלך; הִמְטִיר (2:3); שָׁבַת (2:3); הִקְיַמְתִּי (9:17) from הֵלך; פָּקַח (3:7) from תִּפְקַחְנָה; מָטַר (2:5) from פָּקַח.
2. בָּרָא (1:1) he created; שָׁבַת (2:3) he rested; לָקַח (2:22) he took.
הֵלֵךְ (3:8) he walked; שָׁמַע (3:17) he heard; פָּקַח (3:7) he opened.
3. מוֹת (3:4) to die, מָת he died; שָׁם (2:8) to put, שָׂם he put.

All words are derived from so-called roots; concerning these it may be noted:

1. While there are a very few roots of four letters, most Hebrew roots consist of three or two letters, called radicals.

2. The root is generally pronounced with the vowels of the third person singular masculine of the Perfect tense (§ 57. 3. N. 1), this being the simplest of all verbal forms.

3. Biliteral roots of the middle-vowel classes are commonly pronounced with the vowel of the infinitive construct.

Note 1.—The root is not in itself a word; it exists solely in the mind of the philologist. ברא is a root, but the word is בָּרָא.

Note 2.—Many of the roots now appearing to be trilateral, were once biliterals; their trilateral forms are a later development.

Note 3.—For many words there has as yet been found no root.

56. Classes of Verbs

1. a. שָׁבַת (2:3); דָּבַק (2:24); מָשַׁל (1:18); בָּרַל (1:4); קָרַשׁ (2:3).

- b. עֹב (2:24); הָרַג (4:8); רָחַף (1:2); זָרַע (1:11); שָׁלַח (3:22).
- c. נָתַן (1:17); יָצַר (2:7); בָּרָא (1:1); בָּנָה (Lam. 3:5).
2. a. סִבַּב (2:11); חָלַל (4:26); חָנַן (33:5); גָּלְלוּ (29:3).
- b. מוֹת (3:4); בִּין¹; קוּם (13:17); יֵשִׁים (30:42).

Verbal roots vary in inflection according to the number and nature of the consonants of which they are composed. They are therefore classified as:

1. Trilateral, when composed of three consonants. These again subdivide into three classes:

a. Strong verbs, i. e., those containing no consonant which will in any way affect the vowels usually employed in a given inflection.

b. Laryngeal verbs, i. e., those containing one or more laryngeals, which involve certain variations in vocalization from the so-called strong verb.

c. Weak verbs, i. e., those containing one or more consonants which may suffer assimilation (נ__), contraction and elision (ן__ and י__), or quiescence (א__). Such changes in the consonants, of course, affect the vowels seriously.

2. Bilateral, when composed of two consonants. These subdivide into two classes:

a. The so-called 'ayin-doubled (ע"ע) verbs, in which the consonantal element of the root is emphasized in inflection.

b. The middle-vowel verbs, in which the vowel-element is emphasized.

57. Inflection

1. a. בָּרָא (1:1) from ברא; שָׁב (18:33) from שב; סִבַּב (Deut. 2:3) from סב.
- b. וַיִּקְדַּשׁ (2:3) from קדש; לָקַח (3:23) from לקח; יָלַד (4:26) from ילד; סוּבַב (2:13) from סב.

- c. הוֹחַל (3:5) from פָּקַח; הִמְטִיר (2:5) from מָטַר; הוֹחַל (4:26) from חָלַל; נוֹשְׁבָה (Jer. 6:8) from יָשַׁב.
2. יִשְׁבֹּת (2:2) he will rest; שָׁמַעְתִּי (3:10) I heard; שָׂרְצוּ (1:21) they swarmed; אָכַלְתָּ (3:11) hast thou eaten? וַתִּפְקַחְנָה (3:7) they were opened; יָמוּל (17:12); יָבֵא (4:3).
3. יַהַרְגֵהוּ (4:8) he will kill him; תֹּאכַלְנָה (3:17) thou shalt eat it.

The inflection of a verb includes three things:

1. The formation of verb-stems, of which there are,
 - a. The simple verb-stem, generally identical with the root.
 - b. Verb-stems formed by strengthening the simple root in various ways, especially by doubling or repetition of one or more radicals.
 - c. Verb-stems formed by the use of prefixes.
2. The addition to the verb-stem of affixes and prefixes for the indication of tense or mood, person, number, gender.
3. The various changes of the verbal forms, which take place when pronominal suffixes are attached as objects.

Note 1.—The Hebrew verb has for each stem (1) a Perfect tense, which indicates finished or completed action, (2) an Imperfect, which indicates unfinished action, (3) an Imperative (except in Passive stems), (4) two Infinitives, and (5) a Participle.

Note 2.—The Perfect and Imperfect, which may be called tenses, are inflected to distinguish number, person, and gender.

Note 3.—The Imperative is used only in the second person, masculine and feminine, singular and plural.

58. The Verb-Stems

1. שָׁבַת (2:3); בָּרָא (1:1); לָקַח (3:22); שָׁב¹; בָּלַל (11:9).
2. נִקְטַל¹; נִכְבַּד²; נָכוֹן (41:32); נָסַב³; נִבְנְהָ⁴; נִשְׁמַר watch one's self; נִשְׁפָּט go to law one with another.

There are in common use seven verb-stems, each representing a different aspect or development of the primary meaning of the verb.

1. The simple verb-stem is called Kāl (קָל), i. e., light, since it presents the verb in its simplest form, not encumbered with the additions characteristic of the other stems.

2. a. The Passive of the Kāl stem is called Nif'āl.

Note.—In all stems other than the Kāl, the stem name is formed from the paradigm-verb used by the Arabic and the Jewish grammarians, viz., פָּעַל; thus the name of this stem = נִפְעַל.

b. The formal characteristic of this stem is the prefixed נ.

c. The meaning of the stem is usually passive, but it occurs also with its original reflexive force, and sometimes as reciprocal.

3. a. The intensive active stem is called Pi'el (triliteral) or Pôlêl (biliteral).

b. The formal characteristic of this stem is the doubling or repetition of the second radical of the root.

c. The stem is used as an intensive of the Kāl, and expresses various shades of meaning such as (1) intensity, (2) repetition, (3) causation, and (4) a privative idea, in the case of Pī'ēl from nominal forms.

4. a. The intensive passive stem is called Pū'āl (triliteral) or Pōlāl (biliteral).

b. The formal characteristic of this root is the doubling or repetition of the second radical, with ū or ô under the first radical.

c. The regular usage of this stem is as a passive of the Pī'ēl; but sometimes it serves as passive of the Kāl.

5. a. The active causative stem is called Hif'il.

b. The formal characteristic of this stem is the prefix $\text{—}\text{ה}$, which undergoes modification in inflection.

c. This stem serves as a causative of the Kāl.

6. a. The passive causative stem is called Hōf'āl.

b. The formal characteristic is the prefix $\text{—}\text{ף}$, which undergoes change in inflection.

c. The usage of this stem is as a passive of the Hif'il.

7. a. The intensive reflexive stem is called Hithpāl.

b. The formal characteristic of this stem is the prefix $\text{—}\text{ת}$, joined to the Pī'ēl stem.

c. This stem is used primarily as a reflexive of the Pī'ēl stem; but it occurs also with (1) a reciprocal, (2) a passive force, and (3) the force of the indirect Greek middle.

Note.—The ת of the prefix is always transposed when it would stand before ד , ש or ז ; it is transposed and partly assimilated, becoming ש , when before צ ; and it is completely assimilated before ך , ט or ת .

REMARKS

1. An original penultimate ׀ is attenuated to ׀, in Nif'āl, Pi'el, and Hif'il.

2. An ultimate ׀ is lowered to ׀, in some Pi'el, Hif'il and Hithpā'el forms.

3. An ultimate ׀ is anomalously lengthened to ׀, in some Hif'il forms.

4. An original penultimate ׀ is deflected to ׀ (ö) in the Höf'āl.

NOTES¹

1. Only 6 verbs out of about 1400 have all seven stems, viz.: בָּקַע, גָּלָה, הָלָה, יָדַע, יָלַד, פָּקַד.

2. 379 verbs are found in Qāl only; 40 in Nif'al only; 68 in Pi'el only; 11 in Pu'al only; 58 in Hif'il only; 6 in Hof'al only; 19 in Hiθpā'el only.

3. In all, 1090 verbs have a Qāl stem; 433, a Nif'al stem; 405, a Pi'el stem; 188, a Pu'al stem; 503, a Hif'il stem; 104, a Hof'al stem; 177, a Hiθpā'el stem.

1. The pronominal elements used in the inflection of the Perfect are always af-fixed to the stem.

2. The inflection of the verb exhibits distinctions for number, person and gender. Special forms for the feminine occur in the 2d and 3d person sing., and in the 2d person plur.

3. a. The original vowels of the Qāl Perfect are ä—ä (קָטַל). In the form קָטַל, the ä under the tone remains unchanged, while the ä in the open syllable before the tone is rounded to â. The same vowel change takes place in forms 3, 4, 5 and 9.

b. In forms 2 and 6, the vowel-terminations הִיא (= she) and הֵן (= they) draw the preceding consonant away from the ultimate vowel (ä) of the stem; the change of this vowel to Š'wâ follows (§ 36. 3) and the ä of the preceding syl. being now immediately before the tone-syl. is rounded to â.

c. The heavy terminations הֵם (= ye (m.)) and הֵן (= ye (f.)) carry the tone; the ä in the final syl. of the stem is retained unchanged in the closed unaccented syllable; while the ä of the open antepenult is reduced to Š'wâ (§ 36. 3. N. 2).

Certain verbs expressive of physical or mental states of being are called stative verbs. They show some characteristic forms in inflection.

1. Stative verbs with -- under the second radical of the $\text{K}\ddot{\text{a}}\text{l}$ stem are inflected in the manner described in the preceding section (§ 60.).

2. Verbs with -- (lowered from --) under the second radical, do not differ from those with -- in the inflection of the Perfect, except that the -- appears

a. in the Perfect 3 masc. sing., and

b. when restored in pause (§ 38. 1), or before the tone.

3. Verbs with -- (lowered from --) under the second radical retain the \bar{o} whenever the tone would rest upon it, and in pause.

- b. The Pu'al (קֻטַּל).
- c. The Hof'al (הִקְטַל, also sometimes הִקְטַל).

2. Three present slight variations from the inflection of the Ḳāl, viz.,

- a. The Pi'el (קִטַּל and קִטַּל, from קִטַּל), in which — appears in the ultima before terminations beginning with a consonant.
- b. The Hithpa'el (הִתְקַטַּל and הִתְקַטַּל), in which, also, ä appears, but sometimes ĩ is retained.

c. The Hif'il (הִקְטִיל, anomalous for הִקְטַל, from הִקְטַל), in which,

- (1) before the vowel-terminations הַ and וּ, the anomalous ĩ is retained and accented; while
- (2) before terminations beginning with a consonant, — everywhere appears.

10. We shall kill נִקְטֹל, for נִקְטֹל, with נִ, a pronominal root; cf. נַחְנוּ we.

REMARKS

1. The pronominal elements employed in the inflection of the Imperfect are not so clearly recognized as in the Perfect; they are

a. Pre-fixes: יְ, תְּ, תְּ, תְּ, אֲ, יְ, תְּ, תְּ, תְּ, נִ, in all of which — is attenuated to —, but under אֲ is deflected to — (ē).

b. Af-fixes: —, —, —, יְ, —; וּ, נָה, וּ, נָה, —

¹ יְ is found in K^{61v} seven times for אַתְּ thou (f.).

2. a. The stem of the Imperfect is קָטַל, whence comes קָטַל through the influence of the tone. Cf. Arabic yaktul.

The original form of the Impf. stem was kūṭūl, and the same stem forms the basis of the Imperative and Infinitive Construct forms. When the preformative of the Impf. was added, it naturally drew to itself a secondary tone, and so the ũ of the following syllable was easily lost (cf. business, pronounced biz-ness). It reappears in certain forms of the Infinitive Construct and Imperative.

b. The ō is often written fully (וּ); but this must be regarded as an error, since it is a tone-long vowel.

c. When יקָטַל and similar forms are connected by Mākḳēf with a following word, thus losing the tone, the original ũ is not lowered to ō, but deflected to ö (וּ).

3. The vowel-terminations יִ (seldom יִן) and וּ (seldom וּן) draw the preceding consonant away from the ultimate vowel, which then necessarily passes into Š'wâ (§ 36. 3. a).

4. The termination נָה (seldom נוּ) does not receive the tone.

3. יִתֵן (1:17); תִתֵן (3:6); תִלְךָ (3:14); יִצֵא (4:16).

1. Stative verbs with middle A, with some exceptions, have in the Imperfect the form יִקְטֹל (orig. yăḳ-ṭül), the inflection of which is given in § 63.

2. Verbs middle E and verbs middle O, with some verbs middle A, have in the Imperfect a stem with ä instead of ö; this ä is treated like the ö.

Remark.—The Imperfect stem קָטַל, instead of קִטַּל, is used also in verbs, whether active or stative, which have a laryngeal for the second or third radical.

3. Some verbs whose first radical is ו, and the verb נָתַן to give, have for the Imperfect stem the form וְקָטַל, i. e., ē instead of ö or ä. No strong verb has this stem.

Note 1.—There were three Perfect stems, קָטַל, קִטַּל, and קִטַּל; and so there are three Imperfect stems, וְקָטַל, וְקָטַל, and וְקָטַל, the ä in each case being original, while the ē and ö have come from ĭ and ŭ respectively.

Note 2.—It will be seen later that the stem-vowel of the Imperative varies with that of the Imperfect.

1. a. The stem of the Nif'āl Imperfect differs from that of the Nif'āl Perfect in two particulars:

- (1) the first radical has a vowel,
- (2) the original form of the Imperfect was yānākāṭil. Emphasis upon the preformative caused the elision of the second ā, with the consequent assimilation of the n to the following k and its representation by dāḡ. förtē and attenuation of the preformative ā to ī.

Note.—The vowel of the ultima, generally —, is sometimes —;
cf. the interchange of these vowels in the Pī'ēl, and Hīθpā'ēl.

b. In the inflection of the Nif'āl Imperfect, there is to be noted,

- (1) the use of either — or — before הַךְ;
- (2) the occurrence of — sometimes instead of — under the pref. נֶ.¹⁰

2. a. The stem of the Pī'ēl Imperfect is identical with that of the corresponding Perfect, except that the original penultimate — is now retained.

b. In the inflection of the Pī'ēl Imperfect, there is to be noted,

- (1) the use of Š'wâ under the preformatives, just as also in the Pū'āl (compound Š'wâ under the laryngeal נֶ); this reduction of the preformative vowel in Pī'ēl and Pū'āl is due to strong stress on the following syllable.

- (2) the use of either — or — (prevailingly the former) before הַךְ.

3. a. The stem of the Hīθpā'ēl Imperfect is the same as that of the corresponding Perfect, except that הַ does not appear in the preformative syllable.

b. In the inflection of the Hīṯpā'ēl Imperfect, there is likewise to be noted the use of either — or — (prevailingly the former) before נָה .

4. The stem and inflection of the Pū'āl and Hōf'āl present no new peculiarities.

5. a. The stem of the Hif'il Imperfect is identical with that of the corresponding Perfect, except that (1) under the preformatives the original — is retained, and (2) the causative ה is elided, as also in the Hōf'āl Imperfect.

b. In the inflection of the Hif'il Imperfect, there is to be noted,

(1) the form יִקְטֹל , used as a Jussive (§ 69.), and with Wāw Conversive (§ 70.), the — of which is regularly lowered from — ;

(2) the retention and accentuation of the stem-vowel י before the vowel-additions י , ן ;

(3) the occurrence of — , rather than י , before נָה .

Note 1.—The following table will be found serviceable:

1. Name of stem,	Ḳāl,	Nīf.,	Pī.,	Pū.,	Hīf.,	Hōf.,	Hīṯpā.

1. The stem of the Imperative is the same in every case as that of the Imperfect; it will be noted that, like the Imperfect,

a. The Qāl has two forms, one (active) with ō, and one (stative) with ā.

b. The Hif'il corresponds in form to the Jussive Imperfect in ē (§ 69.), rather than to the usual Imperfect, which has î. Both forms are naturally more quickly spoken than the Indicative.

c. The initial ה which is always absent from a preformative in the Impf., appears in the Imperative of the Nif'al, Hif'il, and Hithpā'el.

Note.—The pure passives Pū'āl and Hōf'āl have no Imperative.

2. In the inflection of the Imperatives, it will be seen that

a. Before vowel-additions, the vowel of the stem disappears (except in the Hif'il); and the short î under the first radical of the Qāl fem. sg., and masc. pl., stands in a closed syllable, the transliteration being kiṭ-li, kiṭ-lū.

Note.—Occasional forms like *מְשַׁכְּבוּ*¹⁷, *מְלִיכִי*¹⁸, and certain forms with pronominal suffixes (§ 71. 3. b) show that the original Imv.

stem was probably vocalized קטל. Hence the i of fem. sg. and masc. pl. is perhaps thinned from ü.

b. The Hif'il Imv. has ē as its stem-vowel in the masc. sg., and fem. pl., but i in the fem. sg. and masc. pl.

Note 1.—The stem of the Imperative receives no preformatives, and its affirmatives are those of the Imperfect.

Note 2.—On the Imperative with הַ (cohortative) see § 69.

Each stem has two Infinitives, called Absolute and Construct; but no example is found of a Pū'āl or Hōf'āl Infinitive Construct.

1. The Infinitive Absolute has the form of a noun, and is not based upon either the Perfect or Imperfect stem.

a. In the penult, an original ä becomes ā in the Qāl and in one form of the Nif'āl, i in the other Nif'āl, and remains unchanged in the Pfāl, Hiθpā'āl and Hif'il; while original ü appears in the Pū'āl and is deflected to ō in the Hōf'āl.

Remark. 1.—The Nif'āl Infinitive Absolute has two forms, one (נִקְטַל) following the analogy of the Perfect; the other (הִתְקַטַּל), following the analogy of the stem appearing in the Inf. Construct and Imperative.

Remark 2.—The ô in the Inf. Abs., arising always from â, is seldom written fully. Old noun forms in Arabic likewise show long vowels written defectively.

2. a. The Infinitive Construct has, in each case, the form of the stem found in the Imperfect and Imperative.

Remark.—Stative verbs, which have ä in the Imperfect and Imperative, have, nevertheless, ô in the Infinitive Construct. The cases of an Infinitive Construct with ä are very few.

b. The Ḳāl Inf. Construct not infrequently takes a form with הַ. This form is found especially with the preposition לְ.

Note 1.—The ultimate vowel of the various Infinitives Construct is changeable, while that of the Infinitives Absolute is unchangeable.

Note 2.—Only to the Infinitives Construct may prepositions be prefixed, or suffixes added.

1. The Kāl stem has two participles; the remaining stems, one each:

a. The Kāl active is קָטַל (sometimes קוֹטֵל) = kâṭēl for kâṭīl; the ô being obscured from an original â, the ē lowered from ĩ.

b. The Kāl stative participle has the form of the Perfect 3 masc. sg., קָטַל (=kâṭēl); it is not so uniformly used, however, as is the Kāl active.

c. In the Kāl passive participle, viz., קָטוּל (=kâṭûl for kâṭûl); the û is unchangeable, but the â, rounded from ă, is changeable.

2. The Nif'āl Participle is the same as the Nif'āl Perfect, with the vowel of the ultima rounded, since the Participle is a nominal form (§ 36.).

3. The remaining Participles are made by prefixing מ to that form of their respective stems which is used in the Imperfect:—

a. This מ has ׀ under it in the Pī'el and Pū'āl, while in the other stems it takes the place of the initial ה of the stem.

b. The ultimate vowel, if not long in the stem, is changed under the tone, the participle being a nominal form.

Note 1.—The מ is probably related to the pronouns מִי and מֶה.

Note 2.—For feminine forms of the participle, see § 115.

2. יִקְטֹל, cf. יִקְטִיל; יִכְרֹת; יִתְסַתֵּר; יִפְקֹד (41:34).

3. יִזְכָּרָה⁴ Think; חֲלֵצָה⁵ Oh save; הִקְשִׁיבָה⁶ Attend.

Remark.—הִפְרַדְדָּנָא (13:9); שָׁמְעוּ-נָא⁷; אִמְלֹטָה-נָא (19:20).

Some special forms of the Imperfect and Imperative deserve notice:

1. The Cohortative Imperfect:

a. This is characterized by the ending הַֿ, before which a preceding vowel, unless unchangeable, becomes Š^wâ. It is found, with few exceptions, only in the first person singular and plural.

b. Its special signification is that of desire, determination, and, in the plural, exhortation.

2. The Jussive Imperfect:

a. This is, wherever possible, a shorter form than the regular Imperfect. It is found chiefly in the 2d and 3d persons; and in strong verbs only in the Hif'il stem (viz., with — instead of יַֿ); but in all stems of verbs ל"ה (§ 82.) and ע"ן (§ 86.). The wâw-conversive form of the Imperfect is also that of the Jussive (cf. § 70.).

b. Its special signification is that of wish, command; with a negative, dissuasion, prohibition.

3. The Cohortative Imperative; this, like the Cohortative Imperfect, is characterized by the ending הַֿ, and is often more emphatic than the ordinary form. The Hif. Inv. changes — to יַֿ before הַֿ.

Remarks.—The modal idea in each of these three forms is intensified or enlivened by the particle נָא, which is frequently found in connection with them.

Note 1.—The regular Imperfect and Imperative forms may without change convey the ideas characteristic of the forms here discussed.

The use of the Perfect and Imperfect with the so-called Wāw Conversive² is one of the most marked peculiarities of the language.

² The form is usually called Wāw Consecutive; but this name claims too much for the form; the older term Conversive, while not ideal, is less objectionable.

Only what relates to the forms of the conjunction, and to the verbal forms to which the conjunction is joined, will here be noticed.

1. The facts in the case, briefly stated, are as follows:

a. In continued narrations of the past, the first verb is in the Perfect, while those that follow, unless they are separated from the conjunction by intervening words, are in the Imperfect and connected with the preceding Perfect by means of Wāw Conversive.

b. In the narration of actions which are to occur in the future, or which can only be conditionally realized, or which are indefinite so far as their character or occurrence is concerned, the first verb is in the Imperfect (or Participle, or Imperative), while those that follow, unless they are separated from the conjunction by intervening words, are in the Perfect and connected with the preceding verb by means of Wāw Conversive.

Note.—This more common usage is very often modified in various ways; but a consideration of these questions belongs to Syntax, and cannot be taken up here.

2. The form of the conjunction, however, is not the same in both cases:

a. With the Imperfect, the conjunction is ׀, but

(1) the following consonant regularly has Dāḡēš-förtē;

(2) the Dāḡēš-förtē may be omitted from a consonant which has only Š'wâ under it (§ 14. 2), and

(3) before ׀, in the first person, the Dāḡēš-förtē being omitted, the preceding — becomes —.

b. With the Perfect, the conjunction is the same as the ordinary Wāw Conjunctive, with its various pointings (§ 49.).

3. With reference to the verbal form employed,

a. In the case of the Imperfect, there is used,

(1) in the first person, a lengthened form exactly similar to that of the Cohortative (§ 69.)¹—a usage which is rare and late;

¹ Cf. וְאֶשְׁלַחְךָ (32 : 6); וְנִחַלְתָּ (41 : 11); וְנִקְחָהּ (43 : 21); וְאֶמְנָה (Num. 8 : 19); also Ez. 7 : 27-9 : 6, in which there are seventeen cases.

- (2) in the second and third persons, a short form like that of the Jussive (§ 69.) and found in many weak and bilateral verbs and in the Hif'il of strong verbs.
- (3) a form with accent on the penult, and the consequent vowel changes; but the penult cannot carry the accent unless it is an open syllable, and the final syllable has a changeable vowel. This form cannot occur in the strong verb.
- (4) the ordinary verbal form unchanged.

Remark.—With Wāw Conversive the Hif'il, therefore, has ē instead of î; but this î is usually restored, though written defectively, before suffixes.

b. In the case of the Perfect, the usual verbal form is employed; but, whenever possible, this form is marked by a change of accent, the tone passing from the penult to the ultima.

Note.—As a matter of fact, the cases in which there is no change of tone are as numerous as those in which there does occur change. These cases are grouped by Driver¹ as follows: (1) in those forms of the Perfect (3 sg., 2 fem. sg., 3 com. pl., 2 masc. pl., 2 fem. pl.) which are already Milrā'; (2) when the Perfect is immediately followed by a monosyllable, or dissyllable accented on the penult; (3) when the Perfect is in pause; (4) in the 1 pl. of all conjugations, and in 3 fem. sg. and 3 pl. of the Hif'il; (5) in the Kāl of verbs ל"ה and ה"ל; (6) frequently in those forms of ע"ע and Middle-Vowel Kāls and Nif'āls which end in ך and ה ף.

When the object of a verb is a pronoun, it is often expressed by the union of אַתְּ and the pronominal suffix. More often, however, the pronominal suffix is joined directly to the verbal form. This occasions certain changes of termination and of stem. When a suffix is added to a verbal form, the form becomes subject, so far as the influence of the tone is concerned, to the laws controlling the vocalization of nouns.

1. In the case of the Perfect with suffixes, it is to be noted,

a. In reference to termination-changes, that the older endings are in many cases retained, as

- (1) the older תִּי, for the later תִּי (3 sg. fem.);
- (2) the older תִּי, for the later תִּי (2 sg. fem.);
- (3) the older תִּי, for the later תִּי (2 pl. masc.), perhaps after the analogy of י in the 3d plural.

Remark.—תִּי occurs for תִּי (2 m. sg.), often before נִי.

b. In reference to stem-changes, that, in the Kāl,

- (1) the first syllable, being no longer pretonic when a suffix is appended, reduces its original ā in the open syllable to Š^ʿwā; while
- (2) the ā of the second syllable, which has been reduced before personal terminations beginning with a vowel, is retained, and, in the open syllable before the tone, rounded to ā.

Remark 1.—The — of verbs Middle E appears before suffixes.

Remark 2.—The Pī'el and Hīθpā'el take — in the last syllable before ִי, ִם, ִן, but elsewhere the vowel is rejected; while the ultimate î of the Hif'il suffers no change.

c. In reference to the union of termination and suffix, that

- (1) to a verbal form ending in a vowel, the suffix is attached directly;
- (2) to a verbal form ending, in ordinary usage, with a consonant, the suffix is attached by means of a so-called connecting-vowel which is generally ā, but before ִי, ִם, and ִן, is Š^ʿwā, and before ִי is ē.
- (3) to the 3 sg. fem. termination ִי, suffixes forming a syllable are attached without a connecting-vowel; other suffixes have a connecting-vowel, viz., ě before ִי, but ā before ִם; the accent, peculiarly, in every case stays on the feminine ending ִי.

Note.—Certain changes are quite frequent: (1) ִי to ִי; (2) ִי to ִי; (3) ִי to ִי; (4) ִי to ִי; (5) ִי to ִי. In the third and fifth of these cases, the dāğ. is, perhaps, in compensation for the ִי. In the fifth, the ִי of the present form is merely a vowel-letter. In the fourth case, the final vowel was dropped, and the Mäppik in ִי shows it to be a genuine consonant, rather than a vowel-letter.

2. In the case of the Imperfect with suffixes, it is to be noted, a. In reference to termination-changes, that נָה (2 and 3 pl. fem.) always yields to ךְּ. Note the analogy to the 3d. pers. plur. in ךְּ, as also appears in the 2d. pers. plur. masc. (see above).

b. In reference to stem-changes, that before suffixes,

- (1) the ũ (lowered to ō) of Kāl forms ending in a consonant usually becomes ׀, but ǒ before ך, םׁ, ןׁ, the Š'wâ preceding the suffix being vocal;
- (2) the ä of Kāl forms ending in a consonant is retained and rounded to â;
- (3) the final vowel of Pi'el forms ending in a consonant is ordinarily reduced to ׀, but is deflected to ě before ך, םׁ, ןׁ; while the î of Hif'il forms remains.

c. In reference to the union of termination and suffix, that

- (1) to verbal forms ending in a vowel the suffix is attached directly; while
- (2) to verbal forms ending in a consonant, the suffix is attached by means of a connecting-vowel, which is generally ē, but ׀ before ך, םׁ, ןׁ; and ě, sometimes â, before ך;
- (3) in pausal and emphatic forms, suffixes are often attached to a verbal form ending in an, which under the tone becomes ěn, of which the ן is generally assimilated.

Note 1.—This syllable, ordinarily treated as a union-syllable and called Nûn Epenthetic or Demonstrative, is found also before suffixes in old Aramaic. It is probably an old form of the verb.

Note 2.—In the endings ןׁ (3 m. sg.) and ןׁ (3 f. sg.), the Dâgēs-förtē in ן perhaps is in compensation for the ך from ןך and ן respectively.

3. In the case of Infs. and Imvs. with suffixes, it is to be noted that,

a. The Kāl Infinitive (construct) takes

- (1) before ך, םׁ, ןׁ, generally, the form קטלׁ (ǒ); but
- (2) before other suffixes the form קטלׁ, the ǒ, in both cases, standing in a closed syllable.

(3) as connecting-vowels, those used in the inflection of nouns.

Remark 1.—The Pi'el Infinitive takes ׀ before ך, םׁ, ןׁ.

Remark 2.—The Infinitive may take either the verbal suffix, ןי, or the nominal suffix יׁ.

b. The Ḳāl Imperative, taking the connecting-vowel of the Impf.,

- (1) in the 2 masc. sg., follows the analogy of the Infinitive;
- (2) in the 2 masc. pl., suffers no change;
- (3) in the 2 fem. pl., has the form קְטִילוּ instead of קְטִילְנָה, just as in the corresponding form of the Imperf. with suffixes.

Remark 1.—The Imperative in ä retains and rounds the ä, as does the Imperfect.

Remark 2.—In the Hif'il, the form הִקְטִיל is used instead of הִקְטִיל.

Note.—The Participles, before suffixes, undergo the same vowel changes as regular nouns of the same formation, and may take either the nominal or the verbal suffixes.

REMARKS

1. The Ḳāl is the simple verb-stem (§ 58.).
2. The Nif'al has in every form the letter ך; this letter, however, is assimilated and represented by Dāḡēš-förtē in the Imperfect, Imperative, and Infinitives (§ 58.).
3. The Pi'el has everywhere (1) the vowel — under the first radical (except in the Perfect), and (2) a Dāḡēš-förtē characteristic in the second radical (§ 58.).
4. The Hiθpā'el is the same as the Pi'el (except in the Perfect) with the syllable הַתִּ prefixed (§ 58. 5).
5. The Pū'al has everywhere (1) the vowel — under the first radical, and (2) a Dāḡēš-förtē characteristic in the second radical (§ 58. 3).
6. The Hif'il has in all forms (except the Perfect) the vowel — under the preformative (§ 58. 1).
7. The Hōf'al has in all forms the vowel ö (or ü) under the preformative (§ 58. 3).

73. Classes of Laryngeal Verbs

1. עֹבַד (2:24); הִפְּךָ (3:24); אָבַל¹; חָדַל (18:11); עָצַר (20:18).
2. רָחַף (1:2); שָׁחַט²; בָּעָרָה³; שָׂאֵל⁴; נִבְּהַל⁵.
3. שָׁמַע (3:8); שָׁלַח (3:22); בָּטַח⁶; בָּקַע (7:11); פָּתַח (42:27); נִבְּהַ⁷.

Remark.—וַיִּבְרָךְ (1:28); תִּרְמַסְנָה⁸; קִרְבָּתִי⁹.

A Laryngeal Verb is one the root of which contains one or more laryngeal radicals. They fall into three classes, viz.:

1. Pē (פ) Laryngeal, of which the first radical is a laryngeal (§ 74.).
2. 'Āyīn (ע) Laryngeal, of which the second radical is a laryngeal (§ 75.).

¹ Isa. 24 : 7.² Jer. 39 : 6.³ Num. 11 : 3.⁴ Judg. 5 : 25.⁵ 1 Sam. 28 : 21.⁶ Ps. 28 : 7.⁷ Isa. 55 : 9.⁸ Isa. 28 : 3.⁹ Isa. 46 : 13.

3. Láměd (ל) Laryngeal, of which the third radical is a laryngeal (§ 76.).

Remark.—Verbs with ל as first or second radical show some of the characteristics of laryngeal verbs, especially in the refusal of ל to take Dāğěš-förtē.

Note.—The terms Pē Laryngeal, etc., are based upon the order of the radicals in the old paradigm-verb, פֿעל, the first radical being designated by פ, the second by ע, and the third by ל.

Verbs, whose first radical is a laryngeal, exhibit the following peculiarities (§ 42. 1-3):

1. The laryngeal refuses to be doubled; hence the Dǎğěš-förtē, representing ַ, in the Nif'al Impf., Imv., and Inf., is rejected, and the preceding ־ becomes ֿ (even before ה).

2. The laryngeal prefers before it the a-class vowels; hence

a. In the Kāl Impf. with ō, and in the Kāl Impf. of verbs that are also לָה (§ 81.), the original ǎ of the preformative is retained; while

b. In the Kāl Impf. with ֿ, in the Nif'al Perf. and Part., and in the Hif'il Perf., the original preformative vowel is deflected to ě, for the sake of euphony.

Remark 1.—A few cases occur of forms like יַעֲטַל or יַעֲטֹל.

Remark 2.—In הִיָּה and הִיָּה the preformative vowel is regularly attenuated to ĩ as in the strong verb.

Remark 3.—In the Hif. Pf. 3d sg. masc. and fem. and 3d pl., the ě of the preformative is due to the influence of the other six forms in which ǎ is the stem-vowel and the preformative vowel undergoes deflection on its account.

3. The laryngeal prefers compound to simple Š'wâ; hence

a. When the first radical is initial and, according to the inflection of the strong verb, would have a simple Š'wâ, it takes instead ֿ, or, particularly in the case of נ, ֿ.

² Ruth 1 : 18.

⁴ Lev. 8 : 7.

⁵ Ex. 7 : 17.

⁶ Ps. 31 : 9.

⁷ Num. 3 : 6.

⁸ Ex. 4 : 29.

b. When the first radical is medial, it may either, according to the inflection of the strong verb, have under it a silent Š'wâ or, in order to facilitate the pronunciation, it may receive a compound Š'wâ as a helping-vowel, which always corresponds to the preceding vowel; thus, $\text{--}\text{--}\text{--}$, $\text{--}\text{--}\text{--}$, $\text{--}\text{--}\text{--}$ (ö).

c. When, in inflection, a compound Š'wâ would come to stand before a simple Š'wâ, as when vowel-additions are made to a word, the compound Š'wâ gives way to its corresponding short vowel.

d. The combination $\text{--}\text{--}\text{--}$ very frequently becomes $\text{--}\text{--}\text{--}$, when, in inflection, the tone is removed to a greater distance.

Note.—The ה and ח of הִיָּה and חִיָּה have a silent Š'wâ according to b (above), when medial and vowelless; but a compound Š'wâ ($\text{--}\text{--}\text{--}$), when initial and without a full vowel.

Verbs, whose second radical is a laryngeal, exhibit the following peculiarities (§ 42. 1-3):

1. The laryngeal refuses to be doubled; but

a. While in the case of א (generally), and of ר (always), the preceding vowel is changed (ă to â, ĩ to ē, ũ to ō),

b. In the case of the stronger laryngeals, viz., ע (prevailing), ה and ח (almost always), the preceding vowel is retained short, the doubling being implied (§ 42. 1. b).

Note 1.—Lowering of ũ to ō in the Pū'āl takes place frequently in verbs which retain the ĩ or ă of the Pī'ēl.

Note 2.—In a few verbs, especially those with א, the vowel is changed in some parts of the inflection, but in other parts retained.

Note 3.—The vowel which is strengthened on account of the rejection of Dāġēš-förtē is unchangeable.

2. The laryngeal prefers the a-class vowels; this is seen

a. In the occurrence of ă, after the laryngeal, in the Kāl Impf. and Imv., rather than ō, even in Active verbs; and sometimes in the Pī'ēl Perf., rather than ē.

Note.—As a matter of fact, the laryngeal exerts less influence on a following than on a preceding vowel.

3. The laryngeal prefers compound to simple Š'wâ; this is seen in the almost universal occurrence of — under the second radical instead of — .

Verbs whose third radical is a laryngeal exhibit, according to § 42. 1-3, the following peculiarities:

1. The laryngeal prefers the a-class vowels; this is seen

a. In the occurrence of ä before the laryngeal, in the Qāl Impf. and Imv. (where ä was a collateral form), rather than ō, even in Active verbs.

b. In the retention of the original stem-vowel ä (§ 59.) in all forms where in the strong verb it becomes ē, except Inf. abs., and Participles.

c. In the insertion of a Päθāḥ-furtive (§ 42. 2. d) under a final laryngeal when the latter is preceded by a heterogeneous vowel, viz.:

(1) by a naturally long vowel, י, ו, or ו, or

(2) by a vowel essential to the form, as ō in the Qāl Inf. construct; or

(3) by the tone-long ē, which is retained in pause and also in the Inf. abs. and Parts., because they are really nominal forms.

d. In the insertion of a helping-vowel, viz., Päθāḥ, under the laryngeal, in the 2 fem. sg. of the various Perfects.

2. The laryngeal prefers compound to simple Š'wā; but this preference is indicated only before pronominal suffixes; the simple Š'wā being retained under the third radical wherever in ordinary inflection the strong verb would have it.

Note 1.—The Nif'al Inf. abs. is נִקְטַח following the analogy of the Perfect stem, rather than that of the Imperfect (§ 67.).

Note 2.—The Pi'el Inf. abs. and Inf. const. are the same (cf. the 'ע laryngeal verb), except that the former, being treated as a noun, changes its ä through ĩ to — and takes Păθăḥ-furtive.

Note 3.—Verbs with ה (i. e., ה with Măppik) as their third radical are 'ל laryngeal, and are carefully to be distinguished from verbs with the vowel-letter ה (§ 82.).¹

Those verbs the roots of which contain one or more weak consonants are called Weak Verbs. The consonants in question are such as either easily contract, or quiesce, or suffer elision. The following classes of Weak Verbs are recognized:

1. Pē Nûn (נ״ן), in which the first radical is ן (§ 78.).
2. Pē 'Aléf (א״א), in which the first radical is א, and is in some forms quiescent (§ 79.). There are six such verbs.
3. Pē Wāw (ו״ו), in which the first radical is ן and is sometimes contracted and sometimes elided (§ 80.).

² Jer. 18: 4.

4. Pē Yôd (י"פ), in which the first radical is י__ and is contracted (§ 81.).

5. Lāmēd Hē (ה"ל), in which the last radical ך or י is often dropped. Many such forms close with the vowel-letter ה, whence the verb gets its name (§ 82.).

6. Lāmēd 'Ālēf (א"ל), in which the last radical is א, which frequently quiesces (§ 83.).

Note 1.—The Weak Verbs were in all probability once Bi-literal Verbs, and should be treated in Chapter XII. They are kept here, however, for the sake of simplicity of presentation to students just entering upon the study of the language.

Note 2.—A single verb sometimes contains more than one weak radical and so combines characteristics of more than one class.

Verbs whose first radical is נ exhibit the following peculiarities:

1. The loss of נ takes place (§ 40. 1) when initial and with only a Š'wâ to sustain it:

a. Generally in the Kāl Inf. Const. of verbs whose stem-vowel in the Impf. and Imv. is ä; in this case the ending ת is taken on in compensation and the form becomes a Seğolate.

b. In the Kāl Imv. of verbs which have ä in the Imperfect.

Remark.—The Kāl Infinitive and Imperative of verbs with ò in the Imperfect do not often lose the initial נ.

2. The assimilation of נ takes place (§ 39. 1) when, having under it a silent Š'wâ, it closes a preformative syllable,

a. In the Kāl Imperfect, and Nif'äl Perfect and Part.

b. Throughout the Hif'il and Höf'äl.

Note 1.—The original preformative vowel ü appears in the Höf'äl, on account of the sharpened syllable (§ 36. 6. a).

Note 2.—Care must be taken not to confuse with verbs נָפַץ, (1) those verbs נָפַץ which assimilate נ (§ 80.) or drop it (in Inf. Const. and Imv. Kāl); (2) those so-called נָפַץ forms which have a Remark 1.—The ן remains un-assimilated in verbs 'ע laryngeal, and in a few isolated instances besides.

Remark 2.—The verb לָקַח take treats ל like ן in the Kāl and Hōf'āl, but in the Nif'āl (נִלְקַח) the ל is retained.

Remark 3.—The verb נָתַן is peculiar (1) in its Inf. Const. נָתַת (= תָּתַת = תָּנַת), which has as its stem-vowel ĩ, (2) in the appearance of the same vowel ĩ changed to ē, in the Imv. (תֵּן) and Imperf. (יִתֵּן), and (3) in the assimilation of the third radical in inflection.

2. תֹּאבֵל (2:16), but תֹּאבֵל (3:6); נֹאבֵל (3:2), but יֹאבֵל (3:6); וַיֹּאמֶר (1:3).

Remark.—אֲבֵלָה (2:17); לֹאמֵר (1:22), for לֹאמֶר; יֹאבֵל (6:21); יֹאמֶר (10:9).

Of the verbs having פ for their first radical, there are six (see § 77.) which show certain peculiarities in the Kāl Imperfect:

1. The first radical פ loses its consonantal character, and the vowel of the preformative, orig. ä, is ô (rounded from â, which was lengthened from ä in compensation for the quiescence of פ).¹

Note.—This פ is retained orthographically, except in the first sing., where it is dropped after the preformative פ (= I).

2. The Imperfect stem-vowel is ē (from ĩ) in pause; but elsewhere generally ä; when the accent recedes, it is ě.

Remark.—Outside of the Kāl Imperfect, these verbs are treated as verbs 'פ laryngeal (§ 74.).

Note.—A few verbs are treated sometimes as פ"א, sometimes as 'פ laryngeal.

Verbs whose first radical was originally ך exhibit the following peculiarities:

1. The original ך passes over into י (§ 44. 1. a) whenever it would be initial, as in the Ḳāl, Pī'el and Pū'āl Perfects and Inf. Abs., the Ḳāl Part., and the strong form of the Ḳāl Inf. Const.; and frequently also after the prefix הַתְּ (§ 44. 1. b).

2. In the Ḳāl Imperfect, Imperative and Inf. Const., two treatments exist, according as the radical ך (or י) is rejected or retained:

a. In those verbs which reject the radical ך,

(1) the Imperfect has for its stem-vowel ē (from ĩ), or (before laryngeals) ä, while the preformative takes unchangeable ê in compensation for the loss of ך.

(2) the Imperative has the same vowel as the Imperfect;

(3) the Infinitive construct, taking on the ending ת in compensation (cf. verbs פ"ן, § 78. a), assumes the form of an a-class Seğolate noun מַלְתָּ (for מַלְתָּ, § 89.).

b. In those verbs which retain the radical ך, the Imperfect has for its stem-vowel ä, while the ך, changed to י, unites with the vowel (i) of the preformative and gives î.

Note.—Only three verbs⁹ retain ך (י) in the Imperative, and these are verbs which have no third radical.

Remark 1.—The Inf. Const. has most frequently the form מַלְתָּ (= מַלְתָּ), before suffixes מַלְתָּ; several cases, however, occur of the form מַלְתָּ; the form מַלְתָּ is found a few times, while מַלְתָּ seldom occurs.

Remark 2.—Seemingly for compensation, the Imperative often assumes the cohortative ending הַתְּ (§ 69.).

Remark 3.—The verb הִלַּךְ walk forms its Ḳāl Imperf., Imv. and Inf. Const. and its Hif. Perf. and Imperf. on the analogy of the Pē Wāw verb.

Remark 4.—The verb לָקַח take follows the analogy of this class of verbs in its Imperative and Inf. Const. Ḳāl where ל is dropped. In Ḳāl Imperf. it assimilates ל as some Pē Wāw verbs treat י and as נ is regularly treated in Pē Nūn verbs.

3. The first radical (י), when medial, remains; but

a. It appears as a consonant only when it would be doubled, as in the Nif'āl Imperf., Imv. and Inf. Const. (§ 44. 5 c).

b. It unites with the preformative vowel ä, and forms יַ (ä+w=ö), in the Nif'āl Perfect and Participle, and throughout the Hif'il (§ 44. 3. a).

c. It unites with the preformative vowel ü, and forms יְ throughout the Höf'äl (§ 44. 3. e).

Note.—The form יִכַּל (from יָכַל be able) is regarded by some as a regular Höf'äl Imperf.; by others, as a Ḳāl Passive Imperf.

4. In a few verbs פִּי, the י (= י) is assimilated, just as נ of verbs פִּי (§ 78.) was assimilated.

Verbs whose third radical is ך are very few, the ך in nearly every case having passed over into ך. Verbs whose third radical is ך present the following peculiarities:

1. When the third radical (ך) would be final, it appears nowhere except in the Kāl passive Participle. Its place is generally supplied by the vowel-letter ה, and hence these verbs are commonly termed ה"ל. The following treatments of final ך occur:

a. It is wholly rejected, and â, rounded from ä (§ 36. 2), appears as the vowel of the second radical in all Perfects.

b. It unites with the stem-vowel, and ê, contracted from äy (§ 36. 2), appears as the vowel of the second radical in all Imperfects.

c. It unites with the stem-vowel, and ê, contracted from äy (§ 36. 2), appears as the vowel of the second radical in all Participles, except the Kāl passive.

Remark.—In the construct form of the participle ך contracts with the preceding vowel (ä), yielding the form ê (הַךְ).

d. It is lacking, and ô (rounded from â) and ē, the usual vowels, appear as the stem-vowels of the Infs. absolute (the latter (ē) in Hif. Höf., and sometimes in Pī'el and Nif.).

e. It is lacking, and ô (either rounded from â, or contracted from ä and w) with the ending ה, appears as the ending of all Infs. Const.

2. Before vowel-additions, the radical י is usually lacking, together with its preceding vowel; it appears, however, in pausal and emphatic forms.

3. Before consonant-additions, the radical י unites with the preceding stem-vowel, always ä, forming the diphthongal ay, which appears as

- a. ê (יַ) in the Perfects of the passive stems (rarely it is יַ);
 b. î (יַ), thinned from ê, generally in the Perfects of active stems, though Pi'el and Hif'il stems very frequently have יַ;
 c. ê (יַ), contracted from ay, in Imperfects and Imperatives.

4. The Perfect 3 sg. fem. of all stems lacks the third radical (י) and takes the old feminine ending הַ, to which הַ is added.

Note.—This הַ is probably the usual feminine ending, added after the analogy of other verbs.

5. Forms lacking any representation of the third radical are found as follows:

a. Without הָ in the Pī'el, Hif'il and Hīθpā'el Imperatives; in Hif'il forms, a helping ־ or ־ is often inserted.

b. Without הָ in the Imperfect when used as a Jussive, or with Wāw Conversive (§§ 69. b, 70. d). In the absence of the הָ ,

- (1) the verbal form may stand without change; or
- (2) it may have the vowel of the preformative modified; or
- (3) it may receive the helping-vowel ־ ; or
- (4) it may receive the helping-vowel ־ , and also have the vowel of the preformative modified;
- (5) in laryngeal forms ־ is employed as the helping-vowel;
- (6) in the Nif'al there is no further change;
- (7) in the Pī'el and Hīθpā'el there is naturally the absence of the characteristic Dāḡēš-förtē;
- (8) in the Hif'il the helping vowel ־ is frequently employed, in which case the ־ of the preformative is deflected to ־ (§ 36. 2).

Verbs whose third radical is נ exhibit the following peculiarities:

1. Final נ always quiesces (§ 43. 1); this does not affect any preceding vowel except ä, which, in an open syllable, then becomes ā, as in the Ḳāl Perf., Imperf. and Imv.; throughout the Pū'āl and Hōf'āl forms, and in the Nif'āl Perfect.

Note.—The Ḳāl Imperf. and Imv. have ä for their stem-vowel, after the analogy of verbs ל laryngeal (§ 76.).

2. Medial נ is treated as a consonant (larynge),

a. Before all vowel-additions.

b. Before the Š'wā which precedes the suffixes ך, ם, ן.

3. Medial נ quiesces (i. e., loses its consonantal character) before all consonant-additions, the preceding vowel becoming

a. ◌̄, rounded from ä, in the Ḳāl Perfect (active).

b. ◌̄, lowered from ī, in the Ḳāl Perfect (stative), and in the remaining Perfects.

Note.—This use of ē in the Perfects parallels the usage in ה"ל verbs (§ 82.).

c. ◌̄ (ē), after the analogy of the ה"ל verb, in the Imperfects and Imperatives.

Remark 1.—In addition to instances indicated under 3 (above), נ shows a tendency to become silent in many isolated cases.

Remark 2.—נ, losing its consonantal character, is frequently dropped.

Remark 3.—There are numerous examples of verbs נ"ל with the inflection of verbs ה"ל (§ 82.), there being an evident confusion, in many cases, of the one class with the other.

XII. Bi-literal Verbs

84. Classes of Bi-literal Verbs

1. קָלוּ (8:8); יִשְׁכוּ (8:1); יִרַע (21:12); וַיַּחֵל (29:20); חִי (3:22).
2. יִשׁוּף (3:15); יִמּוֹת (38:11); שָׁב (18:33); תָּשׁוּב (3:19); וַיִּקָּם (4:8).

The Semitic vocabulary in general and the Hebrew in particular are predominantly tri-literal; i. e., words are, for the most part, made upon the basis of three radical consonants. Hebrew grammars have long taught that all Hebrew words might be explained upon the tri-literal basis; and many still so teach. But it now appears to be true that originally, not only in the Semitic languages as a whole, but also in Hebrew, there were two kinds of words, those organized as tri-literals, and those organized as bi-literals. But the tendency of the language was toward tri-literality. The bi-literals gradually yielded to this influence and sought in various ways to achieve tri-literality, or its equivalent, for themselves. Some carry the marks of their bi-literal origin more plainly visible than do others. It is probable indeed that all of the Weak Verbs were originally of the bi-literal order; but for the sake of convenience they have been treated here as tri-literals. But there are two classes of verbs which from every point of view are best treated frankly as bi-literals. These are:

1. The 'Āyīn-doubled (ע"ע) verb, the main characteristic of which is the doubling of the second radical.

Note.—An accurate name for this class awaits discovery. 'Āyīn must here be understood as designating the second radical, rather than the middle radical, since these roots have only two consonants.

2. The Middle-Vowel verbs, commonly called 'Āyīn Wāw (ו"ע) and 'Āyīn Yôd (י"ע).

Note.—The name "Middle-Vowel verb" is chosen here rather for convenience than for accuracy.

85. The 'Āyīn-Doubled Verb

One group of bi-literal verbs sought to approximate tri-literality by strengthening the consonantal element of the root. As a rule, the second radical was therefore doubled whenever possible. The vowel used before this doubled consonant was the same as that found as characteristic stem-vowel in the corresponding forms of the tri-literal strong verb.

1. a. The second radical is regularly doubled, except when final, throughout the Qāl, Nif'āl, Hif'il and Höf'āl stems.

b. Some verbs double the first instead of the second radical in the Qāl Imperf. This is the regular form in Aramaic for these verbs; this form of the Imperf. therefore is commonly called the Aramaic Imperf.

Remark.—Such forms occur sporadically in the Hif'il and Höf'āl.

2. Certain forms of the Qāl, Nif'āl, Hif'il and Höf'āl become fully tri-literal by writing the second radical twice and vocalizing as in the tri-literal strong verb. These are:

a. The Qāl Perfect of verbs denoting action or movement in all the forms of the 3d pers.

b. The Qāl Participles and Infin. Absol. The naturally long vowels of these forms made any other method of strengthening them impossible.

c. A few sporadic forms.

3. When terminations beginning with a consonant are attached to forms containing a doubled second radical, a separating vowel is inserted to make it possible to retain the doubling of the radical.

a. The forms in the perfect take ô as the separating vowel.

b. The Imperfect takes ê (יְ) before the termination נָה.

c. The separating vowels regularly carry the tone except before the heavy terminations םֶה־ and ןֶה־.

Note.—The origin of these separating vowels is not clear, but the probability is that they arose after the analogy of the ה־ל־ verb forms.

4. The following variations from the form of the stem-vowel as it appears in corresponding forms of the tri-literal strong verb are found:

a. The original ü regularly appears in the Qāl Imperf., Inf., and Imperative, whenever the tone leaves the root-syllable by reason of the addition of affixes or suffixes.

b. The original ü is deflected to ö in the Qāl Imperf. when the tone recedes to the preformative upon the addition of Wâw-conversive; and frequently also in cases covered by 4 a.

c. In the Nif'āl Imperf. and Imv., where ē appears in the strong verb, the original ä is retained unchanged.

d. In the Hif'il stem throughout, the attenuated ī is not lengthened to î as in the strong verb, but

(1) is lowered to ē when it has the tone;

(2) is retained as ī when it loses the tone by reason of the addition of affixes or suffixes, and

(3) is deflected to ě when the tone recedes on account of wâw-conversive.

Note.—A naturally long vowel before a doubled consonant is contrary to usage in Hebrew, being rarely, if ever, found.

d. הוֹחַל (4:26); מוֹסְבוֹת¹⁸; מוֹשְׁבֹת¹⁹.

5. Certain variations occur in the vowel of the preformative syllable from the vowel forms in the corresponding places in the strong verb. These are:

a. In the regular Qāl Imperf., the Nif'āl Perf. and Part., and the Hif'il Imperf. and Imv., the original ā of the preformative syllable is rounded to ā when pretonic, but is reduced to Šwâ when the tone moves farther away.

b. In the Nif'āl Imperf., Imv., and Infins. and in the so-called Aramaic Imperf. of the Qāl, the ā of the preformative is attenuated to ī in the unaccented sharpened syllable and remains without further change.

c. In the Hif'il Perf. and Part., the original ā of the preformative is attenuated to ī and then lowered to ē when pretonic; but when the tone moves away original ā is reduced to compound Šwâ (—).

Remark.—The intransitive Qāl Imperf. with ā as stem-vowel also has ē in the preformative syllable, but probably here it arises from an original ī.

d. The preformative ū of the Hōf. stem regularly lengthens to û. This is probably due to the influence of the Middle-Vowel verb (§ 86.).

Remark.—Frequently forms appear with ū unchanged and the first radical doubled; e. g., הִמְכַּו²⁰.

6. The Intensive Stems assume special forms in these verbs. These are:

a. The Pôlêl stem, as active intensive, with its reflexive Hîθpôlêl.

b. The Pôlâl stem, as passive of the Pôlêl, with its reflexive Hîθpôlâl.

c. The Pîlpêl stem appears as an active intensive in a few verbs.

Note.—These stems serve both for this verb and for the Middle-Vowel verb (§ 86.). In the Pôlêl and Pôlâl forms, the double writing of the 2d radical gives the desired tri-literality; and to express the intensive idea, the vowel of the penult is lengthened (and rounded) in place of another doubling of the 2d radical. In the Pîlpêl, the entire bi-literal root is doubled.

d. A few verbs write the 2d radical twice and make intensive stems from this lengthened root exactly as in the tri-literal verb proper. These are forms that developed late.

7. The tone generally stays upon the stem-syllable. As a rule, it

The Middle-Vowel verb is a bi-literal verb which seeks to approximate tri-literality, mainly by emphasizing the characteristic stem-vowel. Hence

1. Wherever the stem-vowel is characteristic of the form, it becomes naturally long, if the consonantal environment permits.

a. The ä of the Qäl Perf. becomes â, except before terminations beginning with a consonant.

Remark.—Stative verbs have ē or ō in the Qäl Perf.

b. The original ă of all Nif'al forms is lengthened to â and rounded to ô.

Note.—This ô gives way to û in some forms of the Perf., for the sake of euphony.

c. The same change to ô takes place in certain verbs having ă as the original stem-vowel of the Qāl Imperf.

d. The original ă of the Hif'il attenuates to ĭ, which lengthens to î in all forms except the Inf. Abs., the Imv. 2d sing. masc., the Jussive form of the Imperf., the Imperf. with Wâw-conversive, sometimes in the Imperf. before the ending נָה—, and in some exceptional forms.

Note.—The î in Hif'il of the tri-literal strong verb is probably due to the influence of this î in the Middle-Vowel verb.

e. An original ũ is lengthened to û in the Qāl Imperf. and Infin. Const., and in the Imv. except in the 2d fem. pl., where ũ is lowered to ō before the affix נָה—.

Remark.—In the Jussive form of the Qāl Imperf., ũ is merely lowered to ō; and in the form with Wâw-conversive, ũ is deflected to ö, except where it carries the tone and becomes ō.

f. An original ĭ lengthens to î in the Qāl Imperf., Imv. and Infin. Const. of the Middle î verb.

Remark.—In the Jussive this ĭ becomes ē; and with wâw-conversive ĭ is deflected to ě.

g. The Qāl Active Part. takes â (sometimes with א as vowel-letter), the vowel so characteristic of the penult of this Part. in the tri-literal verb, though in its rounded form ô; here it remains as â. The Qāl Infin. Absol. rounds its â into ô, as in the characteristic syllable of the corresponding tri-literal form.

2. Forms which lengthen the stem-vowel, as indicated above, take certain separating vowels before terminations beginning with a consonant. These make it possible to retain the lengthened stem-vowel and, in addition, give a longer form.

a. In the Nif'al and Hif'il Perfects the separating vowel is ô (וּ).

b. In the Käl Imperf. and rarely in the Hif'il Imperf. the separating vowel ê (יְ) is used.

c. These separating vowels regularly carry the tone, except before the heavy terminations הָם and הֶן.

Note.—Just as in the ע"ע verb, the separating vowels are perhaps due to the analogy of the ל"ה verb.

3. a. יָמוּת (38:11); יְשׁוּפֶךָ (3:15); נָמוּת (42:2); יְשׁוּבוּ (8:3); הָאִיר (1:17); הָשֵׁב (50:15); אָקִים (17:21); יְשִׁיב
(50:15); נִפְצוּ (10:18); וְנִסְגּוּ; וְהִשְׁבַּנָּה;² וְנִסְגַּנְתִּי;³
וְנִבְוִנְתִּי;⁴ וְיִקָּם (4:8); נָבוּן (41:33); וְנִבְוִנִים.⁵

b. יָמוּל (17:26); יְמוּל (17:12); הָמוּל (17:10); הֶכּוּן;⁶ וְיָמוּלוּ (34:24); וְהִלְוִנוּ.⁷

c. הָבִיא (4:4); הָשִׁיב (14:16); מְקִים (9:9); הִיָּקִים;⁸
וְהִנְיָח (6:18); הִרְמַתִּי (14:22); וְהִבְיִאוּךָ;¹⁰
וְהִסִּירָהּ.¹¹

d. See examples cited under 1 c above.

3. The vowel of the preformative syllable, when the latter is open, necessarily undergoes change:

a. The original ä rounds to å when pretonic, and is reduced to Šwâ when ante-pretonic, in the Käl Imperf., Nif'al Perf. and Part., Hif'il Imperf., Imv., and Infinitives.

b. The original ä attenuates to ĩ in the Nif'al Imperf., Imv., and Infinitives, and remains without further change in the sharpened syllable, just as in the tri-literal strong verb in the corresponding forms.

c. The original ä of the Hif'il Perf. and Part. is attenuated to ī and lowered to ē when pretonic, but is reduced to Š^wā when antepretonic.

d. In the preformative of the Kāl Imperf., with ä as stem-vowel (1 c above) of some intransitive verbs original ī undergoes the same changes as the attenuated ī of the preformative of the Hif'il Perfect.

4. הַמוֹשֵׁב; יוֹרֵם; יוֹיֵמַת; הוֹקֵם; הוֹכֵן; הוֹשֵׁב (42:28); (43:12); מוֹסֵר; מוֹסֵר.⁶

5. a. אֶתְבוֹנֵן; יִבְוֹן; בּוֹנֵנָה; בּוֹנֵן; יְעוֹפֵף (1:20);

b. יִתְכוֹנֵן; יִתְבַּשְׁשׁוּ; חוֹלְלֵת; בּוֹנְנָו.¹¹

c. כָּלְכָלוּ; כָּלְכַלְתִּי; וְכָלְכַלְתִּי (45:11); כָּלְכַל (47:12); מִטְלַטְלַח; תְּחַחֲלַח.¹⁶

d. לְקַיֵּם; קַיְמֵנִי; אֶקְיַמָּה; קַיְמוּ; קַיֵּם.²²

4. The Hōf'āl stem, having its characteristic vowel in the preformative syllable, naturally strengthens that vowel rather than the stem-vowel. Consequently ū is lengthened to û (וּ), which is of course without further change. The inflection is otherwise as in the strong verb.

5. The Middle-Vowel verb, having no middle radical to double, forms its intensive stems in a different way.

a. The intensive actives, corresponding to the Pī'ēl and Hīθpā'ēl of tri-literal verbs, are known as the Pōlēl and Hīθpōlēl.

b. The corresponding intensive passive is known as the Pōlāl.

Note.—For an explanation of the origin of these forms, see § 85.

c. Some Middle-Vowel verbs make an intensive stem by simply doubling the bi-literal root as a whole and vocalizing the resulting form like a regular tri-literal Pī'ēl, etc. These forms are known as the Pīlpēl, Pīlpāl, and Hīθpālpēl.

d. Pī'el forms of Middle-Vowel verbs are found only in the later literature. These were probably made after the analogy of genuine Middle-Wāw verbs, such as עוֹל, עוֹלָה, עוֹלָה, etc.

6. יִשְׁבוּ (8:3); בָּאוּ (7:9); מָתוּ (7:22); נִפְצוּ (10:18); יִמְלוּ (34:24); הִקְמָתִי (6:18); הִרְמָתִי (14:22); הִתְשׁוּבִינָה¹; נִקְטָתָם²; הִתְעוּפִינָה³

Remark.—רִיבֹת⁷; בִּינֹתִי⁸; רִיבֹת⁹

8. בּוּ¹⁰ (from בּוּז; as if from בָּוּז); נָמַר¹¹ (for נִמּוֹר, from מוֹר; as if from מָרַר); יִרְנְמוּ¹² (from רוּם; as if from רָמַם); יִסַּג¹³ (from סוּג).

6. The tendency of the Middle-Vowel verb being to stress the stem-vowel, the tone naturally stays upon this strengthened vowel wherever possible. It loses the tone only when (a) the endings הָם and הֶן are added, which carry the tone; or (b) the separating vowels ô or ê are used, which always carry the tone themselves except before הָם and הֶן; or (c) in forms with Wāw-conversive, etc., in which the stem-vowel was never strengthened.

7. Middle-ê verbs differ from Middle-û only in the Kāl Imperf., Inv. and Inf. Const., and sometimes in the Kāl Passive Part., in all of which î appears instead of û.

Remark.—A few Middle-ê verbs seem to show a characteristic form of the Kāl Perf. with î instead of â. But these forms are perhaps better considered as Hif'ûls with the preformative dropped.

8. Since the Middle-Vowel verb and the so-called 'Āyīn-doubled verb are fundamentally the same, it is natural that the two should often interchange forms. As a matter of fact, the same root sometimes develops two sets of forms, one with strengthening of consonants, the other with strengthening of vowels, e. g., בּוּן and בָּוּן; צוּר and צָרָר, etc. More often, only sporadic forms of a second development appear.

XIII. Nouns

88. The Inflection of Nouns

1. אָמַר Saying, from אָמַר; דְּבַר Word, from דָּבַר; מוֹת Death, from מוֹת.
2. חַיָּה (1:24); רֵאשִׁית (1:1); יָמִים-יָם (1:22); אֶת-אוֹת (1:14); עֵינַיִם (3:6).
3. רְקִיעַ-רְקִיעַ (1:14); דָּגַת-דָּגָה (1:26); פָּנִי-פָּנִים (1:2); מְלֶכֶי-צָרָק (14:18); חֵיתוֹ-אַרְץ (1:24).
4. יָרוּ-יָר (3:22); עֵינֶיכֶם-עֵין (3:5); אִישׁ-אִשָּׁה (3:16); אֶרְצָה (20:1); צָפְנָה (13:14).

The inflection of nouns includes,

1. The formation of the noun-stems from the root, or from other nouns;
2. The addition of affixes for gender and number;
3. The changes of stem and termination in the formation of the construct state;
4. The addition of pronominal suffixes and affixes.

89. Nouns with One, Originally Short, Formative Vowel

1. a. [קָטַל for kätl]; אֶרֶץ Earth; עָרַב Evening; אֶבֶן Stone; שָׂרָץ Swarm.
b. [קִטַּל for kitl]; עֵשֶׂב Herb; סֵפֶר Book; עֹזֵר Help; עֵדֵן Eden.
c. [kütl for kütl]; בֹּקֶר Morning; חֹשֶׁךְ Darkness; אָמַר Saying.
2. a. זֶרַע Seed; נֶצַח Perpetuity; אֶרֶחַ Path; נְעָר Youth; תַּחַת Under.
b. אָף (= אֲנָפִי) (cf. אֲנָפִי=אָפִי) Nose; עֹז (= עֹזוֹ) Goat.
c. פְּרִי Fruit; תְּהוֹ Desolation; בָּהוּ Waste; בִּבְהָ Weeping.

3. דְּבֵשׁ Honey; מְעַט A little; בְּאִשׁ Stench; בְּיַר Well.
4. a. מַלְכָּה Queen; נַעֲרָה Maiden; שְׁלֵוָה Rest.
- b. סְתָרָה Covert; שְׂמֵחָה Gladness; אִמָּרָה Saying; מְנַחָה Gift.
- c. אֲכָלָה Food; חֲכָמָה Wisdom.

1. These nouns, called Seğolates, had, originally, one short vowel (ă, ĩ or ũ), which, generally, stood with the first radical. A helping-vowel was then inserted under the second radical, and the formative vowel was then changed: ă to ě; ĩ to ē; ũ to ǫ.

2. When the root contains one or more weak radicals, certain changes occur:

a. In 'ע or 'ל laryngeal stems, ă is the helping-vowel, instead of ě; and, in 'ע laryngeal a-class stems, the original formative a stands unchanged.¹

b. In 'ע stems, ך is assimilated, represented in the following consonant by Dăğěš-förtě, and then rejected from this consonant whenever it is not followed by a vowel.

c. In 'ל stems occur formations ending in ך, ך and ך.

Note.—For so-called ע"ע, ע"ו and ע"י Seğolates, see §§ 100. and 109.

3. In a small number of nouns, the formative vowel stands under the second radical, instead of under the first; in these, ă suffers no change; but ĩ and ũ, under the tone, become ē and ǫ; no helping-vowel is needed.

4. Many feminine nouns are formed from Seğolate stems; the feminine ending being added to the primary form (קָטַל, קָטַל, קָטַל); but an original ũ is generally deflected to ǫ.

Note 1.—The Ḳāl Infinitive Const. (ḵūṭīl = ḵ*ṭīl and ḵūṭīl) is with some suffixes treated like a Seğolate noun; while the Inf. Const. of verbs פִּין and פִּו (פִּלָּה = פִּלָּה) is a Seğolate formation.

Note 2.—Seğolates in the plural form look like two-vowel nouns. Whether this is a survival of an original two-vowel form in these nouns or is a later development of a one-vowel form by analogy is not clear.

90. Nouns with Two, Originally Short, Formative Vowels

1. a. [קַטְּלָ] for kăṭāl]; אָדָם Man; חָכָם Wise; דְּבָר Word; יֵשָׁר Upright; בָּשָׂר Flesh; גַּמְלָ Camel; דָּגָן Corn; חָמָס Violence.
שָׂדֵה (= sädäy) Field; יָפָה Beautiful; הָרָה Pregnant.
 - b. [קַטְּלִי] for kăṭīl]; זָקֵן Old man; כָּבֵד Heavy; אֱמִן Truly; עֵקֶב Heel; עֵיִף Weary; דֵּשֵׁן Fat; חָסֵר Deficient.
 - c. [קַטְּלִי] for kăṭūl]; עֵגֶל Round; עֵמֶק Deep; נֶקֶד Spotted; עָרֹם Naked; קָטָן (cf. קִטְּנִים) Small; אָדָם Red.
 - d. [קַטְּלִי] for kīṭāl]; לֵבָב Heart; צִלְע Rib; חֲמָר Bitumen.
2. [קַטְּלָה]; צְדָקָה Righteousness; אֲדָמָה Ground; עֲגָלָה Chariot; [קַטְּלָה]; בְּהֵמָה Cattle; [קַטְּלָה]; אֲחֻזָּה Possession.

A second class includes nouns which are formed by the employment of two, originally short, vowels, ä—ä, ä—i, ä—ü, i—ä. These nouns are, for the most part, adjectives or participles:

1. a. Original ä—ä, in strong stems, are rounded to â—â; in ה"ל stems, the second ä is deflected, after the loss of ך or ך, to ě; in a few cases of ה"ל stems, the final ה־ is lacking.

b. Original ä—i, in strong stems, are changed to â—ē.

c. Original ä—ü are changed to â—ō; the latter (ō), however, goes back to ü before additions for gender and number, a Dâğęš-förtę being inserted in the final consonant.

d. Original i—ä are changed to ē—â.

2. The feminines of these stems are made by the addition of ה־; this addition requiring a change of tone, the vowel of the first radical is reduced to Š^{wâ}.

91. Nouns with One Short and One Long Formative Vowel

1. a. [קטול = קטל for kätâl]; גדול Great; קדוש Holy; כבוד Honor; שלום Peace; אדון Lord; טהור Pure; מתוק Sweet.
- b. [קטיל for kätîl]; אסיר Captive; ימין Right hand; נשיא Prince; משיח Anointed; נביא Prophet; פקיד Overseer; צעיר Little.
- c. [קטול for kätûl]; ארוּר Cursed, and all Käl pass. parts.; עזום Strong; ערוּם Cunning; שבוע Week; עבור Grain; שכול Bereaved.
- d. [קטול or קטול for kîtâl]; כתב Writing; קרב War; עבד Work; אלה God; אנוש Man; חמור Ass; חלום Dream; יאר River.
- e. [קטיל for kîtîl or kütîl]; ברזל Tin; כסיל Fool; נציב Column; פסיל Idol; חזיר Swine.
- f. [קטול for kîtûl or kütûl]; גבול Limit; לבוש Dress; גמול Benefit; עוזו Strength; כרוב Cherub; רכוש Property.
2. גדולה Great (f.); נביאה Prophetess; ארוּרה Cursed (f.); בתולה Virgin; חגורה Girdle; נחילה Flute; אמונה Truth.

A third class includes nouns which are formed by the employment of an originally short vowel in the penult, and an originally long vowel in the ultima. These nouns are, for the most part, abstract substantives, neuter adjectives, or passive participles:

1. a. Original ä—â become â—ô, the first vowel being rounded to â, the second to ô; this formation is to be distinguished from that with ô, described in § 90. Here belongs the Käl Infinitive absolute.

b. Original ä—î become â—î; here belong many nouns with a passive, and a few with an active signification.

c. Original ä—û become â—û; here belong all \aleph passive participles.

d. Original ĭ—â become ê—â or ê—ô, the first vowel being reduced, the second (â) being sometimes retained, but more frequently rounded to ô.

e. Original ĭ—î or ü—î become ê—î, the first vowel being reduced.

f. Original ĭ—û or ü—û become ê—û, the first vowel being reduced.

2. The feminines of these stems are generally made by the addition of הַ, the vowel of the first radical becoming Š*wâ.

92. Nouns with One Long and One Short Formative Vowel

1. קוֹטָל for kâṭäl; עוֹלָם Eternity; אוֹצָר Treasury; עוֹשָׂה (for 'ôsäy) Making; רִמְשָׁת (for רִמְשָׁתָּהּ) Creeping.

2. קוֹטִיל for kâṭîl; אוֹיֵב Enemy; חוֹבֵל Pilot; כֹּהֵן Priest; יֵצֵא Going forth; רִמֵּשׁ Creeping; הֹלֵךְ Walking, etc.

3. קוֹטָל for kûṭäl; עוֹגֵב Flute, organ; שׁוֹעַל Fox.

Remark.—קיטול for kîṭäl; קיטור Smoke; נִיחור Nile; קימוש Nettle.

A fourth class includes nouns with a naturally long vowel in the penultima, and an originally short vowel in the ultima.

1. Original â—ä become ô—â; here belong, besides some substantives, all ה"ל \aleph active participles, and also the \aleph act. part. fem. (in תַּ or תְּ) of strong forms. The vowels do not change before af-fixes of gender and number.

2. Original â—ĭ become ô—ê; here belong a few substantives, and all strong \aleph participles; also those feminines of the form קְטִלָּהּ.

3. Original û—ä become û—â.

Remark.—There are a few nouns with an originally long vowel in both penult and ultima; the former, however, is probably long in compensation for an omitted Dâğěš-förtē (§ 30. 2. c).

93. Nouns with the Second Radical Reduplicated

1. קָטַל for kāttāl; אַיִל Hart; שַׁבַּת Sabbath; סָבַל Burden; יַבֶּשֶׁת, יַבֶּשֶׁת Dry land; חַטָּאָה Sin; אֲדָרַת Magnificence.

Remark.—גַּנָּב Thief; טָבַח Cook; חָרַשׁ Artificer; קָנָא Jealous.

2. קָטַל for kāttāl; מִקֵּל Shoot, rod; קִדֵּשׁ To consecrate.
3. קָטַל for kāttāl; אֵלִים Dumb; עִוֵּר Blind; חֵרֵשׁ Deaf; עֵקֶשׁ Perverse; פִּקֵּחַ Clear-sighted; חֵבֶל Mast; אֲוִלָּת Folly; אֲוִרָת Blindness.

4. a. קָטַל = kāttāl; see examples under 1. R. above.

b. קָטַל = kāttāl from kāttāl; אָבֵר Husbandman; 1. R. above.

c. קָטַל = kāttāl; גִּבּוֹר Hero; שָׂכּוֹר Drunkard; צִפּוֹר Sparrow.

5. אֲסִיר [קָטַל]; אֲדִיר Great; אֲמִיץ Strong; צְדִיק Righteous; אֲסִיר Fettered.

6. אֲסִיר [קָטַל]; עֲמוּד Pillar; שִׁבּוּל Childless; חֲנוּן Merciful.

7. אֲסִיר [קָטַל]; לִמּוּד Learner; נְחֻמִּים Consolation.

Remark.—שְׁקוּיץ Abomination; גִּלּוּל Idol; צִיּוֹן Pillar; פְּגוּל Unclean Thing.

A fifth class includes nouns whose second radical is reduplicated. This doubling intensifies the root-idea, giving it greater force or greater firmness:

1. Formations like kāttāl are frequent, but with no special significance.

Remark.—It is a question whether nouns of this form indicative of occupation have ā or â (see 4. a below); the corresponding Arabic have â, yet some of these have ā in the Construct state.

2. Formations like kāttāl are rare, except as Pī'el Infinitives Construct.

3. Formations like $\text{ḵ} \text{î} \text{ṭ} \text{ṭ} \text{ê} \text{l}$ are, mostly, adjectives designating deformities and faults, physical or moral.

4. a. Formations like $\text{ḵ} \text{ă} \text{ṭ} \text{ṭ} \text{â} \text{l}$ are, properly, nouns indicative of occupation; but see 1. R. above.

b. The form $\text{ḵ} \text{î} \text{ṭ} \text{ṭ} \text{â} \text{l}$ is the same as $\text{ḵ} \text{ă} \text{ṭ} \text{ṭ} \text{â} \text{l}$ with the penultimate ă attenuated to î .

c. The form $\text{ḵ} \text{î} \text{ṭ} \text{ṭ} \text{ô} \text{l}$ is the same as $\text{ḵ} \text{î} \text{ṭ} \text{ṭ} \text{â} \text{l}$ with â rounded to ô .

5. Formations like $\text{ḵ} \text{ă} \text{ṭ} \text{ṭ} \text{î} \text{l}$ are adjectives expressing a personal quality.

6. Formations like $\text{ḵ} \text{ă} \text{ṭ} \text{ṭ} \text{û} \text{l}$ are descriptive epithets of persons or things.

7. Formations like $\text{ḵ} \text{î} \text{ṭ} \text{ṭ} \text{û} \text{l}$ are, for the most part, abstracts, and are often used in the plural.

Remark.—This is a favorite formation for terms designating or characterizing idolatrous objects and ideas.

94. Nouns with the Third Radical Reduplicated

1. שְׁאַנֵן Tranquil; רֵעֵנָן Green; נְאוֹה (= נְאוֹי) Comely; אִמָּלֵל Faint; שְׁפָרוֹר Splendor; חִכְלִיל Dark; נְהַלֵל Pasture; נְאַפּוּסִים Adulteries.
2. פְּתַלְתַל Full of twists; הִפְכִפֵךְ Full of turns; אֲדַמְדַם Reddish; שְׁחַרְחַר Blackish; אִסְפָסוּף Rabble; עִקְלָקֵל Crooked.

A sixth class, closely related to the fifth class, includes:

1. Noun-formations with the third radical reduplicated, the signification being, in general, the same as when the second radical is doubled.

2. A few words in which the second and third radicals are reduplicated, the signification being that of intensity, or repetition; in the case of adjectives of color, there is a diminutive force.

95. Nouns with א and י Prefixed

1. אֶצְבַע Finger; אֶגְרוֹף Fist; אֵיתָן Lasting; אֶכָּזֵר Violent.
2. יֶצְהָר Oil; יֶלְקוּט Pouch; cf. the proper names יֶפְתָח , יֶצְחָק .

A seventh class includes nouns formed by prefixing א, or י:

1. A few nouns are formed by means of a prosthetic א; this א is merely euphonic and has no significance.

2. Nouns with a prefixed י occur rarely as appellatives; but frequently as proper names, where however they are really verbal forms.

96. Nouns with מ Prefixed

1. [מִקְטָל for מִקְטַל]; מֵאֵכֶל Food; מַמְלָכָה Kingdom; מֵאֲכָלָת Knife; מֵהֶן (= מִנְהֶן) Gift; מוֹצֵא (= מוֹצֵא) Exit; מִרְאָה (= מִרְאֵי) Appearance.
2. [מִקְטָל for מִקְטַל]; מִשְׁכָּן Dwelling-place; מִדְבָּר Desert; מִשְׁפָּט Judgment; מִלְחָמָה War; מִשְׁמֶרֶת Watch; מִקְנֵה (= מִקְנֵי) Property.
3. [מִקְטָל for מִקְטַל]; מִרְבֵּק Stall; מִפְתֵּחַ Key; מִזְלַג Flesh-hook; מִרְחֵשָׁה Plough; מִגְפָּה Smiting; מוֹקֵשׁ (= מוֹקֵשׁ) Snare.
4. [מִקְטָל for מִקְטַל]; מוֹזֵבַח Altar.
5. [מִקְטָל for מִקְטַל]; מֵאֲכָלָת Fuel.
6. [מִקְטוֹל, מִקְטוֹל for מִקְטַל]; מַחְסוֹר Want; מִלְקוֹחַ Booty; מוֹמֹר Song; מְכַשׁוֹל Stumbling-block.
7. [מִקְטוֹל, מִקְטוֹל]; מִבְדִּיל Dividing; מִמְטִיר Raining.
8. [מִקְטוֹל]; מִלְבוּשׁ Garment; מִנְעוּל Bolt; מֵאֲבוּם Granary.

An eighth class includes nouns formed by prefixing מ, the same element which is used in the formation of participles. So far as concerns the vowels employed the following combinations may be noted:

1. ä—â, the latter of which is rounded from ä. Feminines in ה־ָ and ת־ָ occur. In פ"ן stems, נ is assimilated; in פ"ו stems, aw becomes ô; in ל"ה forms, the second ä becomes ê (probably a contraction of äy).

2. ĩ—â, the former of which is attenuated, the latter rounded from an original ä; the usual vowel changes take place in weak stems.

3. ä—ē, the latter of which is lowered from ĩ; the usual vowel changes take place in weak stems.

4. ĩ—ē, the ĩ of which is the attenuation of ä (cf. 3.).

5. ä—ō, the ō of which is lowered from an original ũ.

6. ä—ô, ĩ—ô, of which ô is rounded from â, while ĩ is attenuated from ä.

7. ä—î, used only in the formation of Hif'îl participles (m.).

8. ä—û, not used to any great extent.

For מ-formations from bi-literal roots, see § 100.

97. The Signification of Nouns with מ Prefixed

1. מְשַׁחֵת Destroyer; מְשָׁכִיל A didactic poem (= instructor);
מְעַרֵיץ He who inspires terror; מִפֵּל What falls off, chaff;
מְכַסֶּה Covering.
2. מְאָכֵל Food; מְלַקוֹחַ Booty; מִתָּן Gift; מְזֻמֹּר Psalm; מְצַעֵר
That which is small; מְרַחֵק That which is remote.
3. מְאֵכֵל Knife; מְפֵתֵחַ Key; מְלִמֵּד Goad.
4. מְשֻׁבֵּן Dwelling-place; מְדֻבָּר Desert; מְזֻבָּח Altar.
5. מְגַפֶּה Smiting; מְדוּהָ Sickness; מְיָשָׁר Straightness; מְלַחֶמָה War.

The letter מ is from מִי (who) or מָה (what), and is used in the formation of nouns:

1. To denote the subject of an action; cf. its use denoting agency in Pī'el, Hif'îl and Hīṯpā'el participles.

2. To denote the object of an action, or the subject of a quality; cf. its use in Pū'âl and Hōf'âl participles.

3. The instrument by which an action is performed.

4. The place (or time) in which an action is performed.

5. The action or quality which is contained in the root.

98. Nouns Formed by Prefixing ת

1. תִּקְטַל for תִּקְטַל; תִּחַמֵּם (?) ; תּוֹשֵׁב Tenant; תּוֹכַחַת Reproof; תִּימֵן South; תּוֹדָה Thanks; תּוֹרָה Law.
2. תִּקְטַל for תִּקְטַל; תִּדְהָר Elm; תִּפְאָרָה Glory; תִּקְוָה Hope.
3. תִּקְטַל for תִּקְטַל; תִּשְׁבֵּץ Checkered cloth; תִּרְדָּמָה Deep sleep.
4. תִּקְטַל; תִּלְמִיד Disciple; תִּכְרִיךְ Cloak; תִּכְלִית Completeness.
5. תִּקְטַל; תִּחְלָאִים Diseases; תִּנְחוּם Consolation; תִּלְאָבָה Drought; תִּעֲצָמוֹת Might.

Remark.—תִּרְדָּמָה Deep sleep; תִּשׁוּעָה Deliverance; תִּפְאָרָת Glory.

A ninth class of nouns includes those with the prefix ת. This prefix is the same as that used in the Impf. 3 fem. It is used in a neuter sense, and is employed in the formation of abstract nouns, but rarely of concrete nouns. The cases cited above exhibit the various forms assumed by nouns of this class, as well as the vowel changes which take place in formations from weak stems.

Remark.—Nouns with ת prefixed have also, in the majority of instances, the feminine ending ת־.

99. Nouns Formed by means of Affixes

1. כַּרְמֶל Garden; בְּרֹזַל Iron; גְּבַעַל Cup of a flower; קַרְסַל Ankle; חֲרָטָם (?) Sacred scribe.
2. a. אַחֲרוֹן Last; רִאשׁוֹן First; אֲבִיוֹן Poor; עֲלִיוֹן Most high.
- b. קַנְיָן Gain; שְׁלֵחַן Table; קָרְבָּן Offering; אֲבָדָן Destruction.

- c. פְּתָרוֹן Interpretation; בְּשׂוּרוֹן Success; עֵוְרוֹן Blindness;
בְּטָחוֹן Confidence; זְכוּרֹן Memorial; עֲצָבוֹן Pain; גְּאוֹן Majesty.

A tenth class of nouns includes those with affixes, ל, מ and נ:

1. Nouns formed by the addition of ל and מ are few, and have no special significance; they should perhaps be regarded as quadrilaterals and may reflect some foreign influence.

2. Nouns formed by the addition of נ are numerous, including a. Adjectives formed either from a noun-stem or from a root.

b. Abstract substantives ending in ân.

c. Abstract substantives ending in ôn, rounded from ân.

100. Nouns from Bi-Literal Roots

1. a. רַב Great; רַךְ Tender; דַּל Weak; מַר Bitter; תָּם Complete; כַּלָּה Bride; מֵצָה Unleavened bread; כַּפַּיִם Hands.

אִם Mother; הַל Mound; לֵב Heart; שֵׁן Tooth; צֵל Shadow;
מֶדָה Measurement; מִלָּה Word; בְּצָה Swamp; בֹּזָה Spoil; אִמּוֹ His mother.

תָּם Completeness; כָּל All; חֹק Statute; דָּב Bear; רַב Mul- titude; תְּמָה Integrity; חֻקָּה Statute; כָּלָם All of them.

- b. קָם; רָם; בָּן; Kāl act. ptc. of ע"ו and ע"י verbs.

מֵץ Chaff; תוֹר Turn; שׁוֹר Ox; שׁוֹק Leg.

גַּר Stranger; נֵר Lamp; מֵת Dead; רַע Noise.

רוּם; קוּם; גּוֹר; מוּת; Inf. Const. of ע"ו verbs.

בִּינָה Understanding; דִּין Judgment; רִיב Strife; גִּיל Joy; גִּילָה Joy; קִינָה Dirge.

2. גִּלְגָּל Wheel; חֲתָחַת Frightful; כְּדָבָר Ruby; קְדָקֵד Crown of head; גִּלְגָּלַת Skull; בְּקָבוֹק Flask; קָלְקַל Worthless; תַּעֲתָעִים Scorn.

3. a. מִשְׁפָּה Cover; מִסָּב Circle; מַרַע Evil; מִצָּר Distress; מִשְׁפָּה Desolation; מִגֵּן Shield; מְגֵלָה Roll; מְגַנָּה Covering;
 מִזְמָה Purpose; מְסֵלָה Highway; מַחֲתָה Terror; מִסָּב Divan; מְסַבָּה Covering; מְשַׁבָּה Hedge.
- b. מְאוֹר Luminary; מָרוֹם Height; מְקוֹם Place; מְגוֹר Terror; מְבוֹא Entrance; מְנוּחַ Rest; מְנוּם Flight; מְנוֹרָה Lamp- stand; מְגוֹרָה Terror; מְחוּלָה Dancing; מְצוּק Pillar; מְרוּצָה Running; מְשׁוּבָה Apostasy; מְנוּחָה Rest;
 מְבוּכָה Weeping; מְקִים Raising; מְרִיבָה Strife; מְדִינָה Province.
- c. מוֹסָב Surrounding (?); מוֹסָף Coverer (?); מוֹסָר Removed.
- d. מְתוּם Soundness; מְרָף Weakness.
4. a. תְּהִלָּה Praise; תְּחִלָּה Beginning; תְּחִנָּה Favor; תְּפִלָּה Prayer.
- b. תְּבוּנָה Understanding; תְּרוּמָה Offering; תְּמוּנָה Likeness;
 תְּמוּתָה Death; תְּמוּרָה Exchange; תְּבוּסָה Ruin;
 תְּבוּאָה Product.
5. הִנְפָּה Waving; הִנְחָה Rest; הִפּוּנָה Cessation; הָאִיר To shine; הָקִם To raise; הָסִב To cause to turn.
6. נְכוּן Established; נְשֻׁפָה Desolated.
7. יְקוּם Being; יְרִיב Adversary.
8. סֵלָם Ladder; אֹלָם Porch; עִירָם Naked; עָרָם Naked.
9. תְּמָם Melting; תְּפֵת Contempt.

Under this head are treated those nouns which are formed upon the foundation of two radicals and have not progressed to complete tri-literality by actually writing one of those radicals twice and vocalizing the resultant form as a tri-literal noun, e. g. מְפָלֹל. There is a relatively wide range of forms in bi-literal nouns.

1. Monosyllabic nouns of various forms:

a. Those with one of the original short-vowels as the primary form. The vowels ī and ū, and occasionally ǎ, change under the tone to ē, ō and â respectively. When affixes are added, the second radical takes Dāḡēš-förtē and the stem-vowel remains short. These all come from so-called y"y roots.

b. Those with an unchangeable vowel, which of course is unaffected by the addition of affixes; but â regularly is rounded to ô, except in the Ḳāl act. ptcp. These all come from Middle-Vowel roots.

2. Nouns made by reduplication of the bi-literal stem.

3. Nouns with the prefix ḡ. These assume several forms:

a. Those which in the primary form have the prefix mă with a short stem-vowel. These (1) regularly change both vowels, măḵāl becoming măḵâl; măḵîl becoming măḵêl; and măḵûl becoming măḵôl; (2) when affixes are added, the second radical of the stem receives Dāḡēš-förtē, the original stem-vowel remains unchanged, and the ǎ of the preformative syl. is reduced to Š'wâ (־); (3) those having ǎ as the original stem-vowel generally retain it without change, but the preformative syllable has ē, probably from an original ī. This formation occurs only in the so-called y"y roots.

b. Those which in the primary form have the prefix mă and a naturally long stem-vowel. The preformative ǎ becomes â in the absolute singular form, but is reduced to Š'wâ whenever affixes are added. This formation is characteristic of Middle-Vowel roots.

(1) The stem-vowel may be either ô (ִ), û (ִ), or î (ִ).

(2) With the stem-vowel î (ִ), the preformative vowel becomes ē, either by assimilation to the stem-vowel, or after the analogy of the Hif'il perfect. This is the form of the Hif'il ptcp. of y"y and y"y verbs.

c. Those having the prefix mû, with the stem-vowel ǎ, which is rounded to â. This is the form of the Hôf'al participle of bi-literal verbs.

d. A few exceptional forms.

4. Nouns with the prefix ḡ. These nearly all have the feminine ending and fall into two classes:

a. Those having ī as stem-vowel followed by Dāḡēš-förtē in the second radical of the stem. The preformative vowel is reduced to Š·wā upon the addition of the feminine affix.

b. Those having û as stem-vowel, without a following Dāḡēš-förtē, but with the same reduction of the preformative ă to Š·wā upon the addition of the feminine affix.

5. Nouns with the prefix ה. These are few, aside from the Infinitives of the Hif'îl, Höf'âl and Nif'âl of bi-literal verbs and are practically all verbal nouns.

6. Nouns with the prefix nă. These are practically confined to the Nif'âl participle and Infin. of bi-literal verbs, in which the ă of the prefix regularly is rounded to â before the tone and is reduced to Š·wā when not pretonic.

7. A few nouns are made with the prefix y (י).

8. A few bi-literal nouns with affixes occur, viz. (a) the affix ăm; (b) the affix üm. There is room for doubt as to the origin of these nouns.

9. A few isolated formations appear.

101. Nouns Having Four or Five Radicals

1. עֶקְרָב Scorpion; גֹּזֵר Treasurer; חֶרְמֵשׁ Sickle; חֶגְמָל Frost; חֶלְמֵשׁ Flint; פְּלִגְשׁ Concubine; עֶטְלָף Bat.
2. אֶרְמָן Purple; שַׁעֲמֹן A kind of cloth; אַחֲשֵׁתָרַן Mule.

1. Nouns with four radicals are comparatively few; they have no special classification or signification.

2. Nouns with five or more radicals are still fewer, and, for the most part, of foreign origin.

102. Compound Nouns

1. מְאוֹמָה Anything; בְּלִיעַל Worthlessness; אֶתְמוֹל Formerly.
2. מֶלֶךְ-יְצַדֵּק King of righteousness; יְשִׁמְעֵאל God hears.

1. Compound words, as common nouns, are few and doubtful.

2. Compound words, as proper names, are very numerous.

103. Nouns Formed from Other Nouns

1. שַׁעַר Porter (cf. שַׁעַר Gate); כַּרֵּם Vine-dresser (cf. כַּרֵּם Vineyard).
2. מַעְיָן Place of the fountain (cf. עַיִן Fountain); מַרְגְּלוֹת Place of feet (cf. רֶגֶל Foot).
3. אַחֲרוֹן Last (cf. אַחַר After); עִוְרוֹן Blindness (cf. עוֹר Blind).
לוֹיִתָּן Coiled, serpent (cf. לוֹיָהּ Wreath); נְחֹשֶׁתַּן Brazen (cf. נְחֹשֶׁת Bronze).
4. a. שְׁלִישִׁי Third (cf. שְׁלֹשׁ); חֲמִישִׁי Fifth; etc.
b. מוֹאָבִי Moabite; אֲרָמִי Aramæan; גֵּרְשֹׁנִי Gershonite; עִבְרִי Hebrew.
צְפוֹנִי Northerner; נִבְרִי Foreigner; פְּרוֹזִי Villager.
5. רֵאשִׁית Beginning; מַלְכוּת Kingdom; אִלְמָנוּת Widowhood.

Nouns formed from other nouns, and not directly from the root, are termed denominatives. The most common formations are:

1. Nouns with the form of the Kāl active participle, indicating agency.
2. Nouns with the prefix מַ, indicating the place where a thing is found.
3. Adjectives and nouns formed by the affix וֹן or ׀־ (seldom וֹן).
4. Adjectives formed by the affix י־; these are,
 - a. Ordinals formed from cardinals;
 - b. Gentilics and patronymics; and a few others.
5. Nouns formed by the affixes י־ת and ת־, designating abstract ideas.

104. The Formation of Noun-Stems

From §§ 88-103. it has been seen that noun-stems are formed.

1. Directly from the root:

- a. By means of vowels given to the root; as in the case of (1) nouns with one, originally short, vowel (§§ 89, 100.);

- (2) nouns with one originally long vowel (§ 100.);
- (3) nouns with two (originally) short vowels (§ 90.);
- (4) nouns with one (originally) short and one long vowel (§ 91.);
- (5) nouns with one long and one (originally) short vowel (§ 92.);

b. By a reduplication of one or more of the consonants of the root; as in the case of

- (1) nouns with the second radical doubled (§ 93.);
- (2) nouns with the third, or the second and third radicals doubled (§ 94.);
- (3) nouns with the entire root doubled (§ 100.);

c. By prefixing vowels and consonants to the root; as in the case of

- (1) nouns with א, ה, or י prefixed (§§ 95, 100.);
- (2) nouns with מ prefixed (§§ 96, 97, 100.);
- (3) nouns with ת prefixed (§§ 98, 100.);

d. By affixing vowels and consonants to the root; as in the case of

- (1) nouns with ל, מ, or נ affixed, with a vowel (§§ 99, 100.);
- (2) nouns with four or five radicals (§ 101.);
- (3) nouns compounded of two distinct words (§ 102.).

2. From other nouns (and called denominatives), by the various means indicated above (§ 103.).

105. The Formation of Cases

1. מָתוּ in מְתוּשָׁאֵל (4:18); שָׁמוּ in שְׂמוּאֵל¹; פָּנוּ in פְּנוּאֵל (32:32).

Remark.—תִּיתוּ-אֲרָץ (1:24); בָּנוּ בְּעָרַיִם²; בָּנוּ צָפָרַיִם³; מְעִינֵינוּ מֵיָמֵינוּ⁴.

2. a. צָפְנָה (13:14); יָמָה (13:14); אֲרָצָה הַנְּגִבִּים (20:1); הָאֲהָלָה (18:6).

b. יוֹמָם⁵; תָּנִים (29:15); שְׁלִשָׁם (31:2) for šilšām.

⁵ Ex. 13:21.

² Num. 24:3, 15.

³ Num. 23:18.

⁴ Ps. 114:8.

Very slight evidence of case-endings is found in Hebrew:

1. The only possible case of a nominative ending is the û in the first part of a few proper names; as in the examples cited above, מְתוֹ = man of; שְׁמוֹ = name of; פְּנֵוֹ = face of. This is open to serious doubt since the words to which û is attached do not function as nominatives in these cases.

Remark.—An old ending $\dot{\text{y}} = \hat{o}$, appears in a few forms, but its origin and significance are unknown.

2. The accusative had the ending a and appears only a. In the so-called Hē directive (הַ־), which

(1) is used to denote direction or motion; but

(2) is often used in a weaker sense to designate the place where, and

(3) in many cases seems to be entirely without force.

b. In the syllables âm and ôm (the latter by the rounding of â), which are found in certain adverbs.

3. No genitive ending appears in our texts.

106. Affixes for Gender and Number

1. אֹר (1:3); טוֹב (1:4); יוֹם (1:5); בְּקָר (1:5); רְקִיעַ (1:6).

2. a. אִמְרָתִי (4:23); אִשְׁתּוֹ (2:24); מְנַחֲתוֹ (4:5).

b. רְאִישִׁית (1:1); דְּמוּת (1:26); מְרַחֶפֶת (1:2); רְמִישָׁת (1:21).

מְתַהַפֶּכֶת (3:24); מְמַשְׁלֶת (1:16); לְדָת (4:2); דַּעַת (2:9); קַחַת (4:11).

c. יִבְשָׁה (1:9); בְּהֶמָּה (1:24); חַיָּה (1:24); אֲדָמָה (2:5); אִשָּׁה (3:4).

3. אֶתָּה (1:14); חֲגֹרֶת (3:7); תּוֹלְדוֹת (2:4).

4. a. אֱלֹהִים (1:1); יָמִים (1:22); יָמִים (1:14); מוֹעֲדִים (1:14); שְׁנָיִם (1:14).

b. פָּנָי (1:2); יָרְעִי (3:5); נָשִׁי (4:23); בְּנֵי (6:4); אֲנָשִׁי (6:4).

5. שְׁנַיִם, whence שְׁנֵי (1:16); עֵינַיִם (3:6), but עֵינִי (3:7).

The Hebrew has two genders,—masculine and feminine; and three numbers,—singular, dual and plural.

1. The masculine singular has no particular indication.

2. The sign of the feminine singular is םֿ. This feminine sign has a threefold treatment:

a. It is retained, with such change of its vowel as may be necessary, whenever the noun of which it is a part is in close connection with what follows; as when it (the feminine-sign, םֿ) stands

(1) before a pronominal suffix (§ 108);

(2) at the end of a noun in the Construct state (§ 107.).

b. It appears as םֿֿ (with laryngeals םֿֿֿ), in the formation and inflection of many nouns, participles and infinitives.

c. םֿ gives way to םֿֿ, which then ceases to be pronounced, but is retained orthographically as a mere symbol of final â rounded from ä. This form is the more usual indication of the feminine gender.

3. The feminine plural is indicated by the ending םֿֿֿ (ô θ for â θ), which is unchangeable.

4. The masculine plural is indicated by the endings,

a. םֿֿֿ (îm) in the Absolute state (§ 107.).

b. םֿֿֿ (ê) in the Construct state (§ 107.).

Note.—Many masculine nouns have plurals in ô θ , and many feminine nouns have plurals in îm.

5. The dual, used chiefly of objects which go in pairs, is indicated by the endings,

a. םֿֿֿֿ (äyîm) in the Absolute state.

b. םֿֿֿֿ (ê) in the Construct state.

107. The Absolute and Construct States

1. אֱלֹהִים (1:1); הַשָּׁמַיִם (1:1); הָאָרֶץ (1:1); הָאָזָר (1:3); רְקִיעַ (1:6).

2. פְּנֵי תְהוֹם (1:2) faces-of abyss; רוּחַ אֱלֹהִים (1:2) (the) spirit-of God; בְּרָקִיעַ הַשָּׁמַיִם (1:14) in-(the)-expanse-of the heavens.

Of two nouns closely related, the second, in Latin or Greek, is in the genitive, e. g., dominus dominorum. The same relation is indicated in Hebrew by pronouncing the second noun in close connection with the first. The effort thus to unite the two words in pronunciation as one phrase results invariably in a shortening of the first word, because the tone hastens on to the second, but involves also a retention of some old endings which hold their place in the phrase.

1. A noun which is not thus dependent upon a following substantive or pronoun is said to be in the Absolute state.

2. A noun which is thus dependent on a following substantive or pronoun is said to be in the Construct state.

Note.—It is the first of two nouns, therefore, and not the second, which suffers change.

3. רָעָה (4:2), cf. רָעָה; מְקוֹה (1:10), cf. מְקוֹה; עֲלֵה (3:7), cf. עֲלֵה; חַי (42:15), cf. חַי; גֵּיִיא,¹ cf. גֵּיִיא.²

4. חַיִּית (1:25) instead of חַיִּיה; דִּגְת (1:26) instead of דִּגְה.

5. חֵיתָו (1:24); גִּנְבְּתִי (31:39); בָּנוּ³; מְעִינוּ⁴; בְּנֵי (49:11); עֹזְבֵי⁵; שְׂכָנֵי⁶.

6. פָּנֵי (1:2), cf. פָּנִים; יָמֵי (3:17), cf. יָמִים; דְּמֵי (4:11), cf. דָּמִים; שְׁנֵי (1:16), cf. שְׁנַיִם; עֵינֵי (3:7), cf. עֵינַיִם.

Remark.—Abs., פָּרִי (1:11), Const., פְּרִי (1:29); Abs., עֲבָא,⁷ Const., אֲבָא⁸; Abs., יָרָא (32:12), Const., יְרָא (22:12); Abs., מֶלֶךְ (14:17), Const., מְלֶךְ (14:1); Abs., סִפֵּר,⁹ Const., סִפְר (5:1); Abs., נָעַר (37:2), Const., נְעָר.¹⁰

So far as concerns endings or affixes, the Construct state differs from the Absolute in the following particulars:

3. Final הַֿ (i. e., ê = ay) gives place to הֿֿ (i. e., ê = ay).

Note.—Compare with this the fact that in הֿֿ verbs, the Imperfect ends in הַֿ (ê), but the Imperative in הֿֿ (ê).

4. The original form of the feminine affix $\eta\text{--}$, preserved by its close connection with what follows, appears instead of the later $\eta\text{--}$.

5. The endings \hat{o} (η) and \hat{i} ($\eta\text{--}$) appear occasionally in Construct forms, serving as connecting vowels binding the Construct to its genitive.

6. The affix $\eta\text{--}$ (=ay) appears instead of the ordinary plural and dual endings $\eta\text{--}$ and $\eta\text{--}$.

Remark 1.—The feminine plural affix $\hat{o}\theta$ is the same in Absolute and Construct.

Remark 2.—Final vowels, other than those just mentioned, as well as final \hat{a} when followed by \aleph , and Seğolates in the singular (strong and laryngeal) do not suffer change in the Construct state.

Remark 3.—The Construct form may best be explained by understanding that it is really a constituent element of a phrase which tends somewhat toward becoming a compound word. The Construct itself, therefore has no primary tone, the tone having passed on to the next word.

The relation existing between a noun and its pronominal suffix is really the Construct relation. The form of the noun, however, is not always identical with that of the Construct, but varies with the position of the tone. In this section only the endings of the noun, as affected by the suffix, are treated.

1. Masculine nouns in the singular take,

a. A connecting vowel ä

(1) in the form of ä, before הוּ, הָ, ם and ן, the suffixes of the 3d person;

(2) in the form of ם, before ךָּ, כֶּם, כֶּן.

b. A connecting vowel ĩ

(1) in the form of ĩ before הוּ (in לְהִ stems and a few poetical forms), ךָּ, נָ.

(2) in the form of ĩ before all suffixes in the words אָב father, אָח brother, פֶּה mouth.

Remark 1.—Certain changes take place, viz., הוּ to הָ, הָ to הָ, the final vowel of the latter form having been dropped.

Remark 2.—Before ךָּ, כֶּם, כֶּן ä is deflected to ĩ in pause.

³ Deut. 4:38.

⁴ Ex. 35:26.

⁵ 1 Kgs. 2:4.

⁶ Jer. 15:9.

2. Feminine nouns in the singular preserve before suffixes the earlier form of the feminine affix, which is $\eta\text{--}$; but the -- when standing in an open syllable is rounded.

Note.—The feminine affix is followed by the same connecting vowels as those which occur with masculine nouns (see above, 1. a, b).

3. a. עֲצָמַי (2:23); דְּרָכַי ¹; דְּרָכֶיךָ ²; פְּנֵיךָ ³; כְּנַפְיֶךָ ⁴
 b. שְׁנֵיהֶם (2:25); עֵינֵיכֶם (3:5); חֻלְבָּהֶן ⁵ (4:4); לְמִינֵהֶם ⁶

 d. אֶפְיוֹ (2:7); דְּרָרְכִיו ⁷; פְּנֵיו (4:5); כְּנַפְיוֹ ⁸
4. צִלְעָתַי (2:21); דְּרָתַי (6:9); אֶתְתִּי ⁹; אֶתְתֵּינוּ ¹⁰; בְּנוֹתַי (31:26); בְּנוֹתֵינוּ (34:9); בְּנֵתֶיךָ ¹¹; בְּנֵתֶיהָ (19:12).

Remark.— אֲבוֹתָם ¹² and אֲבוֹתֵיהֶם ¹³; cf. also שְׁמוֹתָם (25:16);
 אֲוֹתָם ¹⁴; דְּוֹרָתָם (17:7).

3. The masculine plural has before all suffixes the ending ay, which, in the Construct, appears in the form of ê. But certain modifications in the form of this ending take place, due to the character of the following consonants:

a. The form ay ($\eta\text{--}$) appears unchanged

(1) in the 1 c. sg. $\eta\text{--}$, the η of the suffix having been absorbed by the final η of the ending.

(2) in the 2 f. sg. $\eta\text{--}$, η being joined by the helping-vowel -- .

b. The form ay ($\eta\text{--}$) is contracted to ê ($\eta\text{--}$) before all plural suffixes.

c. The form ay ($\eta\text{--}$) is contracted to $\eta\text{--}$ (ê) before η and η .

d. The original form ay ($\eta\text{--}$) loses η and rounds ä to â before ($\eta\eta$ changed according to § 44. 4. c. to) η , the η being generally retained orthographically.

Remark.—Very frequently the suffix is attached directly to וֹת; this is done probably in order to obtain a shorter form.

The noun-stem, if it contains two changeable vowels (§ 7. 4), is subject to change,

- (1) when terminations of gender and number are added;
- (2) when the noun stands in the Construct relation with a following word;
- (3) when pronominal suffixes are added.

The changes which take place are due to the shifting of the tone:

1. With affixes for gender and number (Absolute), viz., הַ, תְּ, וְ, וְ, וְ, and with the light (§ 51. 1. b) suffixes, the tone is shifted one place; in which case,

a. An original ă or ĩ, which had become â or *ē*¹ before the tone is reduced to Šwâ;

b. An ultimate tone-long â or ē is retained, since it stands now directly before the tone.

2. With affixes for gender and number in the Construct, viz., יְ, תְ, וְ (also the sing. fem. תְ), and with the grave suffixes when attached to plural nouns, the tone is shifted two places; in which case,

a. The penultimate vowel being now in a closed unaccented syllable remains short, but ă is often attenuated to ĩ;

b. The ultimate vowel reduces to Šwâ.

3. In the case of the Construct singular of masculine nouns and with the grave suffixes (וְ, וְ) when attached to singular nouns, the tone is shifted one place; in which case,

a. The penultimate vowel is reduced to Šwâ.

b. An ultimate tone-long (originally short) â or ē gives way to ă.

Remark 1.—While an original ă is rounded to â before וְ, it remains short before וְ.

Remark 2.—The principles here given apply also to the formation and inflection of feminine nouns.

Remark 3.—Kāl active participles and nouns of like formation (92.), in whose inflection the final vowel becomes Šwâ before all affixes (except וְ, וְ, וְ), furnish an important exception to the principle stated in 1. b above. The difference in treatment is due to the fact that the participial forms have an unchangeable vowel in the penult.

4. a. מֶלֶךְ (14:17) abs.; מֶלֶךְ (14:1) Const.; סֵפֶר¹ abs.; סֵפֶר (5:1); נָעַר²

4. Seğolate-stems (§ 90.) deserve particular attention:

a. The form assumed in the absolute, viz., קִטְל from קִטְל, קִטְל from קִטְל, קִטְל from קִטְל, remains unchanged in the Construct singular of words with strong consonants or laryngeals.

b. In the singular before all suffixes the noun takes the primary form (§ 90.); ä is sometimes attenuated and ũ regularly becomes ö.

c. Before the plural affixes (absolute) a pretonic ä appears, and the primary vowel becomes Šwâ.

d. In the plural before light suffixes the pretonic â is retained.

e. In the plural Const. and before grave suffixes the â disappears, and the primary vowel is retained, though sometimes in attenuated or deflected form.

f. In the dual the form is generally that which is found in the plural (see c), sometimes that used in the sing. before suffixes (see b).

5. a. Nouns from bi-literal roots (§ 100.) of the Middle-Vowel class have monosyllabic forms with ô, ê and î everywhere except in some absol. sing. forms in which ḡ and ʾ appear as middle consonants. Cf. a similar development of diphthongs to consonants in English bower from older būr; dowel from older dowl; fire, often pronounced fiyur, from older fyr.

b. 'Āyīn Doubled (ע"ע) Seğolate-stems, before affixes of gender and number, and before suffixes, take Dāğēš-förtē in the second radical, the preceding vowel remaining short.

6. Lāmēd Hē (ל"ה) nouns ending in הַ lack this before affixes and suffixes beginning with a vowel; the tone-long â of the first radical,

a. Is retained when it would be pretonic, but

b. Yields to Š'wâ in the Construct (sing. or plur.), and when it would be ante-pretonic.

110. Classification of Noun-Stems

1. תְּהוֹ, פְּרִי, מִוֹת, אִם, נֶעַר, בְּקָר, סִפָּר, אֶרֶץ.
2. עָרַם, שָׂדֵה, לֵבַב, פָּבֵד, זָקַן, בָּשָׂר, אָדָם, דָּבַר.
3. עֶקֶרַב, מִשְׁפָּט, אֱלִים, שָׁבַת, עֲשָׂה, אֹיִב, עוֹלָם.
4. מְקִים, מְאֹר, אָרֹר, נָבִיא, אָסִיר, גָּדוֹל.
5. רָם, דִּין, שׂוֹר, סוֹם, עֲמוּד, גְּבוּר, חֲמוּר, כְּתָב.

For purposes of inflection, nouns may conveniently be divided into five classes:

1. The first class includes the so-called Seğolates, nouns which originally had one changeable vowel (§ 90.);
2. The second class includes nouns which have two changeable vowels; here belong stems which had originally the vowels \check{a} — \check{a} , \check{a} — \check{i} , \check{a} — \check{u} , \check{i} — \check{a} , etc. (§ 91.).

3. The third class includes nouns which have an unchangeable vowel, whether by nature or position, in the penult, and a changeable vowel in the ultima (§ 92.).

4. The fourth class includes nouns which have a changeable vowel in the penult, and an unchangeable vowel in the ultima (§ 93.).

5. The fifth class may, for convenience, include all nouns of whatever origin, the vowel, or vowels, of which are unchangeable.

[For general remarks concerning the inflection of Seğolates see § 109.]

1. Instead of the original pure vowel — , there appears everywhere in u-class stems the deflected vowel — (δ), the latter always representing the former in closed, as distinguished from sharpened, syllables.

2. Instead of simple $\text{Š}^w\hat{a}$ as a reduction of the original ũ in the pl. abs. and the pl. with light suffixes, a compound $\text{Š}^w\hat{a}$ (—) is generally found.

3. In the laryngeal stems, — and — before — become — and — (δ).

NOTES¹

1. In reference to the a-class stems, it may be noted that,

a. In pause the ă generally becomes â (וָרַע),² though sometimes ě remains (קָרַם);³

b. In such forms as דָּשָׂא (1:11), פָּרָא (16:12), the â is to be treated as a full consonant.

c. In many forms, the original ă , before suffixes and before the dual ending, is attenuated to ĭ (וְבָחִי).⁴

d. In a few a-class stems, especially 'פ laryngeal, before suffixes, ě (—) stands under the first radical instead of the primary ă (נְגַדָּי).⁵

² Gen. 1 : 29.

³ Gen. 2 : 8.

⁴ Ex. 23 : 18.

⁵ Gen. 2 : 20.

e. In a few plurals, like שְׁבָעִים, הַשְּׁעִים, pretonic ־ does not appear.

f. There are a few forms, especially ל' laryngeal, which make a Construct like קִטַּע instead of קִטַּע (cf. וֹרַע).¹

2. In reference to i-class stems it may be noted that,

a. In a few cases, ־ (ë) stands under the first radical instead of the original ־ (עֲזָרִי,² עֲגָלִי).³

3. In reference to u-class stems it may be noted that,

a. The ō is sometimes retained before suffixes (הַתְּאָרִי).⁴

b. The writing ־ (ö) is sometimes found as a substitute for ־ (°) (קָדְשִׁים).⁵

4. Sēgōlates with the vowel under the second radical,

a. In some cases have the usual inflection (שְׁכַבְהָ from שָׁכַב),⁶

b. In others treat this vowel as unchangeable (וְאֵבִי).⁷

c. In still others preserve it by an artificial doubling of the final consonant before affixes (מְעַטִּים).⁸

REMARKS

1. The absolute forms of Middle-Vowel stems are perhaps developments from diphthongal forms which were the basis of both Absolute and Construct forms; mauθ or mawθ, e. g., becoming môθ and māwěθ; bayt or baiθ becoming both báyit and bêθ; cf. the analogous case of the Middle-Vowel Pī'ēl forms.

2. In פְּרִי, the פְּ is a reduction of the original פַּ, while î = iy, the third radical with a helping vowel; the ĩ of פּרִי in פְּרִי is an attenuation of the original פַּ, while the פְּ of פְּרִיכֶם is a deflection of ä.

3. In ע"ע stems, the original vowel, ä, ĩ, ũ, is generally changed in the abs. sg.; but before affixes the second radical is doubled and the original vowel retained, though ö is rarely found for ũ.

NOTES

1. In reference to Middle-Vowel stems, it may be noted that,
 - a. Full tri-literal forms sometimes occur in the plural (הַיָּלִים),¹ and before suffixes and Hē directive (בֵּיתָהּ).²
 - b. Stems ע"ע, (e. g., ראש³ = ראשׁ, צאן⁴ = צאן) are a-class Seğolates, the ä, lengthened to â, becoming ô; these also will be included in the fifth class.
2. In reference to ל"ה stems, it may be noted that,
 - a. Forms like פְּרִי become, in pause, פְּרִי,⁵ the ě being a deflection of the original ä.
 - b. Inflected forms like שְׁלוֹי,⁶ שְׁלוֹת,⁷ שְׁלוֹים,⁸ אַרְיֹת,⁹ צְבָאִים¹⁰ for צְבָיִים, occur; cf. also forms like בְּכָה,¹¹ תְּהוּ¹²; these are some of the irregular forms assumed by ל"ה stems.
3. In reference to ע"ע stems, it may be noted that,
 - a. While הָר¹³ stands even in Abs., יָם¹⁴ stands even in Const.
 - b. Forms like תִּי have Const. like תִּי.¹⁵
 - c. פַּ is often attenuated to פְּ (פִּתְּךָ¹⁶ for פִּתְּךָ).

REMARKS

1. This class includes all nouns with two, orig. short, vowels.

2. While the original penultimate ā, in Const. pl. and before grave suffixes, is generally attenuated to ĩ, it is retained unchanged under laryngeals.

3. In kã-ṭil forms, there appears in the Const. sg., ā instead of ĩ, because the latter cannot stand in a closed accented syllable;² in the sg. with grave suffixes, this ĩ is deflected to ě.

4. The הָ and הַ in the Abs. and Const. of לְהָ stems is for äy; this äy is entirely lacking before affixes of gender and number, and before suffixes.

² This principle is known as Philipp's law, after the scholar who first formulated it.

5. Many words artificially double the last consonant before all affixes; the preceding vowel is then necessarily sharpened. Here may be included,

a. Adjectives in \bar{o} , עגל, נקד, אדם, etc.

b. Nouns in \bar{a} , גמל, the adjective form קטן, etc.

NOTES

1. The אֶ- of אֶל־ stems stands unchanged even in the Construct.

2. Some words of this class assume in the Construct state a Seğolate form, e. g., כְּתָף¹ from כְּתָף, יֵרֶךְ² from יֵרֶךְ; some of these words have also the regular form in the Const., e. g., כָּבֵד, both כְּבֹד³ and כְּבֹד.⁴

3. In some verbal adjectives the \bar{e} , lowered from \bar{i} , is retained even in the Construct state, e. g., חָפֵץ,⁵ שָׂמַח,⁶ יָשָׁן.⁷

REMARKS

1. This class includes nouns with an unchangeable vowel in the penult; this may be a naturally long vowel, or a short vowel in a closed syllable.

2. The following formations are included: קוּטֵל, קוּטֵל, קוּטֵל, קֶטֶל, קֶטֶל, קֶטֶל, קֶטֶל; many nouns with the third, or the second and third radicals reduplicated; some nouns with א, ה, ו and י prefixed; מְקַטֵל, מְקַטֵל, מְקַטֵל, מְקַטֵל, מְקַטֵל, מְקַטֵל, תְּקַטֵל, תְּקַטֵל; many nouns formed by affixes; some nouns with four radicals.

The existence of the form kōtāl from kātāl is questioned by many scholars, who trace such words to a kāutāl form. But many proper names and the kāl active participle seem to make this form secure.

3. Original ä in the sg. Const., and in the sg. with grave suffixes remains unchanged; it is reduced in the pl. Const., and in the pl. with grave suffixes.

4. An original i in the sg. before הַ, כֶּם, כֶּן is usually unchanged, but sometimes is deflected to ě; before all other suffixes and before affixes it is reduced.

5. The Kāl act. participle of verbs ל"ה has the same ending (הַ), as was seen in certain nouns of the second class, like שָׂרָה; but its first vowel is unchangeable.

6. Many nouns of this class treat the ultimate changeable vowel in the manner described in § 112. R. 5, i. e., artificially double the following consonant, and sharpen the vowel:

- a. אֹפֶן (§ 92.); שׁוֹשֵׁן (§ 99.); מְשֻׁגָּב (§ 96.); and others.
- b. רַעֲנָן, שְׂאֲנָן (§ 94.); אֲרַמְדִים (§ 94. 2); and others.
- c. בְּרוּל, בְּרַמֵּל (§ 99. 1. a); גְּלִגֵּל (§ 100. 1); and others.
- d. עֲקָרָב, חֲרַטֵּם, קֲרַדֵּם (§ 101. 1); and others.

REMARKS ON NOUNS OF THE FOURTH CLASS

1. The fourth class includes nouns which have a changeable vowel in the penult and an unchangeable vowel in the ultima. Here belong many adjectives like קָטוֹל and קָטִיל (§ 91. 1. a, b); passive participles like קָטוּל (§ 91. 1. c); formations in which a — , originally in a closed syllable, has become — in an open syllable; and a few nouns ending in ōn with a pretonic — (99. 2. e).

2. In a few ל"ה stems with the form קָטִיל (§ 91. 1. b) the radical י, when final, in the absence of an affix, is absorbed in the formative vowel î ; but when affixes of any kind are attached, it appears in the form of Dâğěš-förtē; עֲנִיִּים.

REMARKS ON NOUNS OF THE FIFTH CLASS

1. This class includes those nouns which do not suffer change of any kind in inflection.

2. Here belong monosyllabic nouns like סוּם, דִּין, שׁוּר, with an unchangeable vowel; participles like קָם and מָת; formations like קָטַל, קָטוּל, קָטוּל, קָטוּל (§ 91. d-f) which have an unchangeable vowel, with a Š^wâ reduced from an original ī or û; formations like מְקַטוּל, מְקַטוּל, מְקַטוּל (§ 96. 6-8); formations like תְּקַטוּל, תְּקַטוּל (§ 98. 4, 5); some formations with the affix ôn (§ 99. 2); and a few denominatives (§ 103.).

REMARKS

1. The feminine ending is added to the ground form, ě and ö appearing in i-class and u-class stems in closed syllables; the older form ת appears in the Const. and before suffixes.

2. The pretonic â is found in the feminine declension as well as in the masculine.

3. Examples of weak feminine Seğolates and monosyllabic nouns with feminine ending are (1) נְעֵרָה, (2) טְהָרָה, (3) עוֹלָה, (4) צִידָה, (5) בִּינָה, (6) סוּפָה, (7) אֱלִיָּה, (8) תִּיָּה, (9) מְדָה,

(10) וְזָמָה, (11) חִקָּה, of which those numbered 3-6, 8-11 suffer no change of stem, following the inflection of חִקָּה given above.

4. Just as מִלְּךָ is derived from מֶלֶךְ, so גְּבִירָה is derived from גִּבּוֹר by the addition of תְּ, and the deflection of ä to ě. Before suffixes the original — is attenuated to ĩ.

REMARKS

1. The same stem-changes take place before the ending תְּ as before the plural endings (§ 109.).

2. In the Const. sg. and pl., as well as before suffixes, the original ä of the first syl., while retained with laryngeals, is generally attenuated to ĩ.

3. The Š^owā before the endings תְּ (Const. sg.) and תַּ (Const. pl.) is silent, except in laryngeal nouns where it serves as a helping-vowel.

4. Before the fem. ending the final י of לָהּ forms is lacking; in this case the ä of the first syl. is rounded or reduced according to the position of the accent.

5. Several nouns with the form קִטְלָה in the Abs. have קִטְלָת in the Const.; these in the singular as well as those which have the form קִטְלָת in the Abs., attenuate the original ä to ï before suffixes.

6. Nouns of the form קִטְלָה frequently retain the — in the Construct.

NOTES

1. Forms like kă-ṭil become kă-ṭäl when the fem. ending is added.
2. Forms like גָּרָה, זָבָה, מִתָּה, from bi-literal roots in which the stem-vowel is naturally long, retain it in the Const.

REMARKS

1. Feminines in תְּ of the third class arise in the same manner as those described in § 115. 1. R. 4, the ground-form generally having ä in the ultima, though sometimes ü.

2. As before, the original ä (or ö deflected from ü) appears before suffixes.

3. The feminine participle most frequently assumes the form קִטְלָת, though קִטְלָה is common; the form יִלְדָּת (Gen. 16:11) is of interest.

4. Feminines of the fourth class present no points of difficulty.

116. Irregular Nouns

1. אב Father; Const. אָבִי; with suf., אָבִי (my father), אָבִיךָ, אָבוֹת; Const., אָבוֹתָּךְ or אָבוֹתָיךְ plur., אָבוֹתָיךְ; Const., אָבוֹתָיךְ.

REMARKS

1. The numeral אֶחָד one is an adjective, standing after and agreeing with its noun.

2. The numeral שְׁנַיִם (fem. שְׁתַּיִם, pronounced štă-yim) is a noun, used either in the appositional or Construct relation with the word which it enumerates, and agreeing with it.

3. The numerals from three to ten are abstract feminine substantives, used in appositional construction with the noun which they enumerate. The feminine form is used with masculine nouns; the masculine is a shorter form used with feminines.

4. The numerals from eleven to nineteen are formed by uniting עָשָׂר ten (or the feminine form עָשָׂרָה) with the units; here it may be noted:

a. In eleven, אַחַד and אַחַת have a form like that of the Construct.

b. עֶשְׂתֵּי, in the second form of eleven, is to be connected with an Assyrian word išten (=one).

c. In twelve, שְׁנַיִם is a contraction of שְׁנַיִם, and שְׁנַיִ a shortened form of שְׁנַיִם, the contraction and shortening being due to the close connection of the words; these forms cannot be called Constructs.

d. The feminines from thirteen upward have a shortened, but not a real Construct, form.

5. The numerals thirty to ninety are formed by adding the masc. plur. ending יִם to the units, but twenty (עֶשְׂרִים) is the plural of ten (עֶשֶׂר).

6. The units are added to the tens by means of ן; in the earlier books preceding the tens, in later books following them.

7. The units take the noun in the plural; the tens, when before it, take the noun in the singular, when after it, in the plural.

8. The numerals eleven to nineteen take the noun in the plural, except in the case of a few very common nouns like day, man, etc.

9. The ordinal first is ראשון (cf. ראש, head).

10. The ordinals from two to ten are formed from the corresponding cardinals by means of the termination י, another י being inserted between the second and third consonants. Note that רביעי lacks the initial א.

11. Above ten, cardinals are used for ordinals.

12. The feminines of the ordinals are used to express fractional parts.

118. Adverbs

1. a. אי Where?; אן There; לא Not; שם There; אל Not.
 b. זה Here; הנה Hither; שלוש Thrice; שבע Seven times.
 c. מאד Very; חוץ Abroad; לבד Alone; מבית Within.
 d. הרבה Much; היטב Well; השכם Early; מהר Speedily.
 e. אמן Firmly; טוב Well; ראשונה Formerly; נפלאות Wonderfully.
 f. מדוע (= מה-ידוע) Why?; מלמעלה (= מעלה with מן and ל) Upward; למה Wherefore?
2. a. הן Here is; הנני, הנך, הננו, הנכם, הנם, etc.
 b. יש There is; ישך, ישנו, ישכם.
 c. אין There is not; אינני, אינך, איננו, אינכם, etc.
 d. איה Where is?; איכה, איו, אים.
 e. עודם, עורנו, עודנה, עורנו, עודך, עודני Still is;

1. Adverbs, and words used adverbially, may be briefly classified as follows:

- a. Those which may be called primitive.
- b. Pronouns and numerals used in an adverbial sense.
- c. Nouns, either alone or with a preposition.
- d. Infinitives absolute, especially of Hif'il and Pī'el stems.
- e. Adjectives of all formations, especially in the feminine.
- f. Words formed by the composition of two or more distinct words.

2. Certain adverbial particles, involving a verbal idea and thus often dispensing with the copula, take suffixes. The suffixes attached are, in most cases, the verbal suffixes. The so-called Nûn Demonstrative (§ 71. 2. c. (3) and N. 1) is of frequent occurrence.

119. Prepositions

1. אַחַר After; בֵּין Between; בְּעַד About; וְזוּלָתִי Besides; יַעַן On account of; מוֹל Over against; נֶגֶד Before; עַד During, until; עַל Upon; עִם With; תַּחַת Under, in place of.
2. מִתַּחַת From under; לְמַן Since; אֶל-בֵּין Till between; לְפָנַי Before; לְפִי According to; לְמַעַן For the sake of; בְּבִלְי Without; מִבְּלִי For lack of, without; בְּעוֹד During; כִּדְרִי According to measure of.
3. a. אַחַר After, more often אַחֲרַי; with suf., אַחֲרָיו, אַחֲרֵינוּ, etc.
- b. אֶל- Unto, poet., אֵלַי; with suf., אֵלַיְךָ, אֵלַיְכֶם, אֵלַיְכֶן, etc.
- c. בֵּין Between; with sg. suf., בֵּינִי, בֵּינֶךָ, בֵּינוּ, (בֵּינֵינוּ (K'ri); with plur. suf., בֵּינֵינוּ, בֵּינֵיכֶם, also בֵּינוֹתֵינוּ.
- d. סָבִיב Around; with suf., סָבִיבֶיךָ, סָבִיבֵינוּ, also with fem. סָבִיבְתֵיךָ, סָבִיבְתֵינוּ, etc.
- e. עַד Unto, poet., עָרַי; with suf., עָרַיְךָ, עָרַיְכֶם, עָרַיְכֶן.
- f. עַל Upon, poet., עָלַי; with suf., עָלַיְךָ, עָלַיְכֶם, עָלַיְכֶן.
- g. תַּחַת Under; with suf., תַּחַתִּי, תַּחַתֶּיךָ, תַּחַתֵּנוּ, תַּחַתֵּיכֶם, תַּחַתֵּיכֶן; cf. also the form with Nûn Demonstrative תַּחַתְּנָה.

1. Prepositions were originally, in most cases, nouns; they were generally Constructs, governing the following noun as if it were a genitive.

Note.—Many words in common use as prepositions still retain their original force as substantives.

2. Prepositional phrases, composed of two prepositions or of a preposition and a noun, or of a preposition and an adverb, occur frequently.

3. Many prepositions, especially those denoting space and time, are in reality plural nouns; some of them, when standing alone, have the form of the plural Construct, ending in ־י ; before pronominal suffixes, most of them assume this form.

Note.—For the inseparable prepositions, see §§ 47. 1-5; 51. 3-5.

120. Conjunctions

1. ו And; או Or; אף Also; אם When, if, or.
2. כי That, because, for, when.
3. אל That not; פן That not, lest; בטרם Before that; אשר .
4. $\text{עַקֵּב אֲשֶׁר, תַּחַת כִּי, תַּחַת אֲשֶׁר, עַל-כִּי, עַל-אֲשֶׁר, כִּי אֲשֶׁר, לְמַעַן אֲשֶׁר}$ Because, since; עַקֵּב כִּי According as.

Conjunctions may be classified as to their origin as follows:

1. Certain words used only as conjunctions, the origin of which is, in most cases, doubtful.
2. Certain words which were originally pronouns.
3. Certain words which were originally substantives, or composed of a substantive and a preposition.
4. Prepositions which, by the addition of אשר or כי , become themselves a part of a compound conjunction.

Note 1.—In general it may be said that any preposition may be followed by אשר or כי , and be used as a conjunction.

Note 2.—In many cases the אשר or כי is omitted, and the preposition standing alone used as a conjunction.

121. Interjections

1. אה Ah! הא Ho! אה aha! הם Hush! אי Alas!
2. אוי Woe! הן Behold! ראה Lo! הבה Come on!
 לכה Come on! הלילה Far be it! כי I beseech! נא Pray!

Interjections may be divided into two classes:

1. Those which were originally interjections, "natural sounds called forth by some impression or sensation."
2. Those which were originally substantives or verbal forms, which have become interjections by usage.
